2 DEAD IS TOLL OF CITY'S HEAT AS 7 COLLAPSE

Man Succumbs in His Store; Death Claims Stricken Marylander.

HUMIDITY DECREASE CHECKS CASUALTIES

Temperature on Streets Climbs Up to Near New Record.

WEATHER FORECAST OFFERS NO RELIEF

Several Federal Departments Give Afternoon Off to Employes.

TEMPERATURES

	Kiosk	Weather Bureau
12 m.	94	91
2 p. m.	100	94
4 p. m.	103	95
6 p. m.	101	93
8 p. m.	84	76
10 p. m.	81	75

Kiosk registered at 3:30 and through to 4 p. m. 103 degrees and Weather Bureau at 3:30 registered 97 degrees.

Heat took a toll of two lives and seven prostrations when the thermometer in the street climbed to a near-record mark of 103 degrees yesterday afternoon. Providentially, the humidity dropped below normal for this latitude and at this time of year, else the heat would have been intolerable and the number of prostrations appalling, weather prophets said.

No relief is promised by the Weather Bureau for today. Several Government departments closed yesterday afternoon on account of the heat.

William Ed Bell, 1209 Park road northwest, fell dead in his delicatessen store at 800 K street northwest at noon. Physicians said death was caused by the heat.

Bert Norton, 60 years old, of Suitland, Md., who was brought to Casualty Hospital suffering from the heat Sunday midnight, died at 9 o'clock last night. He was found unconscious in a ditch along the roadway at Green Gables, Md., and rushed here by Volunteer Firemen's Rescue Squad No. 2. Heart attack superinduced by heat was given as the cause of death.

Prostrations Reported.

Others prostrated were Alfred Churchill, 29 years old, of 2000 F street northwest; Betty Shapiro, 25 years old, of North Capitol and O streets; Jesse Neubern, 29 years old, negro, 608 N street northwest; Alma Minnick, 23 years old, negress, 1225 Linden street northeast, and Milliard W. Wheeler, 58 years old, mail carrier, of 1832 North Capitol street.

Weather Bureau records show that the mercury atop the building and in the shade has climbed to 104 degrees several times, once in July in the last three years. That was July 21, 1926. It mounted to 97 July 4, 1928.

The same thermometer registered a maximum of 97 degrees at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Kiosk heat, which is reflected heat as well as the direct heat from the sun, and the heat one suffers in the street, ranges from six to ten degrees higher than the Weather Bureau registration.

Bell was sitting at his desk when overcome. He collapsed and fell to the floor. Emergency Hospital ambulance and No. 1 Rescue Squad responded. Dr. Rutkoski said that Mr. Bell was dead when he arrived.

Miss Shapiro was overcome while at work in a downtown store. She was rushed to Emergency Hospital, where she was treated and her condition said to be not serious.

Mail Carrier Stricken.

Wheeler, the mail carrier, was delivering mail at New York avenue and Fourth street when he was stricken. He was taken to Sibley Hospital, treated and sent home with instructions not to venture out into the sun for several days.

Jesse Neubern was overcome while working on a building of the Tompkins Construction Co. downtown. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Alfred Churchill was painting on the Y. M. C. A. Building when stricken. He, too, was taken to Emergency, treated and allowed to go home.

Alma Minnick was riding in a taxicab when the heat struck her down as the cab passed Seventh and F streets northwest. She was taken to Casualty Hospital, where her condition was said to be undetermined.

Humidity Falls.

Had not the humidity fallen in intensity, it is feared that the toll here would have been appalling. The density registered at 32 degrees, 4 degrees less than the average for this latitude at this time of year.

However, the heat became so intense in many buildings, particularly frame

Woman Pitches Tent On $100,000 Corner in Fight for Possession

Capital Resident Claims Right to Recover Silver Spring Property Leased to Maryland Garage After Firm, Dissatisfied With Contract, Halts Erection of Filling Station.

Acting on the advice of her lawyer that "possession is nine points of the law," Mrs. Anne Bartsch Dunne, a physician of 2107 Connecticut avenue northwest, has pitched her tent on a valuable corner property in Silver Spring, over possession of which she is engaged in a controversy with the Maryland Garage of Silver Spring.

Mrs. Dunne is the owner of a valuable piece of property at the intersection of Georgia avenue and the Colesville pike, which is estimated to be worth approximately $100,000. The garage people decided that the corner would be an ideal location for a gasoline filling station and approached Mrs. Dunne with a request for a lease on the property. The lease was arranged and the garage people began work of digging out the corner in which they planned to erect the filling station.

When they had about completed the excavation work they discovered that the lease contract contained a clause which permitted Mrs. Dunne to freeze them out at any time she desired in spite of the lease. Work was stopped and they began inquiring into the matter.

Mrs. Dunne decided that they had broken their contract by not constructing the station and consulted her attorney, George H. Lamar, of Washington and Rockville. The attorney filed ouster proceedings with Justice of the Peace Charles Clark, of Silver Spring. A hearing will be held tonight at the Montgomery County Building at Silver Spring.

In the meantime, by advice of counsel, Mrs. Dunne and a woman companion have erected a small pyramid tent on the disputed territory and are residing there.

The garage company is represented by Attorney Joseph C. Cissel, of Silver

DRUG SHIPMENT WORTH MILLION SEIZED BY U. S.

Opium Found in Baggage of Chinese Vice Consul's Wife on Coast.

TRUNKS BROKEN OPEN BY CUSTOMS OFFICERS

PACKAGES GIVEN HER FOR FRIENDS, IS CLAIM

Discovery Closes Two-Year Smuggling Investigation in San Francisco.

San Francisco, July 8 (A.P.).—Opium valued at approximately $1,000,000 was found late today by United States customs officials, who smashed open trunks and suitcases belonging to Mrs. Ying Kao, wife of the Chinese vice consul in San Francisco.

Three thousands tins of opium were found in seven large wardrobe trunks and four suitcases, which had been brought to this city from China by the vice consul's wife.

Ying Kao, the vice consul, and his wife were present as the customs men opened the trunks and discovered the contraband.

Continuing the investigation over the protests of Mrs. Kao's attorneys, Customs Agents John W. Smith and Robert Harris broke the seals which, under usual procedure, passed the trunks through the customs without a check by officials, and investigated the contents of the trunks, which were held on arrival here from China.

Fine Silks and Laces Found.

In addition to the opium, the officers said they discovered hundreds of pieces of expensive silks and fine laces, upon which no duty had been paid.

Three pieces of baggage, which Mrs. Kao claimed were her own personal belongings, were not searched, but were sealed awaiting word from Washington as to their disposal tomorrow.

The search, officials said, culminated a two-year investigation by Smith and special Treasury agents, and was said to have some connection with the arrest and conviction of William Rose, former clerk in the Hawaiian United States Court, and two wealthy Honolulu Chinese.

The search was conducted by permission of the State Department and word was awaited here by the Collector of Customs as to the disposition of Mrs. Kao and her husband who arrived on the scene as officials were opening the trunks.

Lays Blame on Friends.

Mrs. Kao professed ignorance of the contents which she told the officers were the property of friends in China, who influenced her to use her diplomatic privileges to bring baggage into this country.

At their instance, she said, she procured the certificates of exemption from search and had them attached to eleven pieces of baggage. She understood at the time, she declared, the baggage contained "presents" for friends of her friends in this country.

When asked to reveal the names of the people here who were to receive the "presents" she refused, saying that as she now knew they contained opium, those who requested her to have the baggage brought here "would surely kill her or have friends in San Francisco do away with her at their orders."

Before the examination of the trunks here, John L. McNab and Timothy Healy, prominent San Francisco attorneys retained by the Kaos to protect their interests, withdrew from the case.

Lawyers' Protests Vain.

Representing the Chinese and his wife were Attorneys Aaron Cohen and Vincent Surr. Before the search started they protested vigorously on the grounds that the search was a violation of the treaty rights between China

AIRPLANE BELIEVED FAR AT SEA ON MAINE-TO-ROME ATTEMPT; "GOING FINE" IS LATEST REPORT

Amphibian Escort Loses Sight of Pathfinder Off Portland.

LONG-DELAYED CREW DEFIES FOG AT START

SHIP HAS NO RADIO; CARRIES NO LIFEBOAT

Favoring Winds Causes Gasoline Supply to Be Cut Down. Rome Grows Eager.

Old Orchard, Me., July 8 (A.P.).—Two American aviators, twice prevented from starting across the Atlantic by the wrecking of their plane as they attempted a take-off, tonight were believed to be over the ocean driving the monoplane Pathfinder toward Rome.

Roger Q. Williams, pilot, and Lewis A. Yancey, navigator, determined on the take-off even though heavy fog covered the beach and held visibility to less than a quarter of a mile.

The only report of the plane, which took off at 7:49 (Eastern standard time) was from Lieut. L. M. Melka, of the Coast Guard, who accompanied the Pathfinder in an amphibian. He lost sight of the Rome-bound plane an hour later 75 miles off Portland lightship. She was then going "fine."

Lack of reports of the progress of the silver and green plane did not discourage friends nor Mrs. Gertrude Yancey, wife of the navigator. The fog which caused Williams to have a line of lime poured down the beach to mark his take-off, was general all along the coast.

Gasoline Load Cut Down.

The plane had 445 gallons of gasoline—55 less than the scheduled 500—to carry it the 4,232 miles to the Eternal City, along the plotted course. Reduction of the load was ordered at the last minute, apparently because the fliers feared they could not get the heavily loaded ship off the sands.

For a time it was thought the plane might return in a few hours as Yancey told Ben Zebora, mechanic that if a check of the fuel used showed there was not enough to carry through the Pathfinder would be brought back.

Zebora, who had worked on both the Pathfinder and the Green Flash, which was wrecked on its second attempt to take off on June 13, cried when Yancey ordered him to remove eleven of the five-gallon cans of gasoline. He said he felt it might mean the difference between success or failure of the flight.

The aviators must get through to land or alight near a ship if forced down or there will be but little hope of their rescue. They carried no flares, no lifeboats, no radio—only two air cushions.

Favoring Winds Forecast.

The normal cruising speed of the Pathfinder—98 miles an hour—would bring it to the Italian capital about 9 o'clock, Eastern time, Wednesday morning. Reports of favoring winds over most of the course were said by friends to have been the reason for cutting down the fuel supply.

Williams got the plane off the beach just 20 minutes before the incoming tide would have prevented a start. The fliers estimated the hop would take from 45 to 50 hours, if all went well.

The Air Via Transport Co. of New York, of which Williams is president, was revealed tonight as the backer of the flight. Charles Ramsgate, New York attorney and Williams' business manager, said the flight, including the plane, which was purchased from Mrs. James A. Stillman, had cost $30,000.

The course, as outlined by Yancey, will take the Pathfinder over Cape Sable, N. S., then East Southeast to the "Corner," junction of ship lanes 1,000

5 PHYSICIANS CANCEL KING'S VACATION TRIP

British Public Thrown Into State of Anxiety Again Just After Special Service.

SINUS OBJECT OF WORRY

London, July 8 (A.P.).—The British public, fresh from yesterday's thanksgiving services for the recovered health of King George, relapsed into a state of anxiety today when no fewer than five doctors canceled the monarch's projected trip to the summer palace at Sandringham. The postponement was announced only three hours before the royal party was scheduled to leave London.

The public anxiety was only slightly lessened by announcements that an X-ray examination had been carried out this afternoon and that the king's general health was so good he was able to take his usual walk with Queen Mary in the palace grounds. The examination was decided on after the king's regular physicians had found that the sinus in the right side was not progressing in a satisfactory manner.

The result of the examination, it is expected, will be announced tomorrow. Meanwhile it may be another week before the king will be allowed to go to Sandringham. The royal servants who had gone there in advance were recalled today.

The trip to Sandringham had been anticipated by the king for some time. It was said that he had even ordered some new guns with the idea that he might possibly enjoy some duck shooting there.

After the X-ray examination had been carried out, his majesty returned to Buckingham Palace gardens for tea and spent a considerable time sitting in the grounds with the queen.

The king did not go into the palace until after 7 p. m. At a late hour tonight officials at the palace stated his majesty was quite comfortable.

The Prince of Wales tomorrow will hold a full-dress official investure on behalf of his majesty for the persons honored in the king's birthday list.

GANG MURDERS BOY AS RANSOM IS PAID

MOTHER IDENTIFIES CHILD

Boston, July 8 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—One of the cruelest boy murders in local crime history started the police of several cities on the trail of a gang of Black Hand slayers today following the discovery of the body of 10-year-old Salvatore De Mora in a marshland off the old Lynn turnpike near the Revere-Saugus line.

The killing was blamed directly upon blackhanders when the father of the boy, Santi De Mora, well-to-do North End merchant, whose alleged attempts at bootlegging as a side issue aroused the wrath of gangs, turned over letters demanding $5,000 ransom. This amount was paid, but the killers murdered the boy and tossed his body into the marshes, according to the father.

Soon after the heartbroken mother had made positive identification of the badly decomposed body, police started a widespread search for a criminal character in the North End.

The boy has been missing since June 20, when he was last seen in

ARLINGTON SLAYING IS CALLED MURDER

NEW FACTS ARE LEARNED

William Francis Mudd, 26-year-old driver, of 1101 W street southeast, met his death early Sunday morning through murder perpetrated by an unidentified person or persons who fractured his skull with a blunt instrument.

This was the finding of Dr. B. H. Swain, coroner of Arlington County, after an autopsy yesterday morning at the District Morgue, where the body of Mudd has lain since his mysterious death at his home following a party at the Arlington home of Grover Good, 28 years old.

The murder report, signed also by Dr. W. C. Welburn, of Arlington County, was tendered by the coroner to Commonwealth Attorney William C. Gloth, who is conducting an intensive investigation into the case with the cooperation of Sheriff Howard B. Fields.

The Commonwealth attorney at the same time announced that no coroner's inquest would be held, but that a preliminary hearing would be scheduled as soon as he deemed it necessary.

A paramount development of the day was a surprise statement by Mrs. Marion Mudd, 28-year-old widow of the slain man an daguest at the party, who, from her cell in the Arlington County Jail, where she is held for investigation, yesterday emphatically maintained that her husband was apparently uninjured when he left Good's home. Her story immediately focused attention on the ride he made at that time to his home with companions in a truck owned and operated by George W. Crawford, 25 years old, of Mulhall, Va.

"He was not beaten up at Good's house," she cried in pleading with the authorities to believe her story whose details tended in part to clear away

DEMOCRATS DESIRE HOOVER TARIFF AID

Senate Minority's Leaders Sure He Sympathizes With Their Fight.

LIMITATION FORCES GAIN

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Senate Democrats are shaping their tariff fight with a view to having President Hoover definitely commit himself. They believe that in his heart the President sympathizes with the fight, theirs and that of the Progressive Republicans, to hold the tariff revision down.

But what good, politically or economically, they are asking, does this do unless they can definitely align the President with them?

Recent statements that have emanated from Democratic quarters vigorously attacking the pending Hawley bill and the purpose that the Senate regulars have in dealing with it have all been aimed in the general direction of so putting the President, or the administration, on the defensive that he will eventually have to say something.

Anticipating this and not relishing the possibility that any public statement by the President would not be so helpful for them, the regulars have begun to fight back. In public statements Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee, has said, in effect, that the Democrats are needlessly alarmed.

Change of Heart Claimed.

And from these statements have appeared several semiauthoritative statements that the big tariff men on the Senate finance committee had really suffered a change of heart, that they had come around to the President's way of thinking, that the tariff revision after all was to be very limited.

If any senator has really experienced such a revision of feeling it would be revealing to learn just who he is. Careful inquiry fails to justify any belief other than when the Senate finance committee gets through with the bill the rates will be as high if not higher than the present bill.

In the first place the members of the committee have not had any such formal gathering that any change of sentiment might be noted. They have been split up over several subcommittees ever since Congress adjourned and still have several weeks of these subcommittee hearings to conduct. It is now estimated that it will be early September, if not the middle of it, in fact, before the committee is ready to report the bill to the Senate.

Strangely enough, if the Democrats should succeed in having the President

EUROPE PLANS WAR ON AMERICAN TARIFF

Action at Amsterdam Causes Move Here to Meet Such Emergency.

HOOVER MAY TAKE HAND

By ALBERT W. FOX.

A tariff war of unprecedented proportions is being organized against the United States by European nations under French leadership now represented at the fifth biennial congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, which yesterday began its sessions at Amsterdam. The plan of battle, which calls for a united European front, caused apprehension here, but there are, so far, no indications that America will either weaken or call upon Europe to be merciful in framing her punitive program.

President Hoover, leaders of the Senate and the House, and members of the United States Tariff Commission are understood to be ready to initiate American-made plans of their own to cope with the threatened emergency. Before the European tariff was plans mature at Amsterdam there may be developments here which will cause France, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria, Hungary and other nations involved to reconsider their prospective joint anti-American program.

Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the United States Tariff Board, has framed a proposed amendment to the pending tariff bill which may place the necessary weapon in the hands of President Hoover to cope with precisely the situation that is developing. The amendment was not considered necessary by the House ways and means committee, but may be adopted by the Senate finance committee as a necessary emergency measure, or may at any time become part of the bill if the action of the European powers make a drastic step necessary.

This amendment broadens the scope of the President's powers, under section 622 of the last tariff act, so that the President, if Congress were not in session, could resort to a temporary embargo against the goods of offending nations which single out the United States as the objective of a tariff war.

The proposed amendment, broadening the effect of section 622 reads as follows:

"Whenever the President shall by proclamation declare an emergency to exist by reason of a State of War, or by reason of any act, practice, law or regulation of a foreign country, he may, by proclamation:

"(a) Authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to extend during the con-

Minnesota Man Accepts Appointment; 2 More to Be Named.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's task of selecting the members of the Federal Farm Board neared completion today with announcement that William F. Schilling, of Northfield, Minn., had accepted appointment as spokesman for the dairying industry.

Six of the board's eight places have now been filled and Mr. Hoover looks forward confidently to filling the two remaining vacancies before next Monday, at which time the board will gather at the White House for its first meeting. All of the appointees have notified the President they will be present.

Italian Racketeer Sought Now in Marlow's Slaying

Police Believe New Suspect Procured Gunmen to Kill Victim, Whose Relation to Mafia Is Made Known by Commissioner Whalen.

New York, July 8 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The leader of a secret Italian racketeering fraternity is sought for procuring the murder of Frankie Marlow, Broadway sports promoter, Police Commissioner Whalen disclosed today.

The man sought has plenty of money and is widely known in New York City, Mr. Whalen said. He has not been known as a gangster and has fled the State, the commissioner added, since Marlow was thrown from an automobile near Flushing the night of June 24, dying from three pistol bullets.

Police will not disclose the name of the man sought, although Mr. Whalen said there is every reason to believe he hired professional murderers to kill Marlow. No warrant has been sworn out for him and detectives are searching an area outside of New York City, where he is supposed to be hiding.

"If the man we seek does not give himself up soon, I will announce his name," Mr. Whalen said. "He is the head of a powerful group of Italians in this city and we know he had extensive dealings with Marlow."

This latest theory is the fourth indicated by Mr. Whalen since the night of the murder. Nevertheless, it agreed in certain respects with information obtained by independent newspaper in-miles off Old Orchard, then along the 42st parallel to Cape Ortegal, Spain, across to Bayonne, France, and over the Mediterranean to Rome.

Yancey in addition to relieving Williams at the controls of the monoplane and plotting the course will make temperature readings for Dr. James H. Kimball, New York weather forecaster, whose advice on Atlantic weather conditions has been depended upon by all aviators.

Gloucester, Mass., July 8 (A.P.).—The Coast Guard amphibian plane, piloted by Lieut. Leonard P. Melka, which accompanied the transatlantic plane Pathfinder a distance to sea and which was at first believed to have been forced down because of an exhausted fuel supply, returned to her base here this afternoon. It was believed that Lieut. Melka strayed in the fog.

Rome Prepares Reception.

Rome, July 8 (A.P.).—Commander Patrick N. L. Bellinger, assistant United States naval attache here, who participated in the successful transatlantic flight of the NC-4 ten years ago, is making arrangements for the reception in Rome of the monoplane Pathfinder, which took off from Old Orchard, Me., this morning.

As soon as it becomes fairly definite that the Pathfinder has a good chance of attaining its goal Ambassador Fletcher, who now is enjoying his last diplomatic vacation in Italy, will hurry down from Montecatini, where he is taking the cure. This will be the third time that the ambassador has interrupted vacations because of impending flying guests. He left Montecatini when it was thought that Chamberlin and Levine were headed for Rome instead of Berlin. In September, 1927, he came back from Lake Como in the hope of meeting the crew of the ill-fated Old Glory.

The Pathfinder crew will have the choice of four large fields upon which to alight near Rome. Air officials believe the fliers will make for a large commercial field at Littorio, a few miles directly north of the city.

There are also three large military fields, Ciampino and Centocelli, to the west of the city, and Montecelli, northeast of Rome.

Late afternoon editions of the Rome newspapers announced the news of the take-off and caused much discussion in sidewalk cafes as to the aviators' chances. Travel agencies said that a number of tourists had canceled reservations at northern resorts plans to be in Rome when the Pathfinder arrives.

Haymarket Square alone. On June 25 the first Black Hand letter was received at the De Mora home. It was written in Italian and in substance told the father his boy was a captive. If $5,000 was not left at a designated spot at the rear of St. Anthony's Church, Revere, the boy would be killed, it stated. The father, instead of leaving the ransom, left a letter in which he told the kidnaper that if he would produce the child he would give the money gladly.

This was not satisfactory, and another letter was received, the most threatening sentence being:

"If you do not produce we will cut off your boy's head and throw it at your front doorstep."

Then the father left the money, and Salvatore failed to appear.

Letters Given to Police.

Capt. Arthur McConnell and Sergt. Robert Mooney received the letters from De Mora soon after the latter got them. They kept the contents from the public for fear the boy would be killed if it were known that De Mora was appealing to the police for aid.

The boy's body was discovered today when Fred Peterson, of Franklin, while traveling along the Lynn turnpike, was forced to repair a tire. In the marshes searching for a suitable stick of wood to act as a handle for his jack he stumbled across the gruesome sight of the De Mora boy's body, nineteen days dead.

He notified the Saugus police and the body was removed. Its condition was such that Dr. Nathaniel Breed declared it would be impossible to determine cause of death, although Medical Examiner Magrath, of Boston, will be asked to give expert opinion.

Lifer Stabbed in Fight In Trenton Prison House

Trenton, N. J., July 8 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Antonio Alvaretz, a lifer, was stabbed several times and painfully wounded today in a fight with Alfred Santoriello, an automobile thief, which took place in the State prison bothhouse. Santoriello was placed in solitary confinement pending trial and an investigation was started to determine where he obtained the knife used.

Principal Keeper Timothy J. Murphy has instituted a system of settling disputes among the prisoners with boxing gloves. Today's fight was the first to violate the rule.

POSTOFFICE DEFICIT ENDANGERS TAX CUT

MAY LIFT POSTAL RATES

President Hoover's "hope" of tax reduction in the face of steadily mounting obstacles may be seriously affected by the Post Office Department, in which the deficit for the fiscal year ended June 30 will exceed $100,000,000, possibly reaching $200,000,000, by far the greatest drain in the Treasury ever caused by this department which operates perennially at a loss.

The department's annual operating deficit has been steadily mounting for several decades, reaching a peak of $32,121,095.80 for the fiscal year 1928. So many additions have been made on the red side of the ledger for the past year that the department doesn't know how much it is in arrears for the year and President Hoover nominated an expert accountant for an assistant to the Postmaster General to bring the books up to date.

After a clean-up of department personnel, the President called Postmaster General Brown and his four assistants into conference at the White House yesterday and demanded a more accurate determination of steadily mounting deficits. Although it was denied at the White House that Mr. Hoover expressly intended to ask Congress to increase postal rates, it is believed that this may be forced upon the administration after the department's books are balanced.

The situation is acute. Since the outset of the last fiscal year Congress forced settlement of retroactive back pay to railroads—this item alone amounting to $51,000,000—reduced mail rates and increased pay of many postal employes, particularly night workers.

Losses on second class mail have increased, with new air mail and marine mail projects piling up further losses. With all this, the department is at sea in its own accounting books. Third Assistant Postmaster General Tilton, expert accountant, is hard at work trying to total and account for the greatly increased losses.

The President's statement contained two lines of this hope and twenty lines of obstacles and uncertainities pitted against this hope.

Starting in with the Postoffice Department, it appears on hte face of incomplete returns that the deficit in that department alone may equal the Government's surplus of $185,000,000 on June 30. On the basis of the Government surplus a drive started at once at the Capitol, led by Democrats, to demand further tax reduction in December.

At the outset of the administration's financial check-up on itself it seems likely not only that tax reduction is impossible but that legislation amounting actually to tax increases through provision for increased revenue, such as in increase of mail rates may be saddled upon the Hoover administration.

Johannesburg-Berlin Hop, Plan of Filsinger

Johannesburg, South Africa, July 8 (A.P.).—Ernst B. Filsinger, of St. Louis, Mo., today announced his intention of flying from this city to Berlin. The date for the attempt has not been fixed, but it will be made in a Moth plane piloted by Lieut. R. R. Bentley. This is the same machine in which the lieutenant two years ago flew 7,000 miles from London to South Africa.

Brig. Gen. Feland Ordered to Pacific

Brig. Gen. Logan Feland, of the United States Marine Corps, has been ordered to San Francisco, Calif., to take over the command of the Department of the Pacific, a post which was vacated recently by the death of Maj. Gen. Eli K. Cole.

Gen. Feland is expected to leave Washington, where he has been stationed on temporary duty since his return early this year from Nicaragua, within the next few days.

Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, who is in command of Marine Barracks at Quantico, Va., may be promoted shortly to the rank of major general, left unfilled by Gen. Cole's death, by virtue of his seniority. Gen. Feland, who is second on the seniority list, probably will be promoted to a major generalship upon the retirement, November 1, of Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune.

ADMITS DETROIT KILLING

New York, July 8 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Carl Delact, who washes dishes to make a living, hates women. He hates them so badly, he told police today, that he shot and killed a female in Detroit, Mich., four years ago.

He was arrested today and held in $5,000 bail charged with taking his grudge out on Miss Caroline Goodwin, 19, of Rahway, N. J., who is employed as a clerk by the New York Telephone Co.

In the heat of an early morning sun, Miss Goodwin was pushing her way through the Broadway crowd on her way to work. Suddenly she felt, amidst the jolts and shoves, what she thought was a tap on her ghoulder.

Swinging around, the young woman saw Delact brandishing a razor in his hand. She fainted and Delact vanished through the astonished crowds, shouting something about "killing her yet," at the top of his lungs.

Truck Driver Nabs Him.

He ran east on Vesey street. Joseph and Frank Gardarino, on the seat of the truck they were driving, realized the fellow was an apparent maniac. The two brothers moved swiftly, and one made a flying tackle and brought Delact down with a thud. In a moment there was a mass of moiling bodies, one on the other, struggling for the razor in the 23-year-old dishwasher's hand. Patrolmen Beaton and Kemack, on their way to take their posts, fought their way through the malestrom and secured the prisoner.

The fellow told the police his name, but suddenly refused to answer any questions save that he came to New York from Dayton, Ohio, his home.

Taken to a police station, the youth admitted he had "cut her up."

"Sure, I cut her," he said to police. "I don't like women and never did."

Never Saw Her Before.

He refused to say whether he had ever seen Miss Goodwin before. She, in the meantime, had been taken to Beekman Street Hospital, where a slash, 2 inches deep and 12 inches long, required fifteen stitches. At the hopital she said she had never seen Delact before that she could remember. She will recover.

After much urging by police, Delact said women had always bothered him to distraction and that he could not stand the sight of them.

According to police, he said:

"Why, hell, I left Detroit because I killed a woman. I came here to get away from women."

Although he refused to reveal the name of the woman he said he "killed," police communicated immediately with Detroit authorities in an effort to check up on the boy's story. He had not a penny in his pockets.

Youth Gets 5-Year Term For Attacking Girl, 14

A sentence of five years in the penitentiary was meted out to Clarence Miller, 21 years old, yesterday by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in the District Supreme Court, when Miller pleaded guilty of an attempted criminal assault on a 14-year-old girl.

A similar punishment was given Walter Smith, who pleaded guilty to a charge of joy riding. Smith took the automobile May 15. After entering his plea, he asked that his case be referred to the probation authorities. The investigation revealed that Smith had a previous criminal record and the maximum penalty was imposed.

Walter H. Dunlap To Succeed Klotz

New Utilities Commission Engineer Has Served it in Gas Cases.

Walter H. Dunlap yesterday was named by the Public Utilities Commission to fill the vacancy created by the enforced resignation of Capt. R. G. Klotz as engineer of the commission.

Mr. Dunlap's experience has been wide. He is an associate member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and a member of the American Statistical Association. Formerly he was a professor of civil engineering in the University of Iowa.

Subsequent to that he was connected with the valuation bureau of the Interstate Commerce Commission and was employed by the Norfolk & Western Railroad, the Virginia Bridge & Iron Co., of Roanoke, Va., and the Solvay Colliery Co.

Dunlap was temporarily employed by the commission in 1927 and 1928 as engineering cost analyst in the commission's proceedings to fix a new valuation for the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Companies. Formerly he was employed as a special investigator for the United States Coal Commission, bridge computor for the Interstate Commerce Commission, magnetic observer for the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. Mr. Dunlap was a captain in the Army Engineer Corps during the war. He is to begin work today with the Utilities Commission at a salary of $3,200.

The commission plans to enlarge its staff of engineering and accounting experts materially and has submitted estimates for the approval of the Budget Bureau to provide for such expansion.

Ogden Mills' Former Wife Is Bride of French Prince

Daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Became Associated With Oom the Omnipotent's Mystic Love Cult After Divorce From Undersecretary of Treasury.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Margaret Rutherford, former wife of Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, and later ballet dancer and devotee of the cult of Oom the omniponent, was married for the third time in Paris to Prince Charles Murat, son of Prince Joachim Napoleon Murat.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and the late Morris Rutherford, was one of New York society's most spectacular figures. She became the bride of Ogden Mills in one of the most brilliant weddings in the social season of 1911. Eight years later they were divorced in Paris.

Shortly thereafter, she became associated with the mystic order of the "Tantriks of India," a so-called love cult. At Nyack, N. Y., center of the cult, she met Sir Paul Dukes, who had been knighted for his services as head of the British secret service in Russia in the early days of the Soviet regime. He had come to America to recuperate from a nervous breakdown. They were married.

The Dukes lived in New York City and entertained advocates of a "new thought" movement. Early this year Lady Dukes was granted a Paris divorce.

In April, 1928, a year before her divorce, Lady Dukes made her stage debut here. Under her maiden name, Margaret Stuyvesant Rutherford, she became a member of the cast of Gabrilov's ballet, "Her Majesty's Escapade," at the Gallo Theater.

Today's marriage in Paris, celebrated at the Church of St. Francois the Savjour, was witnessed by Alan Rutherford, cousin of the bride; Jaques Balsan, husband of the former Consuelo Vanderbilt; the Duc d'Elchingen, and Prince Charles Murat's brother, Prince Joachim.

Gem Salesman Robbed Of $50,000 in Diamonds

Detroit, July 8 (A.P.).—Less than 15 minutes after his arrival in Detroit, Robert Rutzky, New York jewelry salesman, was robbed of $50,000 worth of diamonds by two armed men, who followed him into his hotel room, he reported. The men left Rutzky handcuffed to a bellboy and escaped with the gems which Rutsky carried in a money belt.

BETHESDA WOMAN HURT IN CAR CRASH

DRIVERS TO FACE COURT

Thrown from the automobile in which her husband was making a trial trip after putting down the first payment, Mrs. Mary A. Radford, 23 years old, of Bethesda, Md., received a possible fracture of the back and other injuries early last night, following a collision with another machine on the old Georgetown road near Auburn, Bethesda, Md.

The woman's husband, David H. Bradford, 26 years old, a baker, of Bethesda, was arersted after the accident on charges of reckless driving, having no registration card and operating without a license. Bethesda police then telephoned Hyman R. Weinstein, president of the Paragon Automobile Trading Co., 1318 Fourteenth street northwest, who is alleged to have sold Bradford his machine and permitted the latter to remove markers from another machine in the company's garage and place them on the new one. When he appeared he was charged with permitting markers belonging to another machine to be displaced. He was released on $100 bond and will appear in Rockville Police Court this morning.

Miss Lila E. Edmondston, of Bethesda, driver of the other car in the collision, according to Montgomery County police, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. She and Radford will appear in Rockville Police Court on July 23.

Last Rites Today For Mrs. Magoffin

Active Church Worker Dies After Long Illness at Takoma Park Home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Van Deman Magoffin, who died Sunday, following a lingering illness, at 6621 Easter avenue, Takoma Park, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the J. William Lee's Sons establishment, 332 Pennsylvania avenue. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Although a native of Ohio, Mrs. Magoffin was a resident of Washington for 26 years and was long an active worker in the Fourth Presbyterian Church. The widow of Thomas C. Magoffin, of Kansas, she was also the granddaughter of Joseph Van Deman, who fought with the Continental Army throughout the American Revolution and served as a bodyguard to George Washington at Valley Forge.

Surviving are two sons, Prof. Ralph Van Deman Magoffin, dean of the classical department, New York University and president of the Archeological Society of America, and Paul Magoffin, of this city; a daughter, Mrs. Harold Palmer, of Honolulu; a sister, Prof. Esther B. Van Deman, with the Carneige Foundation in Rome, Italy, and a brother, Samuel Van Deman, of Kansas.

Swedish Flier Prepares To Resume Gotham Hop

Reykjavik, Iceland, July 8 (A.P.).—Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flier, who is attempting to make the transatlantic flight from Stockholm to New York in several jumps, was ready tonight to take off tomorrow morning for Ivigtut, Greenland, the next leg of his flight.

A new Junkers motor, shipped from Germany, has been mounted by expert mechanics on Capt. Ahrenberg's airplane Sverige. A breakdown in his previous motor caused the Swedish flier to fail in four attempts to get away to Greenland early in June.

Capt. Ahrenberg is accompanied by Lieut. Axel Floden, navigator, and Robert Ljungiund, mechanic.

SLAYING AT PARTY IS CALLED MURDER

the deep-rooted impression among police that Mudd suffered his fatal injuries in the brawl climaxing the festivities.

"I saw him walk to the truck and get in," she continued. "He was raving and he said he was going to beat everybody up. He left the house in the truck with Crawford as driver and with Paul W. Cable, of Bolling Field. I am telling you the truth. I don't know how it all happened."

Admits Driving Truck.

Crawford, after surrendering himself to police at 9 o'clock Sunday night with his admission that "I knew you wanted me," readily asserted that he drove Mudd home, but disclaimed knowledge that Mudd had even been injured. Police made public also that in addition to Cable, Mudd was accompanied home also by Good, all of whom were together in the rear while Crawford was proceeding at a speed he claimed was 40 miles an hour.

Margaret Scanlon, 16 years old, of 219 Twelfth street northeast, also related a story which shed light on an angle of the case not made public by May Carlson, 23 years old, of 719 Sixth street southeast, whose declaration had formed the groundwork upon which the authorities were constructing their case.

The Scanlan girl, whose statement as accepted in full by police effected her release from custody, asserted that in walking from Good's home into the front yard at the height of the party she had discovered the Carlson woman and Mudd talking beside an automobile. She said both yelled at her to go back in the house and that she complied, remaining indoors and in her deafness failing to hear any subsequent commotion or knowing what transpired there later.

Tells of Fight by Car.

Her release was interpreted as indicating that the Arlington authorities have not entirely accepted the story of the Carlson woman, who stated on Sunday after her arrest that she was sleeping outside Good's home in an automobile, feeling indisposed from the effects of the revelry, when she was awakened to find Mudd with his hands around her throat.

"I began screaming, and the others rushed out of the house," she declared. "There was a fight right there by the side of the car and I can't remember exactly what happened."

In the face of these statements Crawford was held alone at the Alexandria Jail, while the others in the case, all of whom admitted their attendance at the hilarious drinking and dancing party, were held without bond in the Arlington County Jail at Fort Myer Heights.

Two Others Under Arrest.

Besides the Carlson woman, Good, Cable, Crawford and also Mrs. Mudd, the others under arrest there include Spencer E. Coxen, 27 years old, of 539 Ninth street southeast, and Olin W. Chisholm, 32 years old, of 1100 W street.

Mudd had been found unconscious and in a dying condition in his home by Mrs. Mudd upon her return from Good's house at 3 o'clock in company with the Scanlan girl and the Carlson woman. She immediately notified Eleventh Precinct police, the fire rescue squad and Casualty Hospital. Dr. H. J. Konzelman, of that institution, pronounced Mudd dead when he arrived.

Only one arrest was made yesterday in the case when Charles Padgett, of Columbia Pike, Arlington, was taken in custody on charges of illegal possession and sale of ardent spirits. Padgett, on questioning, admitted selling the liquor for the party, but maintained that he did not attend nor did he know any details of the activities there. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Commonwealth Attorney Gloth announced that he was thoroughly satisfied with the finding in the autopsy and that he did not plan to have the stomach of the murdered man sent to Richmond for an examination, as suggested.

COINER AND JONES NAMED AT STAUNTON

Republican and Anti-Smith Democrat to Run for House of Delegates.

G. O. P. LAUDED BY GARBER

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., July 8.—Republican and independent voters of Staunton and Augusta County gathered in the county courthouse here tonight, nominated Hallie E. Coiner, of Staunton, and B. W. Jones, of Churchville, as candidates for the Virginia House of Delegates from the Tenth Congressional District. The nomination was by acclamation.

Coiner is a Republican, while Jones is an "anti-Smith" Democrat.

James Fulton acted as chairman of the mass meeting, while Walter Christian was secretary. Following the nomination a brief address was made by J. A. Garber, of Rockingham County, representative in Congress from the Seventh District. Garber lauded the principles of the Republican party, declaring that the way to "a bigger and better Virginia" lay along the lines and principles of that party.

The speaker highly praised Dr. W. M. Brown, Republican and anti-Smith nominee for governor. He declared that the Democratic party has for the past 50 years been digging in the ashes of the past for an issue. He also scored Tammany Hall, stating that it had stolen from the Democratic party its principles aand chances of success.

About 100 voters attended the meeting.

and the United States under which baggage belonging to members of the Diplomatic Corps is usually granted immunity from search.

Smith, however, who supervised the searching of the trunks, said he had ample grounds for opening them. He also pointed out that Mrs. Kao had attached seals to the baggage and signed a declaration that the baggage was her own and that the responsibility rested on her.

Each of the cans contained five teals of opium. There were approximately 3,000 tins in the baggage, officials said.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury officials had received no information last night of the finding of 3,000 tins of opium in the baggage of Mrs. Ying Kao, wife of the Chinese vice consul in San Francisco, and any action that may be taken by the Government awaited this information.

C. C. Wu, the Chinese Minister, made injuiry at the State Department yesterday after the baggage had been seized and asked that a full report of the incident in San Francisco be handed him.

While no indication of the future course to be followed in the matter was given at the Treasury, Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary, expressed doubt that the opium found was worth more than $60,000.

Agents Abroad Gave Tip.

It was secret agents of the Treasury abroad who gave the information that the trunks and handbags of Mrs. Kao contained the opium and caused the seizure.

No request had been received at the Treasury from coast inspectors for permission to examine also the bags which Mrs. Kao said contained only her personal belongings. However, it was indicated that since contraband had already been found in the baggage of Mrs. Kao, her other bags also might be scrutinized if the agents believed they contained illicit goods.

The attitude of the American Government regarding such foreign officials as the vice consul is that they do not enjoy the usual diplomatic privilege of nonsearch and nonseizure.

HALF MARK REACHED BY AIR-RAIL PLANES

Westbound Ships Are Slightly Behind Schedule Reaching Oklahoma.

LINDBERGH IS ONE PILOT

Waynoka, Okla., July 8 (A.P.).—Running a little behind schedule, the two westbound planes of the Transcontinental Air Transport Co., of whose technical committee Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is chairman, completed half of the coast-to-coast journey when they arrived here tonight at 6:12 o'clock, Central Standard Time.

The score of passengers that filled the two trimotored planes left the Pennsylvania terminal in New York City by train last night. They took to the air at Columbus, O., this morning, and the 938-mile plane journey from that city took not quite 11 hours, including stops at Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City and Wichita.

On landing here the passengers, five of whom are women, had several hours to while away before starting the second rail link of their journey to Clovis, N. M., on the Santa Fe. They were scheduled to leave Waynoka at 11 P. M. for the 310-mile overnight ride.

Tomorrow, 937 miles will be flown to Los Angeles, to complete the trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific in approximately 48 hours.

At the conclusion of today's flight all the passengers were fresh, despite the long hours in the air, and all were enthusiastic concerning this new means of transcontinental travel.

The passengers on the first planes of the service were business men and women, newspaper and magazine representatives and officials of the Transcontinental Air Transport. The only famous member of the assemblage was Miss Amelia Earhart, Atlantic flier and an official of the air-rail line.

There were ceremonies at every stopping place today, large crowds having gathered despite overcast, and in some cases, rainy weather, to greet the travelers on the way.

Winslow, Ariz., July 8 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, piloting the passenger plane "City of Los Angeles," on the West-East flight inaugurating the air-rail service of the Transcontinental Air Transport landed here at 2:10 p. m. today.

Both the flying colonel and his bride left the plane at Winslow, Lindbergh relinquishing the controls to a regular transcontinental Air Transport pilot for the remainder of the journey to Clovis, N. M., where the passengers were to entrain for the next leg of their journey East. It was indicated that Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh would remain in Winslow tonight.

Lindbergh's original plan had been to pilot the ship to Clovis, himself, leaving Mrs. Lindbergh here, and picking her up again tomorrow on the return flight from Clovis to Los Angeles.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

It is an amazing tribute to the intelligence of the South that the politicians are now going about with the smug statement that the De Priest incident has brought the four Hoover States back into the Democratic fold. It is a remarkable commentary on their political judgment and it was just such judgment that facilitated these States going Republican in the first place.

Four States are out of the Democratic column and then Mrs. De Priest goes to the White House for tea. Presto, the States go Democratic again. If that isn't logic it is at least typical of what the politicians are offering. It is heard on every hand. It is heard from the political observers, from the politicians themselves. It is from Virginia the harassed old line Democrats come with the first unwrinkled brows they have had in months. "We're out of the woods," they say, and chuckle contentedly.

It is a striking revelation of just what they really think of their constituency.

* * * *

It is very true that the Republicans have "lost" their four Southern States and this, despite the fracas that is waging in Virginia. But Postmaster General Walter Brown and not Representative Oscar De Priest or his wife is responsible for it.

It would be rash to suggest that Mr. Brown has been acting contrary to the President's wishes. The safer conclusion is that Mr. Brown's every move has had his approval. At any rate, the Postmaster General has "lost" the South simply because his practical mind told him that flirting with it was not worth the risk of colored voters in doubtful States, particularly in the so-called Lincoln belt. And, accordingly, he has overturned the patronage committees which Col. Horace Mann would have set up and set up in their stead committees that had the approval of influences that have conducted Republican affairs in the South for many years.

It was simply a case of the administration withdrawing from the field, of coming to the conclusion that, after all, Southern Republicans are better as convention delegates than as serious influences in the world of political affairs.

* * * *

THIS is not to say, though, that the De Priest incident may not be a factor in Southern politics. It may very readily be. It will, in fact, be a very dangerous one against those politicians who seek to make an issue of it.

Goodness only knows what prompted the incident. There is no particular reason not to accept the White House explanation, that it was a matter of routine. The incident in itself meant nothing; it did not affect the destiny of men one whit. The subsequent discussion of it is different, and the politician whose mind is so muddled as to believe he can capitalize it in the South is doomed.

The race issue in the South has been dormant for a long time. In several States during the last campaign there were influential citizens, both Hoovercrats and Democrats, who petitioned the political leaders to cease stirring up the race issue, regardless of the immediate political good that might come of it. They petitioned without avail, because there were smart politicians who thought they knew their onions and that by waving the race flag they could hold their States in line. It would seem that they would have learned their lesson and known better by now.

The South has worked out its solution of the race problem. It will maintain it whether the Democratic or the Republican party is in power, just as it has done under the past 50 years of virtually continuous Republican rule. And it is inappreciative of any one who now seeks to stir up things, whether he be Republican or Democrat. The sooner the politicians learn that the better off they will be.

CALIFORNIA AVIATORS NEAR REFUEL RECORD

"Angeleno" Has Less Than Day to Go to Beat Mark Set in Cleveland.

FORCED LANDING AVERTED

Culver City, Calif., July 8 (A.P.).—Fewer than 24 hours separated the biplane Angeleno from a new endurance refueling record as it circled over the airport here late today.

On the seventh day of the flight it was "everything going fine," the ground crew reported, and it appeared the pilots, L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart, had an excellent chance to better the 174-hour-59-second record recently established in Cleveland.

The optimistic phrase almost failed of repetition earlier in the day, however, when a faulty gauging of a fuel supply endangered the flight. A quick refueling kept the ship aloft and the motor continued its smooth firing with the new gasoline supply.

Messages dropped by the fliers indicated they were in high spirits and in better health than on the first few days in the air, when they were forced to battle fogs and rough weather.

The Angeleno was being piloted in about a 9-mile circle about the field, flying at an altitude of approximately 2,000 feet. Its speed was estimated at 80 miles an hour, and the gasoline consumption at 13 gallons hourly.

A daylight refueling tomorrow will provide sufficient gasoline to carry the plane to a new record at 2:30.29 p. m. Tuesday if all goes well.

FIVE PERSONS DEAD IN 3 PLANE CRASHES

Army Fliers Die in Canal Zone; Washington-New York Mail Pilot Killed.

2 CANADIANS LOSE LIVES

Colon, Canal Zone, July 8 (A.P.).—Lieut. Henry F. Sessions, of Georgia, and Lieut. William H. Bleakley, of New York, were killed this morning when their Army plane crashed at Fort Clayton Field during a routine training flight.

The aviators were only 50 feet above the ground and were about to land on the field when their airplane apparently went into a tailspin. On striking the ground the plane burst into flames and the Army airmen, both of whom were rated pilots, were burned to death

Berlin, N. J., July 8 (A.P.).—Thomas W. Gurley, 27, an air mail pilot of Philadelphia, was killed tonight when his plane fell several hundred feet into a field near here. The plane burst into flames when it hit the ground and the pilot was badly burned.

Gurley was an employe of the Pitcairn Co. and piloted a mail plane between New York and Washington. This was his day off, and he had flown to Pine Valley, N. J., to visit friends.

He is believed to have been on the return flight to Philadelphia when the accident occurred.

Montreal, Quebec, July 8 (A.P.).—Capt. E. A. Golds, chief instructor of the Montreal Light Aeroplane Club, and C. H. Dowd, of Montreal, were killed today when their plane fell and burst into flames.

SCHILLING NAMED ON FARM BOARD

had considerable experience with cooperative associations dealing with the production and marketing of dairy products. The post of spokesman for the dairymen was offered last week to W. S. Moscrip, secretary-treasurer of the Twin City Association, but he declined.

As now drawn up, the board will consist of Alexander H. Legge, of Chicago, as chairman and representative of general business; James Stone, of Lexington, Ky., as vice chairman and spokesman for the tobacco growers; Carl Williams, of Oklahoma City, representing cotton; C. B. Denman, of Farmington, Mo., representing live stock; C. C. Teague, of Los Angeles, representing the fruit growing industry, and Schilling.

Of the two remaining vacancies, one at least will go to a spokesman for the wheat-growing industry. It is known that President Hoover has been having difficulty in settling upon a suitable appointee for this position. Whether the eighth membership will be given to a man experienced in banking and finance, as was Mr. Hoover's original announced intention, has not been determined. There have been indications, however, that the President might abandon this plan and appoint a second cotton or wheat man.

Teague said today in Santa Paula, Calif., that the farm relief law which created the board should be regarded as emergency legislation temporarily assisting agriculture in recovering in the depression which has gripped that industry for several years. He added that the problems of the farmer should be worked out on a basis that would not require continued governmental financial assistance.

In addition he declared the act should not be looked upon as a cure-all for the ills of agriculture and asserted that unless the huge revolving fund provided for loans to cooperatives is wisely administered, it may stimulate prices to such an extent as to bring fresh surpluses.

Nephew of Valentino Will Visit Uncle's Tomb

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Jean Valentino, 14-year-old nephew of the late Rudolph Valentino, arrived today on the liner Vulcania, traveling to Hollywood on a pilgrimage to the tomb of his uncle.

The boy bears a slight resemblance to the dead actor, but says he has no stage or screen ambitions. He is studying to become an electrical engineer. On shipboard young Valentino was in care of Tito Schipa, tenor of the Chicago Opera Company. Schipa, however, also intends to go to the Coast to visit his wife and their new born baby, Liona, at Los Angeles.

MEDICAL HEAD HITS INTEMPERATE LAWS

Restriction of Individual Liberties by Congress Scored by Hayes.

BRANDS IT AS TYRANNY

Portland, Oreg., July 8 (A.P.).—An attack on what he termed the over-regulation of human life by national legislation restricting drink, dress and religion was made by Dr. William S. Thayer, of Baltimore, president of the American Medical Association, in his address opening the annual convention of the organization here today.

"There are lengths beyond which a majority may not go. This is no longer republican government—it is tyranny. For immediate concentrated mass action in time of war, such government is necessary. We accept it; we demand it. But in time of peace, we insist on certain local and individual liberties which we regard as rights.

"The Congress of the United States is not made up of men who desire to establish tyranny, but in certain ways, against the warnings of wise and temperate men they have passed laws that may justly be regarded as tyrannical."

"Sets Sorry Example."

"As a Nation," said Dr. Thayer, "we have of recent years set a rather sorry example in the passage of ill-considered and intolerant proscriptions and prohibitions which, when applied to the country at large, interfere with personal liberty."

Dr. Thayer said that prohibitive laws might be "proper enough when enacted in certain localities where they represent the desire of the majority." He said the Government of the American Medical Association is patterned after that of the Nation. He urged his audience not to follow "the rather sad example of reckless and intemperate law-making."

Concluding his address, Dr. Thayer said: "When in a country like ours, the National Government attempts to legislate for the whole country as to what we may or may not eat or drink, as to how we may dress, as to our religious beliefs or as to what we may or may not read, this is to interfere with the rights which are sacred to every English-speaking man."

A resolution, growing out of Dr. Thayer's address, is expected to be considered tomorrow.

Medical Centers Urged.

A plea for medical centers owned and operated by local medical societies, where persons of moderate means would receive medical aid at a cost in keeping with their ability to pay, was made by Dr. M. L. Harris, of Chicago, president-elect, in addressing the convention. The proposed centers, he explained, should be in the nature of pay clinics, owned and controlled by the profession and should include hospitals as a part of the general organization.

"Criticism constantly is being directed at the medical profession, blaming it for the present lack of suitable provision for the distribution of medical service to the mass of people at a cost within their means," said Dr. Harris. "Such a provision is an indisputable obligation of the profession."

More than 4,000 doctors from over the country attended the opening session and scores were arriving hourly. Several other medical organizations are meeting in conjunction with the association convention.

HUGE WAR PLANNED ON AMERICAN TARIFF

tinuance of such emergency the time herein prescribed for the performance of any act; and,

"(b) Suspend during the continuance of such emergency any provision of this act, or proclaim such new or additional rates of duty, not to exceed 50 per centum ad valorem or its equivalent, as he shall find necessary to effect such act, practice, law or regulation; and 30 days after the date of such proclamation such new or additional rates of duty shall be levied, collected and paid upon the articles described therein, being wholly or in part the growth or product of, or imported in a vessel of, the country named in such proclamation."

Difference of Opinion.

There is a difference of opinion as to whether this emergency power given to the President should be delegated by Congress outright or should be delegated with a provisio that Congressional approval be required before it is actually exercised.

The restriction in the latter event would not destroy the effectiveness of the amendment as a warning to nations planning to control American tariff rates by a scheme of international coercion or duress. In view of the large powers conferred in other countries upon the executive branch of the government to change tariff rates promptly there are many who believe the President of the United States should be given a similar reserve power, even though the authority may never be used. The fact that President Hoover had such power would mean that he would never actually have to exercise it, according to the concensus of opinion here.

It is conceded that President Hoover might be at a serious disadvantage if the threatened coalition of European nations presses an organized tariff war against the United States and there is no weapon at the President's disposal which can be used in retaliation. Late reports reaching here indicate that France and other nations plan to use the threatened tariff war against America as a means of obtaining concessions from the United States along lines foreign to tariff matters.

France Won in 1927 Crisis.

The Franco-American tariff crisis of 1927 was settled by a concession which the United States Government made to France in raising the ban on loans to France. This fact has never been made a matter of record but it is well understood here that this crisis came to an end only after France had wrested from the American Government a desired concession respecting opening floodgates of American capital for French purposes.

John Calvin Brown, American banker in Paris, is understood to have first communicated the information to Washington that the French government would come to terms in the tariff dispute if the United States Government would take the desired steps respecting loans to France. Those steps were taken and France promptly made a temporary adjustment of the tariff dispute which threatened trouble.

Seasoned legislators like Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, have experienced situations in the past where European countries threatened reprisals because of increases in American tariff rates. There is a similarity between the preesent campaign and the past campaigns dating back to 1909, though in the present case the extent of the threatened tariff war is more difficult to appraise in advance and it may be that certain of the powers will press concerted action to extremes in order to gain concessions along other lines. In any event, however, a weapon in the hands of the President to protect American interests in case of emergency finds increasing support, and action by European powers may virtually force Democrats as well as Republicans to favor giving the President this emergency power.

RHINE EVACUATION POLICY ENUNCIATED

British Parliament Is Told Cabinet Opposes Piecemeal Quitting.

U. S. TARIFF DEBATED

London, July 8 (A.P.).—Queries about evacuation of the Rhineland by British troops and the future of the great English naval base at Singapore brought forth cautious statements of government policy in the House of Commons today.

Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, replying to a question whether British troops would leave the Rhineland before the end of September, reiterated his statement in a recent speech that the government was anxious for evacuation at the earliest possible moment, but hoped it would not be carried out by degrees or stages.

He added that the government's aim was to cooperate with France and Belgium in effecting simultaneous and complete evacuation, pointing out that it would be one of the tasks of the coming international conference of foreign ministers to determine the exact date.

U. S. Tariff Is Watched.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald revealed in his answers to questions that the dominions would be consulted with regard to the future of the great Singapore naval base, the construction of which has been ardently attacked and defended in political circles.

Changes in the Amerian tariffs were mentioned by several members, who suggested that the government take steps to cooperate with other governments in an united protest against them. Mr. Henderson refused to go further than saying that no protest had been made yet, and that the government was carefully watching the situation.

He announced that the government proposed to communicate with other governments which had not yet signed the arms traffic convention of Geneva in the hope of making further progress with ratification.

Premier MacDonald expressed his personal sympathy for legislation preventing the export of works of art, but thought it undesirable for the present to attempt to further such legislation.

Reply to King Debated.

The whole of the evening session was devoted to debate over the Conservative amendment to the address in reply to the king's speech of the safeguarding policy, as the British tariff system is called.

Sir Philip Cunliffe Lister, former Conservative president of the Board of Trade, emphasized the bad effects of uncertainty on trade and industry and argued that if changes in the American tariff were prejudicial to Canada it was all the more important to encourage trade between England and the Dominions by the continuance of the imperial preference policy.

William Graham, Labor president of the Board of Trade, declined even to undertake to give notice of the removal of the duties on the grounds that the Labor policy had been well known for a long time. He said that Philip Snowden, chancellor of the Exchecquer, would deal with the subject tomorrow.

DEMOCRATS HOPE FOR HOOVER'S HELP

come out on their side in the matter of rates they will find him strongly against them on the proposed administrative changes. These proposed changes would give the President virtually unlimited tariff power. The administration would be the last word as to when the rates should be hoisted or lowered within the range of 50 per cent.

The changes were written into the House bill at the instance of the President. There are some who profess to believe that the President's purpose in wanting these changes is in order to curb the high tariff proclivities of some of the legislators. Their profession is based on the belief that at heart the President is a low tariff, or at least a moderate tariff, man.

It is because of the thought prevailing in some quarters that the President has a definite reason for wanting the unlimited tariff making power, however, that some of the regular Republicans are watching interestedly the efforts of the Democrats to make him commit himself on the present bill. If the President is really a moderate tariff man they want to find it out about as anxiously as any one else.

Hoover Stand Still Vague.

Mr. Hoover's putative low tariff views was one of the arguments which the old guard made against him in the preconvention campaign. It was even said of him that he was a free trader. Mr. Hoover finally announced himself, however, as a protectionist. Since his election he has been repeatly represented as favoring but a limited revision, but it has not yet become definitely known just what he means by the term. The staunch protectionists say that they, too, are limited revisionists, and all the while they plan higher rates. It will be only when the separate items come up for discussion in the Senate that there will be any opportunity to determine just how far any man wants to go in the way of limitation.

The Democrats believe that if they do not succeed in aligning Mr. Hoover with them they will have a fight before the country, while on the other hand, if they do, he will alienate himself with old guard influences.

Thousand Russian Houses Burn.

DRYS' SCHOOL PLANS DEFINED BY LEAGUE

Paper Denies It Will Introduce Prohibition as Political Issue.

WETS' CAMPAIGN GROWS

Breaking the silence among the drys on the question of teaching prohibition in the public schools, the Antisaloon League, through its official organ, the American Issue, declares that neither it nor any other dry organization "has any intention or any desire to bring prohibition before the public schools as a political issue."

The league adds, however, that the teaching of the physiological effects of alcohol upon the human body certainly has a rightful place in the school curriculum.

Thus far the Methodist Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Morals, which is usually quick to pitch into prohibition controversies, has made no mention of the educational campaign in its weekly "clip sheet."

Antis Push Their Fight.

The board, however, has sent out a sheet bearing a number of cartoons aimed at liquor and bootlegging, together with an announcement that mats of these cartoons will be sent to all editors who request them. Whether this was done because of the decision of the Prohibition Bureau to abandon its poster campaign along with the education campaign is not known.

In the meantime, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is going ahead with an educational campaign that has twice the scope of the one that was planned by the Prohibition Bureau.

Whereas, the Prohibition Bureau has an appropriation of $50,000 for this work, the association has a fund of $100,000, this sum having been made available by the board of directors at the beginning of the year.

Wets Mail List Grows.

The $100,000 is to pay for research work here and abroad and for the dissemination of pamphlets based on the results of this research. The pamphlets that have been distributed so far deal with the smuggling of Canadian liquor into this country, the cost of prohibition, and the scandals of prohibition.

It is said that the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has a mailing list that is even larger than that of the Antisaloon League.

Portuguese Cabinet Personnel Revealed

New Premier, Ferraz, Holds 3 Portfolios at Lisbon.

Lisbon, Portugal, July 8 (A.P.).—A new Portuguese cabinet was formed today replacing that of Premier Vincente de Freitas, which resigned because of internal dissensions last week.

Gen. Ivens Ferraz is the new premier, minister of the interior, and minister of foreign affairs ad interim. The others of the cabinet follow:

Prof. Silva Telles, education and ad interim justice; Prof. Antures Guimaraens, commerce; Senor Oliveira Salazar, finance; Col. Amilcar Pinto, war; Commander Magalhaes Correia, marine; Col. Eduardo Marques, colonies; Col. Linhares Lima, agriculture.

VALUABLE PROPERTY GUARDED BY WOMAN

Spring, who is at present at Camp Albert C. Ritchie with the Silver Spring Howitzer Company of the Maryland National Guard, of which he is captain. He is expected to return in time tonight to attend the hearing.

Alan B. Neumann, head of the garage concern, said last night that his firm believes that it still has possession of the property in the eyes of the law and did not believe the moving onto the property of Mrs. Dunne will affect the case one way or another. His firm will lose several thousands of dollars which has been spent in improving the property in the event of an adverse decision.

Both sides are extremely cautious in talking about the controversy, although each maintains that it is right and sure to win.

Attorney Lamar declared yesterday that he could see no reason why the case deserved any publicity, that it was merely a case of the doctor maintaining her rights and that her action in moving into the tent is by his advice. He declined to discuss the details of the case. Mr. Neumann also declined to make any definite statements. Capt. Cissel could not be reached last night. Mrs. Dunne stated that she had nothing to say except that her lawyer was the one to inquire of.

In the meantime, Silver Spring and its environs are mildly curious about the tent and those who have heard the story discretely smile and declare it one of the funniest things that has happened in months.

The prominent location of the tent has aroused endless curiosity. Even passing motorists who are strange to the neighborhood stop to find out why "those women are living in that place."

The location is probably the most unprepossessing in the neighborhood. The entire floor of the excavated section in which the tent is pitched is not much more than a mud hole, even in dry weather, and in a heavy rainstorm it becomes a sea of mud-stained water. The boiling rays of the sun pour down on the tent all day long and at night the section is alive with insect life.

The campers are served meals by a nearby neighbor who carries them their food on a tray. Either the doctor or her companion remains at the tent all the time.

The disputed area has been fenced in with a single strand of wire which is stretched none too securely to a series of iron pipes.

You missed several fine opportunities if you did not read the classified section yesterday. Don't miss them today!

vestigations into the killing of Marlow, whose real name was Gondolfo Curto.

Friends of Marlow have disclosed that he was racketeering collector for a gang of Brooklyn blackmailers occasionally known by that vague name, the Mafia. This uncertainly defined gang specialized in a simple racket which consisted of finding a man with money and demanding part of it under threat of death.

Marlow was a boxing promoter and it was a custom of the gang to wait until a boxing manager had made big money before separating him from some of it with threats.

The gang is reported to have demanded money from a boxing manager just after the manager's fighter had won a big fight. The story goes that the manager thus blackmailed had appealed to Marlow, who had promised to square the matter for him for $1,000. The manager came through with the money and Marlow did not turn it over to the gang for which he was collector. A row resulted in which Marlow was taken for a preliminary ride which ended when the gang stripped him naked and left him shivering by the roadside.

Marlow was defiant and the next time he was taken for a ride he did not come back, except in the form of a problem which confronts Mr. Whalen whose predecessor was ousted for failing to clear up the murder of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambling ace, last November.

Mr. Whalen announced additional progress in the Marlow murder investigation today when his detectives found a man who saw an automobile in the vicinity of Flushing Cemetery the night Marlow was killed.

This man, whose identity is guarded by the police for fear of gangland reprisals, lives less than three blocks from the spot where Marlow was found dying. Taken to police headquarters today, he said he was sitting on his porch with his young son when they noticed an automobile going along 168th avenue toward New York at about 25 miles an hour. When the automobile was near the corner of 168th street and Fifty-fourth avenue the man and boy heard a sharp report.

The father believed it was a pistol shot. The son thought it the backfire of the car. Soon there were two more shots in rapid succession and both the father and son agreed they were pistol shots. They fix the time at 9:30 p. m. Marlow died in the police booth at 9:47 p. m. after a policeman had found him dying.

Fear of bringing down the vengeance of gunmen prevented the new witness from coming forward until two weeks after the murder, Mr. Whalen said.

Senator Jones Enters Hospital for Opera

Senator Wesley L. Jones (R., Wash.), of Washington, entered Emergency Hospital yesterday and today will undergo an operation for a kidney ailment. The operation will be performed by Dr. H. A. Fowler.

The Washington senator, who sponsored the drastic "five-and-ten" prohibition statute, has been bothered for some time by a stone in his kidney, but has remained on the job. Shortly before the Senate recessed Jones collapsed at his desk and was carried into the cloakroom.

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

DEVELOPMENT PLANS TO BE TOLD TONIGHT

Officials of Arlington County Organizations to Gather at Joint Banquet.

FIRE AUXILIARY FORMED

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With the view of inaugurating a movement to carry out a constructive five-year development program for the county, plans have been completed for the joint dinner meeting to be held tonight at 6:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club by the directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce with the officials of the civic organizations of the county.

The Chamber of Commerce for many months has been at work on a program looking to the future development of Arlington County and it is hoped that at this dinner something of a constructive nature can be developed, P. P. Woodbridge, executive secretary, said last night.

Among some of the proposed projects to be discussed are the development of the streets and highways of the county, health and sanitation, education development, housing conditions, local and State legislation needed to carry many projects through, water and sewers, transportation, industrial development, a reduction in utilities rates throughout the county, and the removal of signboards along the main highways of the county.

Dr. James B. Gould was elected president of the Arlington and Fairfax Building and Loan Association at the annual meeting in the offices of D. R. Luttrell at East Falls Church last night. Other officers are: Edward T. Fenwick, first vice president; Franklin Williams, second vice president; D. R. Luttrell, secretary, and Frank H. Eastman, treasurer.

The report of the treasurer shows that the assets of the association during the past twelve months have increased $40,000. Three thousands dollars was added to the surplus.

The newly elected officers of Clarendon Rebekah Lodge, No. 28, were installed at a meeting in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon last night by Mrs. Cora A. Fields, district deputy president.

Those who were installed are Mrs. Olive Johnson, Mrs. Sudie Mitchell and Mrs. Dorothy Brashears.

Following the installation, the lodge celebrated its seventh anniversary with an interesting program arranged under the direction of Mrs. Rose Brooks.

The organization of the auxiliary to the Clarendon Fire Department was perfected at a meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Porter with the election of Mrs. Sara Elizabeth Carl president. Other officers are: Mrs. Gertrude A. Dawson, vice president; Mrs. Jeannette Tolford, secretary, and Mrs. Rosnia Wolcott, treasurer.

The president announced the appointment of the committee to draft the constitution and by-laws. Mrs. Elizabeth K. Taylor is chairman and other members are Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mrs. Lilly Edwards.

It was decided to hold meetings the second Tuesday of each month. The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Tolford, 505 Moore avenue, at 7:30 o'clock.

With the view of creating interest in the work of the auxiliary, it was decided to have members attend the various civic organizations in Clarendon and vicinity and acquaint them with the plans of the organization.

M. E. Church, of Falls Church, has been elected treasurer of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The election of Mr. Church resulted from the special meeting called by Bishop McDowell, president of the board following the death of W. T. Gaither, of Washington, former treasurer.

Dr. George B. Fadely, who has held the office of president of the Falls Church National Bank since its organization in 1906, has again been elected. Other officers are M. E. Church, first vice president; Dr. James B. Gould, second vice president, and George A. Bready, cashier.

Members of the board of directors are Dr. George B. Fadely, George A. Bready, Miss Mattie Gundry, M. E. Church, Dr. James B. Gould, A. H. Barber, Horace E. Brown, Guy N. Church, Carroll V. Shreve and George W. Hauxhurst.

Bennie James and William Shubert, charged with transporting, were given a hearing yesterday before Police Judge Harry R. Thomas and both were held for the action of the grand jury. Bond was fixed at $500 each.

The arrest was made by Traffic Officer C. W. Carr, who at the time was on his way to Alexandria to bring to the Arlington County Jail George Crawford, one of the men being held for investigation into the death of William Francis Mudd Saturday night.

Carr, called to the stand, told the court that as he was about to pass the taxicab, which was being driven by James, the two men started to watch his car in a manner that caused him to order them to halt. Searching the cab, Carr uncovered six half-gallons of alleged corn whisky.

Clubwomen's Meeting Invited to Petersburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 8.—The Petersburg Chamber of Commerce today sent a telegram to Mrs. Edwin Penn, chairman of the Virginia delegation attending the Business and Professional Women's Clubs convention at Mackinac Island, Mich., inviting the club to hold its 1930 convention in Virginia.

The Petersburg Chamber of Commerce has supplied the Virginia booth at the convention with a supply of literature telling all about Petersburg.

Virginian Railway Witnesses Testify

Construction of Bridge Over Kanawha of Public Benefit, They Say.

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of three organizations testified yesterday at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing in support of the application of the Virginian Railway to construct a bridge across the Kanawha River at Deepwater, W. Va.

The witnesses were W. P. Tams, representing the Winding Gulf Operators Association; Robert H. Gross, of the New River Coal Operators Association, and H. J. Trossen, of the Old Ben Coal Corporation.

They testified that construction of the bridge, which would link the Virginian with the Kanawha and Michigan Railroad, operated by the New York Central, would give another outlet for coal from that section and they believed this would be in the public interest. Previously C. H. Hix, president of the Virginian, had testified that the connection would enable the road to obtain a larger quantity of merchandise freight which he declared was essential for development.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad is opposing the construction on the ground that the connection would be adverse to its interests. The C. & O. crosses the Kanawha at Gauley, 6 miles from Deepwater and at Charleston, 30 miles distant. Opposing testimony is expected to be heard tomorrow. Control of the Virginian is sought by the Chesapeake & Ohio in its railway consolidation plan now before the commission.

ALEXANDRIA TO AID M'CLARY'S WIDOW

Fund of $4,563.74 Is Raised for Slain Policeman's Family of Six.

BIBLE SCHOOL OPENED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria, 533.

The fund which is being raised by popular subscription for the relief of the widow and family of Police Sergt. Charles R. McClary, who was shot and killed the night of June 20, now has reached the sum of $4,563.74, of which amount $3,605.86 was reported yesterday. The drive, which had been conducted for the past two weeks, was closed officially Saturday. It is believed that the amount will reach $5,000 when all returns are in.

The largest single amount realized was that from the baseball game played between teams representing the Police and Fire Departments of the city, Sergt. George Everly, who was in charge of that fund, turning in $840 from this source. His records show that Officer L. E. Brown sold the largest number of tickets, 500, while Officer Wesley Snoots was second with 345.

Last Saturday's baseball game between the St. Mary's Celtics and the Potomac Yard All-Stars netted $25 for the fund, which was taken in at the gate, no admission tickets being sold.

The Potomac Fire Department has announced a benefit show for Saturday night of this week for the fund, S. B. DeVaughan being chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The money realized from this fund will be turned over to trustees named by the committee in charge of the collections, and will be administered or invested for the benefit of the widow and five small children of the slain sergeant.

The Daily Vacation Bible School, which is being conducted under the auspices of the Alexandria Ministerial Association, opened yesterday with a good attendance in spite of the torrid weather. As heretofore, the school is divided into two units, one at the Chapel of the Good Shepherd, on South Fairfax street, with Miss Hilda Pullman in charge; the other at the Presbyterian Chapel, West and Commerce streets, with Mrs. S. L. Robertson in charge, and Mrs. Ruth Field assisting.

Sessions will be held daily during the present month from 9 a. m. until noon. The program provides for devotional exercises, music, story telling, memory work, sewing, handiwork and various other activities. The arrangements for the school are in the hands of a committee composed of the Rev. Ernest M. Delaney, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

A contract for the remodeling of the Fairfax Apartments, which was damaged by flames January 2, has been placed by A. S. Doniphan, owner of the property and work was started yesterday. The contract provides that the work will be completed by November 1, the ground floor to be converted into a large store which will be leased to the Peoples Service Drug Store, and the upper floors to be rearranged into office suites.

Hardy J. Story, a soldier stationed at Fort Humphreys, who was arrested Sunday afternoon by Policeman Roach, was turned over yesterday to the authorities at Fort Humphreys, who say that Story borrowed an automobile belonging to S. Nordlinger, a member of the Reserve Officers' Training Camp at the post, and failed to return it on time.

Story is said to have picked up M. Pannaman, a marine from Quantico, in Washington, and to have been on his way to Quantico when arrested at King and Washington streets. He claims that he had no intention of going away with the machine.

The first Alexandria victim of the intense heat, which has prevailed here for the last three days, was Ervin Creel, a youth living in the 1200 block Prince street, who was taken to the Alexandria Hospital yesterday and treated by Dr. H. A. Latane for heat prostration. His condition was reported to be not serious.

C. Aubrey Callahan, worshipful master of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 22, Masons, and other officials of the lodge will lay the cornerstone at 6 o'clock this evening of the Calvary Methodist Church at Aurora Hills. The Masons to participate will assemble at the temple at 5 o'clock.

The July term of the Corporation Court, Judge William P. Woolls presiding, convened yesterday when the civil and criminal docket was called. The majority of the cases pending will be tried at the fall term of court.

George Boone, colored, was given eighteen months in the State penitentiary at hard labor, following a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with transportating ardent spirits while armed.

Boone was a companion of Ernest Johnson, colored, driver of the car, who was shot and fatally wounded by Policeman Charles Quartermouse May 1, following a chase of the liquor-laden car.

Marley Encampment held a meeting last night in Odd Fellows Temple, North Columbus street, and installed the following officers: W. C. Cunningham, chief patriarch; W. R. Gorham, senior warden; E. C. Moyer, junior warden, and George W. Bontz, treasurer. A social hour followed the business meeting.

Sarepta Lodge, No. 46, will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock to install new officers. The ceremony will be in charge of Andrew Yates, of Accotink, district deputy grand master.

A tool house on the property of the Belle Haven Realty Co., Belle Haven, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The house with the tools and other equipment stored therein was valued at $1,500.

Humphrey to Judge Horses.

Purcellville, Va., July 8.—Dr. Robert Humphrey, of Mountaville, Va., has gone to Milwaukee, Wis., where he is acting as judge of hunters at the Milwaukee Horse Show. From there he and his wife, who accompanied him, will go to Stillwater, Minn., to visit his brother, Dr. Wade Humphrey.

Petersburg Y. M. C. A. Drive for $5,000 Fails

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 8.—From present indications it looks as if the Young Men's Christian Association Building, this city, will be closed next winter months, because the "drive," begun a week ago and ended today, to raise $5,000 for the purchase of a boiler and other heating equipment proved a failure, less than one-fifth of the sum sought being subscribed.

Action is expected to be taken Wednesday afternoon by the board of directors and finance committee to determine whether or not the building shall be closed during next winter.

In Milan, the most energetic of modern Italian cities, social life is exacting. Smart women of the aristocratic circles, stars from the celebrated La Scala Opera House, singers, actresses illustrate the distinguished clientele of Carlo Eugenio. Eugenio's shop on the Corso Vittorio Emanuele is the best known beauty establishment in Milan.

"Two minutes' massage twice a day with this wonderful lather is my first step in every successful beauty treatment," says EUGENIO

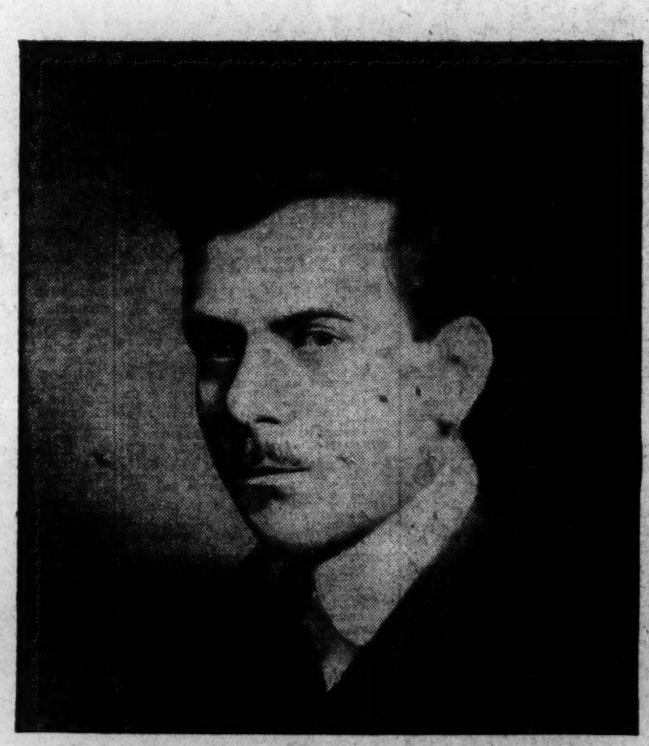
of Milan

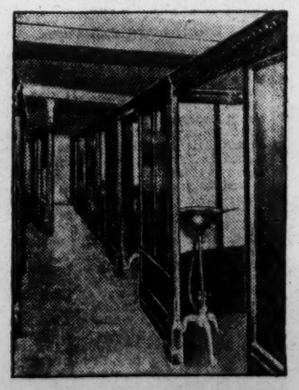
beauty adviser to Italy's distinguished aristocrats



"UNDER the conditions of modern life it is not safe to leave the care of the skin to nature alone," Eugenio, of Milan, believes. This modern artist in the care of the skin is consulted by Milan's most distinguished women. World travelers, too, visit his salon. And he tells all his patrons that thorough cleanliness is the first step to beauty. Cleanliness through the twice daily use of Palmolive Soap. "Apart from the exceptional cleansing power of Palmolive," Eugenio adds, "its emollient oils have a definite value in restoring skin health."

All leading Italian experts agree

Wherever you go in Italy, you will find this opinion seconded by the best specialists. From Palermo, in the South, to Venice, in the North, Italian skin specialists are unanimous in their approval of this simple 2-minute method: with both hands massage a lather of Palmolive Soap into the pores. Rinse away the impurities thus brought out of the pores . . . first with warm water, then with cold. So easy to do—and so effective!



For the bath, too

Since Palmolive costs no more than ordinary soap, millions use it for the bath as well. You will be delighted with its refreshing after-effects. More than 15,000 beauty experts throughout America agree with the specialists of Italy on the superiorities of Palmolive. Buy a bar today to see why.

Most tremendous professional endorsement in history! 15,750 beauty experts—in America alone—recommend Palmolive Soap.

"The first step in every successful beauty treatment that I carry out is to get the skin really and thoroughly clean. Ordinary surface cleanliness is not enough. The simplest and quite the most effective way, I have found, is by the regular use of Palmolive Soap and pure water."

800 PENNSYLVANIANS AT FORT WASHINGTON

Senator Reed Emphasizes the Duty of Citizens in Speech at C.M.T.C. Camp.

DISTRICT TROOPS ARRIVE

Eight hundred Western Pennsylvania "rookies," just two days out of civilian clothes, became full-fledged members of the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Washington, Md., yesterday afternoon in brief exercises. They were addressed by Senator David A. Reed, of their own State.

Earlier in the afternoon Senator Reed and Maj. Gen. Edward A. Kreger, judge advocate general of the Army, accompanied by other Army and Government officials, reviewed the Third Battalion of the Twelfth Infantry, regular contingent at the post, and the Army Band, which was making its first appearance after returning from a trip to Spain.

Oath Is Administered.

Following the review, the four C. M. T. C. companies marched on the parade grounds and stood at attention in the center of a square formed by the regulars. With troops in this formation, invocation was said by Col. Edmund P. Easterbrook, chief of chaplains of the Army, and the oath was administered by Maj. Gen. Kreger.

Senator Reed, himself a World War veteran, emphasized particularly the duties of citizens in the military service of the Nation and stressed also the citizenship ideals of the citizens military training camps.

The 300 citizen soldiers who arrived Saturday at Fort Myer, Va., began actual training yesterday under the direction of Col. Guy V. Henry, post commander.

Col. Henry Greets Troops.

Col. Henry extended an official welcome to the young men, who come from the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New York and New Jersey. Dr. John A. Tillema, professor of political science at George Washington University, also spoke, emphasizing the personal responsibilities of the boys toward the development of the highest form of citizenship.

Col. Henry is being assisted in the training of these young men by the 305th Cavalry Brigade, of Philadelphia, and a staff of cavalry officers assigned to Fort Myer.

Minister of Nicaragua Attends Theater Party

The Minister of Nicaragua, Senor Dr. Don Juan B. Sacasa, and Senora Maria de Sacasa, together with Senor Dr. Don Evaristo Carazo, counselor of the legation, and a party of friends occupied a special box at Lowe's Palace Theater last night to see Zelaya in a special stage presentation, "Surprise Party."

Zelaya is a son of a former president of Nicaragua. The box which Senora Sacasa occupied was decorated in the colors and with flags of Nicaragua.

Hoover Field Installs Night Flying Lights

Lighting facilities have been installed at Hoover Field to permit the inauguration of night flying by its planes possibly by the end of the week, according to announcement yesterday by C. E. Moran, president of International Airways, Inc., of Washington.

A battery of powerful flood lights, as the major equipment for the new venture, was given final tests at the field Sunday night by Capt. Ira Eaker, manager of operations of the company, who announced that a definite date for the start of this new service would be made public within a few days.

buildings, that several Government offices were forced to close at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The thermometer in the Navy Building registered 97 degrees in the breeze of an electric fan.

Workers of the Treasury Department in the prohibition, public health, internal revenue, customs and division of supply bureaus were sent home for the day at 2:30 o'clock when the heat became intolerable; these bureaus are all housed in temporary structures of wood and plaster.

Navy Sticks It Out.

In the Commerce Department the steamboat inspection service offices and its bureau of navigation both shut down and allowed the workers to seek relief from the heat.

The Navy Department workers stuck it out, however, despite the terrific heat in their building.

Thundershowers are predicted for tonight, but little change in temperature is expected by the Weather Bureau, even if the showers materialize.

Hurt In Fall.

Heat prostration is believed to have caused Russell Duckson, 27-year-old salesman at Lansburgh's & Bro., who lives at 822 Varnum street northwest, to fall and suffer a severe cut on his forehead and a possible fracture of skull and jaw, last night, according to Emergency Hospital attaches.

Duckson was found in a dazed condition near Eleventh and E streets northwest by J. R. Watkins, of 1251 Marsh street northeast, and brought to Emergency Hospital. After receiving treatment, he told the doctor that his mind was a blank as far as the day's events were concerned, except that he went to the store after eating his breakfast. His condition is undetermined.

Malinda Smallwood, 21 years old, of 11 P street northeast, suffered a heat stroke while working in the Frazee-Potomac Laundry, at 400 Eighteenth street northwest, during the afternoon. She was treated at Emergency Hospital. Her condition is not serious.

Model Plane Buliding Course Is Announced

Air-minded boys seeking a thrill akin in a small way to riding aloft may have their craving satiated by flying miniature planes of their own construction through handicraft lessons available from 1 to 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoons this summer at the Central High branch of the Community Center department.

The weekly intruction to boys of all ages will be given without charge under direction of John H. Williams, with material to be furnished at cost.

Registration is under way for a physical culture class to be held during July and August at Central under direction of Mrs. Ida E. Kebler.

Box Party Is Planned.

Ladies of the First Americans will hold a box party tonight in the Odd Fellows Temple, according to announcement by Minnie A. Butts as secretary.

ANNAPOLIS ELECTS REPUBLICAN MAYOR

Walter Quenstedt Defeats, C. E. Chance, Democrat, by Majority of 71.

8 ALDERMEN ARE NAMED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 8.—For the first time in ten years the Republicans broke the Democratic strength in municipal elections and elected Walter Quenstedt, their candidate for mayor, by the small majority of 71, over Charles E. Chance. The Democrats, however, retained control of the city government by electing their candidate for city counselor and six of the eight aldermen.

Quenstedt received a total poll of 1,077 as against 1,006 for Chance. George B. Woelfel, Democratic counselor-elect, defeated his Republican opponent, W. Hallam Claude, by a majority of 145. The successful aldermanic candidates, all of who won by substantial margins, are: First Ward, Jesse A. Fisher, reelected, and Harry M. Leitch; Second Ward, Frank H. Thompson, jr., and Arthur T. Elliott, both reelected; Third Ward, Charles W. Tucker, jr., and Arthur T. Elliott, jr., reelected, and Thomas Basil. Charles L. Oliver and Charles Spriggs, the two colored aldermen of the Fourth Ward, were reelected. The new board will take office within the next ten days.

Quenstedt, the mayor-elect, is 40 years old and for several years has been employed as a Government clerk in the administration offices at the Naval Academy. His election is held in some quarters to bear out predictions that President Hoover's big victory in the city last fall was not a flash in the pan, but that there still exists much defection from the Democratic ranks, and Republicans already are counting on the result as an index of victory in the next general election in November, 1930.

Quenstedt will succeed Charles W. Smith, who has served several terms in the mayoralty chair. The vote cast was unusually light, less than 50 per cent, the total registration approximating 5,000 whereas the total poll was 2,058. Intense heat of the day was largely responsible for the fall down and again many persons are absent on vacations. Quenstedt received the big majority of 278 out of the Fourth Ward, the colored belt, while Chance carried the other three wards by much smaller margins.

Funeral Rites Held For Charles A. Butts

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., July 8.—Charles A. Butts, 69 years of age, formerly of Lovettsville, died at the Western State Hospital in Staunton, where he had gone recently for treatment, Thursday. His death was due to pneumonia. Mr. Butts was a lifelong resident of Lovettsville until two years ago, when he went to Alexandria to make his home with his son, Russell Butts, who with two grandchildren and one brother, William Butts, of Harpers Ferry, survive him.

He was a member of the I. O. R. M. and the Masons and these lodges attended his funeral in a body. Services were held at the home of his brother-in-law, William Wiard, at Lovettsville, Sunday afternoon, the Rev. A. F. Tobler officiating. Interment was in Union Cemetery at Lovettsville.

TO PROTECT AMERICA.

Should foreign nations combine in a tariff war against the United States, as they are threatening to do, there is every reason for giving President Hoover emergency power to cope with the situation and adequately protect American interests. A means of providing the necessary weapon is already incorporated in an amendment to the pending tariff bill, framed by Chairman Marvin, of the United States Tariff Commission.

The point of the amendment is its simplicity in so far as its potential effect is concerned. It gives the President the power to place an embargo on the goods of a nation or nations which deliberately engage in a punitive tariff war against the United States. The President is now vested with powers to cover the emergencies of war and the amendment would broaden this power to cover another possible national emergency. A tariff war against the United States, if conducted by a combination of European nations on extensive proportions, would be regarded as constituting a national emergency.

Practically every country engaging in such a tariff war would have at its helm an executive able to manipulate tariff rates promptly and effectively in carrying out any concerted plan of punitive action. A similar reserve power delegated to President Hoover might be necessary under such circumstances. The mere fact that the President had such power would doubtless be the best guarantee that it would not have to be used.

Pending further developments along the European tariff front, there will be some hesitancy on the part of legislators to commit themselves, and there will be support for the view that Congress should in any event be required to indorse any proposed embargo by the Executive, especially if Congress is in session at the time. But even with this restriction, any action by Congress relative to emergency power to cope with a threatened tariff war would be a timely warning should an international program of coercion develop. Constitutional objections advanced in some quarters to the amendment would readily lend themselves to suitable adjustment if the emergency warranted positive action.

If the tariff controversy were considered separate and distinct from the political situation in Europe and the well-known intrigues of certain statesmen who still have the forlorn hope that they can persuade America to cancel the war debts, there would be less concern over the threatened tariff war. The European nations, excepting Great Britain, are protesting in advance against prospective American tariff rates just as these same nations have protested in the past. The voluminous correspondence reaching Senator Smoot now is very similar to the correspondence which reached him when other tariff bills were before the Senate finance committee and it is understood that the protests reaching the State Department are similar to past protests in tariff matters.

European nations need American raw materials, oil, gasoline, cotton and automobiles, and the nations of Europe have been distinct beneficiaries of American prosperity as it has existed since 1922. A survey of tariff increases in Europe which the United States Tariff Commission is preparing for Senator Smoot shows that there has been a greater increase in European tariff rates since 1909 than in the United States. Under normal circumstances, a European tariff war waged against the United States seems pointless from the European standpoint unless Europe can be sure of attaining its goal through a program of duress.

But the international situation is admittedly complicated and no one knows what the real purposes of an anti-American tariff war may be. France waged a small-size tariff war with America in the winter of 1927 and gained a loosening up of American Government restrictions on loans to France as the price of a satisfactory adjustment. With this encouraging example there may be other concealed purposes behind the tariff war now in the process of formation.

NEW INDIAN POLICY.

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur is getting a close-up view of the Indian question. He recently visited the Klamath Indian reservation in Oregon and conferred with various groups interested in the local tribes. He also took occasion to announce to the West that the Government contemplates abolition of the reservations as soon as the Indians can be trained to handle their own affairs.

The decision to completely reverse the Government's policy in dealing with the Indians came shortly after the new administration took office. Secretary Wilbur has since been working out details of the policy and has come to the conclusion that the reservations can be broken up within 25 years. He entertains no illusions that the Indians can be made economically independent over night. All that has been done by the Government to foster reservation life, which, according to Secretary Wilbur, has been essentially jail life, will have to be undone. Immediate absorption of the Indian into the economic life of the country can not be hoped for, but the administration is to be congratulated that a start has been made.

Withdrawal of Government protection from the tribes is surrounded with difficulties. The transition from a policy that has herded the Indians by themselves to a policy that will incorporate them into regular American communities, may be hard on the aborigines. There will be plenty of exploiters ready to take advantage of every opening, and conditions under the new policy may be unsatisfactory for a time. This is to be expected, but the difficulties of the transition period may be greatly mitigated by careful planning and gradual introduction of changes. Any attempt to suddenly withdraw Federal protection would be disastrous for the Indians.

Apparently the Senate Indian investigation committee has not awakened to the new era in Indian affairs. The investigation began under the previous administration and was no doubt instrumental in pointing to the need for a change. Since then the Indian Bureau has undergone a revolution, but the mania of the Senate committee for investigating continues unabated. Hence committee members will journey into Wisconsin, Montana and the Dakotas for more evidence with which to confound the new bureau officials. There can be only one result of such unnecessary probing. It will disrupt the orderly transition from the old policy to the new and complicate the whole problem. It may influence the Indian Bureau to speed up its program and bring the new plan to failure. Why not give the Interior Department a chance to work out its policy before harassing it with Senate investigations?

BUILDING A MERCHANT MARINE.

The report just issued by the National Industrial Conference Board is more valuable for its analysis of the present status of the American Merchant Marine than for any suggestions for strengthening the position of this country upon the seas. American merchant vessels are confronted with unusual competition because of lower costs of building and operating ships in other countries. This unfavorable condition is aggravated by increased construction of vessels of foreign registry and a steady reduction in the percentage of American trade carried by American ships.

The question presented by the board is: "If the shipping industry of any country is in an inherently unprofitable position, how far is such a country justified in aiding the expansion of its merchant marine from the point of view of its own domestic interest and of international considerations, to provide an indispensable minimum of support for its foreign trade and to assure its national security?" This question is answered in a general way in the statement that "it would appear that the provision of shipping facilities required to carry one-half of the foreign trade of a nation would constitute a reasonable standard." The United States fleet does not meet even this low standard. In 1920, American ships carried 42.7 per cent of our total water-borne commerce. By 1928 the percentage had been reduced to 33.6 per cent. During this same period the importance of the United States as a maritime nation became more pronounced and foreign trade was rapidly expanded.

The arguments in favor of a strong merchant marine are well known. The nation dependent upon foreign ships is liable to discriminatory treatment, unreasonable rates and interrupted service in the event of war. With the present world competition for markets, the nation with an inadequate fleet is at a great disadvantage. A merchant marine is an indispensable auxiliary to an adequate navy. The question to be considered is not how much more it costs to operate American vessels than foreign ships, but how great will be the damage suffered through lost markets and inadequate protection if American shipping continues to decline.

The board found that "a policy of specifically determined government aid for the maintenance of an American merchant marine is advisable for the present at least," and that relatively few American shipowners would survive in the absence of government help. At the same time it questions the advisability of encouraging development of the American fleet to an extent which would unreasonably lessen use of foreign shipping services. It is pointed out that "any policy which resulted in an expansion of facilities beyond actual needs would only serve to intensify competition and to place American ship operators in a still more unsatisfactory position."

Obviously, the wisdom of this observation depends upon what the actual merchant marine needs of this country are considered to be. The position of the United States is becoming more disadvantageous every year from the standpoint of trade handled in American ships. Foreign nations are building up their fleets at a rapid rate. There is already a surplus of merchant vessels on the sea. If the United States hesitates to develop its fleet because the field is already crowded, it will fall farther and farther behind the other maritime nations each year, and its commerce may be expected to suffer accordingly. The bulk of the American fleet is comprised of slow-speed vessels which must be replaced. The competition furnished by luxurious, speedy liners in the Atlantic service must be met. It will be difficult now to build a fleet which can regain a major portion of American overseas commerce, but that difficulty will be accentuated each year that American shipping lags behind.

PLANE-TRAIN SERVICE.

Following months of intensive preliminary activity and a two-week dress rehearsal plane-train passenger facilities extending from coast to coast have been thrown open for public patronage. Last Sunday evening the first passengers boarded a train in New York, yesterday morning they transferred at Port Columbus, Ohio, to planes, yesterday evening they again boarded sleepers and this morning they resumed the journey by plane. They will arrive in Los Angeles tonight, 48 hours after their departure from New York.

Inauguration of transcontinental plane-train service marks an impressive moment. When the railroad linked the oceans the nationalization of the country began and now that the distance between the oceans has, in effect, been lessened by the airplane the nationalization process may be expected to spurt forward. As time goes on it will become increasingly difficult for narrow sectionalism to survive. As the people are brought closer together they are bound to develop a unity of purpose and of feeling, to lose in time the characteristic that has led them, consciously or subconsciously, to examine all matters as Westerners, Northerners, or Southerners. The airplane, in becoming an integral part of the transportation system, will stimulate travel and make neighbors of widely separated sections of the country.

Only a start has been made. Ultimately the transcontinental air transport systems will be linked with air or rail feeders to every hamlet in the country. Sooner or later there will come demands for even speedier service, and they will be met by night flights in sleeper planes over lighted airways. It is singularly fortunate that the railroads are playing such an important part in this development. They, better than any other agency, have the facilities and the background of experience necessary to make the airplane an important factor in the transportation machine, and by placing the airplane in their service they are turning what might otherwise be destructive competition to good advantage.

The Government will inquire into the theft of 50,000 gallons of whisky from a Federal warehouse. Before another investigation is necessary, it might be well if Col. Grant were to make certain that the Washington Monument is tacked down firmly all around.

Calvin Coolidge, well-known economy enthusiast, turns over the pages of the letters he receives and inscribes his reply on the unused reverse, which puts those who would in turn reply to him, but who wouldn't want to hurt his feelings, in somewhat of a quandary.

SACRIFICE AND GOVERNMENT

From the New York World.

Mr. Hoover, announcing that Alexander Legge had left the presidency of the International Harvester Co. at $100,000 a year to become chairman of the Farm Board at $12,000, spoke of his "great personal sacrifice." Mr. Legge is but the latest recruit in a large group of similarly public-spirited men. Col. Earl D. Church, the new Commissioner of Patents, resigned a post with the Travelers Insurance Co. said to pay not less than $100,000. Joseph P. Cotton, of New York, abandoned a law practice of equal value to become Undersecretary of State at $10,000. Patrick J. Hurley, of the War Department; E. V. Jahncke, of the Navy Department, and Charles J. Rhoads, the new Indian Commissioner, all gave up important activities and high incomes to take departmental positions of less than the first rank. One of Mr. Hoover's distinctions has always been his ability to attract able subordinates and his achievement in filling Federal offices with men of this type is characteristic and highly creditable.

The country will be grateful to these men for so unselfishly contributing their talents. Yet most of them would be among the first to reject the word "sacrifice" as it is carelessly applied. Certainly they would spurn the implication that in giving up high money rewards they give up something they enormously value. A man like Mr. Legge, or Mr. Cotton, or Mr. Rhoads has not been attracted to his job by the fact that he could make $100,000 in it. He holds his position primarily because he is interested in a big job. When the Government offers him an opportunity to do an even bigger job, with at least measurable applause, presumably he does not feel that he makes a "sacrifice" in accepting or that he merits public sympathy.

It is true that Mr. Legge gives up $88,000 a year in his new office. But instead of controlling a smooth-running corporation he undertakes to make a success of one of the most prodigious economic experiments a government has ever undertaken. Instead of serving a corporation he serves a nation. Instead of obtaining better dividends for some thousands of stockholders he essays to make life easier and happier for 40,000,000 country dwellers. If Mr. Legge has the imagination with which we credit him, he no more calls this a "sacrifice" than Mr. Dwight Morrow called his exchange of a Morgan partnership for the Ambassadorship to Mexico a sacrifice; he calls it an opportunity. Particularly after a business man has acquired a large competence—as those we have named have done—public office should have its high allurements. If we are to measure sacrifice in terms of financial renunciation the palm should go to those bureau heads who, never having stopped to make money, served administration after administration for a pinched salary when they know that in private employ they could multiply it several times over. Of these men there are not a few.

But whether we call it sacrifice or not, the tradition that important business leaders should be ready, at the President's call, to leave their places for Federal office is a tradition which should be established and enlarged. We have never had in this country a reservoir of talent available for public service such as Great Britain has had. Our world of business should serve in larger degree as such a reservoir. In the past our business men were seldom of the type—they seldom had the broad education—which made them good public servants. The Government, moreover, was accustomed to give office to politicians only—and if it went outside the politicians it went only to the legal profession. Both these conditions have changed. We are producing a new and better type of business man, university trained, broadly traveled and read, and accustomed to meet problems with imagination and public spirit. Our Government believes more and more in the expert. Both Roosevelt and Wilson made apt use of expert business men as alternatives to politicians, and the World War in especial brought them to Washington in numbers. We may hope that hereafter we shall have a good deal more of this happiest of contacts between business and government.

Almost.

Topeka Daily Capital: A Chicago man laughed so hard at a joke that he fell off the porch and cracked his skull—almost laughed himself to death.

But Isn't It Fun?

Ohio State Journal: Another concrete result of prohibition is that more of our best people are being kissed at parties than ever before in the history of the Republic.

Strawberries and Mule.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: The Ozarks have developed a delicious white strawberry. They had already developed an excellent white mule.

But It'll Come.

Indianapolis News: It begins to look as if the country will have to get through another year without an automobile that can mow the lawn.

Why Not?

Buffalo News: Happy thought. If Scarface Al can find safety in jail, why not build one big enough for all Chicago citizens who are not gangsters?

Eddie's Specialty.

Atlanta Constitution: The Tampa Tribune thinks that the Prince of Wales, at 35 years of age, should begin growing a set of whiskers. He has been noted for years for his close shaves.

Well-Dressed Soldiers.

Buffalo News: The United States Quartermaster Corps is determined to make the American soldier the "best dressed" fighting man in the world. With that idea in view the best minds of the corps now are trying out new styles of campaign and dress hats, leggins, trench coats and so on. Uncle Sam yet may have fighting men who on parade, will outshine the cuirassiers, the hussars and the uhlans of the continental European armies, the guard regiments of Great Britain and the brightly garbed Balkan and Latin-American soldiers. This enterprise at least means that there is no present belief in army quarters that wars are brewing. When thoughts are of war the idea is to make the soldier's gear dull and drab as the mud he must crawl in.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

NELLIE STARTS THE OLD ARGUMENT

"Had I my life to live again
I would not bother with the men,
Instead I think I'd choose," said she,
"A spinster, unattached, to be.

"I'd have no romping boys to race
And scatter dirt about the place—
To please myself alone I'd plan
And not be a slave to any man.

"Just think of all the years I've spent
Fighting a husband's discontent;
Cooking the foods I couldn't bear
Because he liked that sort of fare.

"Think of the times I've stayed at home
Because he didn't want to roam;
Think of the fun I could have had
When I was darning socks for dad."

When such an argument begins
And she discusses all my sins
I never trouble to reply,
I know how hard a case am I.

But strangely something else I know,
The woman who is talking so
And thinks she would a spinster be
Is taking excellent care of me.

This freedom which she praises so
She has no great desire to know,
On me she keeps a watchful eye
For fear I'll go astray or die.

'Tis idle talk that but conceals
The truth about the way she feels.
For down unto the journey's end
She wants those socks of mine to mend.

It Is Cheaper to Feed a Cow on Hay, But You Won't Get Much Milk.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

CAPITAL as everybody knows, is timid.

That means, in practice, that men who have money are afraid to spend it to develop their business when trouble is in sight.

When they quit spending, money quits circulating. Workers are idle. Times are hard.

What, then, is the foundation of prosperity? Spending. Keeping money in circulation.

A nation of good spenders is a busy and prosperous nation.

The thrift of our fathers kept the people poor.

In backward sections of America a similar thrift is practiced still.

The small merchant or craftsman washes his own car, paints his own garage, does his own plumbing, mends his own roof. If he is a true penny-pincher, he cuts the hair of his children and mends their shoes.

Thus he hopes to get rich by denying his neighbors a share of his earnings, but his penury serves only to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.

His neighbors follow his example, each determined to keep all he can and give the other little as possible, and all alike live from hand to mouth—primitive, miserly, selfish, poverty-stricken and unprogressive.

Thus our fathers lived, and while they sewed on patches they scolded the spendthrifts.

But the spendthrifts made America rich.

Employers, who once hoped to make profits by keeping wages low, discovered that men who earn much are prone to spend much—that much spending increases demand—that increased demand speeds up the machinery and increases the profits.

The more Peter buys of Paul, the more Paul can buy of Peter. That is the explanation of our prosperity.

The poor are scolded for spending money before they earn it—for buying on credit—but all of the Nation's business is done on credit.

Divide all the money equally and each of us would have less than $50. Put all business on a cash basis tomorrow and every wheel would stop.

Checks, drafts, notes, invoices, bills of lading—these are the currency of commerce, and they represent credit.

To build a 20-year road with 40-year bonds is economic folly; but if the bonds are retired in 20 years and the road lasts 40, much is gained.

Installment buying gives luxury to the poor, and is foolish only when the thing bought does not outlast the payments.

While Americans spend to their limit, production will continue and each new day will bring new money to spend.

The poor man who buys no insurance and saves nothing for old age or disaster is a plain sucker; but the more we consume as a people the more we have, and the true economy is to keep every dollar on the move.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE BIRD-BATH.

She: Now the place is just lovely, except for one thing.

He (highly apprehensive of additional expense): What's that?

She: We ought to have a bird-bath.

He: Don't be silly; we haven't any birds yet.

She: But, dear, you don't—

He: Now listen, honey. I've laid out a lot of money on this place and you've got to go easy. A little later I'll buy you a couple of birds and then it will be time enough to talk about their baths.

She: I mean a bird-bath for the outdoor birds, darling. You put it out in the yard, you know, and all the birds come from everywhere to bathe in it.

He: Just what's the idea of a bird-bath, anyhow?

She: It brings the birds from everywhere to bathe.

He: Why bring 'em here to bathe? Let 'em bathe somewhere else and come here when they get through.

She: Oh, you just don't understand, Caspar.

He: Yes, I do. I know all about it, but what I don't see is why we should go to any expense to wash birds this season. Let's take 'em as they come this summer, dirty or not. Next year maybe I'll feel more like going in for a bath for them. If things go good I may even build 'em a shower.

She: What little money a bird-bath would cost would never be missed. It would give the grounds the right touch.

He: The grounds look fine. Have I skimped on a thing so far? Didn't I go the limit on the landscape gardening and everything? Didn't I even have that woodland walk built for you just because you saw it in a magazine? Why does a bath for birds mean so much in your young life, woman?

She: You know very well I love birds.

He: You don't love birds any more than I do.

She: You've never done anything for a bird in your life. Give me a single instance where you did anything to make a bird happier.

He: Luvvamike, woman, have I gotta go around neglecting my work and doing them favors to show I love birds? I've loved birds all my life. Say, on the level, do you think these bird-baths mean a thing to the birds?

She: Of course, they do. Mrs. Feedge has one in her garden next door and you should see the birds flock to it and frolic in the water. She gets birds that never come to our yard.

He: What did they do before Mrs. Feedge built them a bath?

She: Oh, everybody has a bird-bath in the yard these days.

He: That's just the point; there are more baths than there are birds.

She: (breaking down and crying): You always oppose everything I want.

He: (always overpome by tears): There, there, don't cry. What'll one of them bird-baths cost?

She: You can get a lovely one for $32.50.

He: Well, go ahead and order one. Be sure it holds enough birds.

She: You big dear.

He: Aw, that's all right. I'll be a sport. Buy 'em some soap and a few Turkish towels, too. Life is short and we might as well enjoy our money while we live—we and the birds.

Quite a Question.

Detroit News: A Missouri housewife claims to receive radio selections on her vacuum cleaner. This raises the question of arranging a program for vacuum cleaners, including "White Wings," "Push Them Clouds Away," &c.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Armies and Navies Are the Backbone of Government—The American Navy Is Not a "Threat."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: W. T. Dwyer, in this morning's Post, advocates sinking every battleship to insure "peace." May I ask him how he intends to keep the peace after he has sunk his naval vessels. We still need armed policemen to keep peace in our cities. By Mr. Dwyer's fallacious line of reasoning all we would have to do to abolish crime would be to abolish the police force.

China has had no battleships, but has had nothing but bloodshed, revolutions, riots and armed interventions of foreign powers for years. The battleships of foreign powers have been the only protection of commercial firms in China. Now China has decided to have a navy and has asked Britain to help her start one. That's the first step in establishing a stable government and insuring peace.

A government exists to protect its citizens and insure their peaceful pursuit of business. A government which does not do this is not recognized. Armies and navies are, in this day and age, the backbone of governments. A federal government is as helpless without its military forces as a city is without its police force. When the Boston police went on strike peaceful citizens were at the mercy of the lawless. Stores were looted; people were attacked on the street.

Our Navy not only insures our citizens protection against invasion, but also against interference in their peaceful pursuit in all parts of the world. Our Navy is not a threat to any peaceful nation. M. C. DAVIS.

The Shooting of Policeman McDonald Illustrates the Fact That All Criminals Should Be Searched Upon Apprehension.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The shooting of Policeman H. J. McDonald will be widely regretted in Washington. The officer was shot down while in the performance of his duty. It was only in self-defense that he killed one of the two colored gunmen who attacked him.

The shooting of Officer McDonald was a costly mistake. His courage and energy were ably demonstrated when he conducted a pistol battle with the two bandits even after being shot through the right lung. The whole tragedy might have been avoided if the officer had searched the gunmen when he first captured them. According to the account of an eye witness, Officer McDonald pursued the two negroes into an alley and arrested them. He took both men in the front seat of his automobile and drove to a patrol box. He ordered them out ahead of him, and when he stepped through the door of the car, bending to avoid the top, one of the men opened fire.

The two negroes had entered a drug store for the purpose of robbery. This branded them as desperate characters. All officers know that it is not safe to take chances with such men. It is not known whether the men were searched at all, but at any rate the search was not sufficient to disarm them. It can not be assumed that because a man submits to arrest he is not armed. Mistakes of this kind frequently cost the lives or the health of valuable officers. ALFRED ARGUS.

An Appeal to Public-Spirited Citizens to Provide Funds With Which Local Public Links Amateurs Can Be Sent to the National Tournament.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The eighth annual public links tournament will be played on the Forest Park municipal golf course, St. Louis, Mo., August 6-10. This event is open to all amateur players who are not members of a club owning and operating its own golf course.

These competitions usually bring together about 130 players, representing between 25 and 30 cities of the United States and Canada. Washington has been represented each year since the start in 1922, and it is hoped that this year will not be an exception.

Under the rules of the United States Golf Association, the city's representatives may accept traveling expenses plus $6 per day while away. It has been the custom to make an allowance on the basis of six days, and with railroad and Pullman fares and entrance fee, the amount needed for each player will be $132. The management of the municipal golf courses at East Potomac and Rock Creek Parks has agreed to provide funds for two representatives, but it is desired that the Capital City send the usual team of four, the number eligible to compete for the Harding trophy, a cup presented by the late President Harding.

It is necessary, therefore, to insure Washington representation in the St. Louis tournament, to provide needed expenses for the two remaining members of the team not taken care of by the management of the local golf courses.

Will not Washington's public-spirited citizens make this provision?
JAMES D. PRESTON.

Where Was the Republican Party Founded or Did It "Just Grow?"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Is it proper to ask where the Republican Party was born? A few weeks ago the newspapers were filled with stories about the celebration of the birth of Republicanism at Ripon, Wis. It seems that Ripon's claim is based on the fact that antislavery advocates first called themselves Republicans in the vicinity of that town. In brazen disregard of that claim, Jackson, Mich., has now celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of the first State convention which met under the name "Republican." They insist that the party was founded "under Jackson oaks and nowhere else."

The claims of both communities are perhaps well founded, though stanch Republicans seem inclined to favor Ripon because the other contender for the honor was named for President Jackson, a Democrat. President Hoover has discreetly refrained from recognizing either of the celebrations and cabinet members have generously spoken at both of them. What is the public to think as to the birthplace of the Republican Party May I suggest that this great organization was, like Topsy, neither born nor made just grew.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES

Miss Mary Hale To Be Bride Of Mr. G. H. Chase

Engagement Announced By Mrs. Chandler Hale; Miss Ottis to Wed.

By JEAN ELIOT.

MRS. CHANDLER HALE announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Cameron Hale, to Mr. George Howland Chase 3d, son of Mrs. George Howland Chase, of Washington.

This bit of news comes upon the heels of the announcement of the engagement of Miss Laura Francis Ottis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Ottis, of St. Paul, Minn., to Mr. John Hammond Bradshaw, jr., son of Dr. John Hammond Bradshaw, of Orange, N. J., and the late Mrs. Bradshaw. And both announcements have a very special interest in Washington.

Although Miss Hale has always been associated with the smart unofficial group of Washington society, she has a most interesting senatorial background. She is a niece of Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, a granddaughter of the late Senator Eugene Hale, also of Maine, and her grandmother, Mrs. Eugene Hale, is a daughter of the late Senator Zachariah Chandler, of Michigan. Through her mother, Miss Hale numbers the late Senator Don Cameron among her distinguished forebears. Mrs. Hale was Miss Rachel Cameron and Senator Cameron's youngest daughter.

Mr. Chase was graduated from St. Paul's School, Princeton University and the Harvard University Law School. He is at present associated with the law firm of Cravath, De Gersdorff, Swaine and Wood in New York.

Miss Hale is a graduate of Bryn Mawr and a vice president of the Washington Junior League. She has been prominent for several years in Junior League activities, especially in the dramatic productions of the group, and was the Alice of its engaging presentation of "Alice in Wonderland." Her father, Mr. Chandler Hale, makes his home, when in Washington, with his mother, Mrs. Eugene Hale.

Mrs. Hale Purchases Old Estate.

Mrs. Chandler Hale recently purchased Poplar Hill, the beautiful old Daingerfield estate near Upper Marlboro, Md., which was originally part of a crown grant known as His Lordship's Kindness, and expects to make the place her summer home in future. Miss Hale is her only daughter, but she has two sons, Mr. Donald Cameron Hale and Mr. Chandler Hale, jr.

Miss Ottis' "Washington connection"—to go back a bit—is through her uncle and aunt, the former Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg. She used occasionally to visit them here and, although she was formally presented to society in St. Paul last winter, she made a sort of preliminary debut in Washington in the height of the season, when she was the guest of Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg for several weeks.

She took part in many of the festivities of the younger set and one of the most interesting parties of the debutante calendar was given for her, Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg entertaining at a dinner dance at the Pan-American Union Building. The guests included many from the Diplomatic Corps and the official contingent as well as the debutante group. Miss Ottis also attended a White House reception as the guest of Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg.

Secretary Mellon And Son Leave City.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, is absent from Washington this week, visiting in New York and at his home in Pittsburgh. When he left town on Sunday evening he was accompanied by his son, Mr. Paul Mellon. It is expected that they will spend a few days with Mr. Mellon's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David Kirkpatrick Este Bruce, at their home on Long Island.

The Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Arthur M. Hyde, who has been in the West and spent Sunday in Kansas City, will visit Mrs. Hyde and their daughter, Miss Caroline Hyde, at their home in Trenton, Mo., before returning to Washington on July 15. The Secretary went to Jackson, Mich., to speak at a Republican anniversary rally after making a Fourth of July address in Atlanta, Ga.

Representative and Mrs. Willis C. Hawley have left Washington for their home in Oregon, where they will spend the summer. Before their departure their daughter, Mrs. Sam Tourtellot, of North Scituate, R. I., was their guest for a week.

Representative and Mrs. Henry St. George Tucker have arrived at the Powhatan from their home in Lexington, Va. Mrs. Tucker was formerly Miss Mary Jane Williams.

Hill Family Keeps Three Houses Open

Former Representative Has Homes in Baltimore, Laurel and Capital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Philip Hill are keeping "open house" with a vengeance this summer. They have three establishments going, their house in Baltimore, a country place at Laurel, Md., where their children are installed, and their house in Washington. It is exceedingly difficult to know where to find them, for part of the time they are in Baltimore. Again they spend a few days at Laurel with the children. And when the spirit moves them to come to a party in Washington or play around with their friends, they spend a night or two at their residence here.

Then, they camp out. Mrs. Hill getting the breakfast and enjoying the opportunity to test her culinary skill. But both their other residences are staffed with servants. The Hills also spend a good deal of their time at the Annapolis Roads Club, of which Mr. Hill is secretary. They had Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, as their guest there one day last week and on Sunday they spent most of the day at the beach with their children.

Noting the enthusiasm with which the youngsters greeted them on their arrival in the afternoon, one was moved to suppose that they had not seen their parents for two months. It developed, however, that it had been about two hours. Mr. and Mrs. Hill having brought the children to the beach club in the morning and then motored over to South River to have luncheon with friends.

It will be remembered that Mr. Hill lost his seat in the House when he decided to run for the Senate. He tried to stage a comeback in the last election, but was defeated. However, he is contesting his opponent's election and it is not beyond the bounds of possibility that he may be seated when the House convenes for its regular session in December. If not, his friends in Washington are hoping that this distinguished champion of the wets will try again.

The Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics and Mrs. William P. MacCracken, jr., who have been traveling in Europe since the close of the International Aerononautics Conference in Paris, are now at Amsterdam. They have been in Rome and Berlin and have also paid a visit to Friedrichshafen. Mr. MacCracken taking the opportunity of inspecting various air fields on the continent. On July 27 Mr. MacCracken will deliver an address in London under the auspices of the Wright Memorial Lectures and they will then sail for this country, returning to Washington shortly after August 1.

Senator David Aiken Reed has returned to town from Hot Springs, Va., where he went early last week for a brief vacation. Mrs. Reed, who accompanied him, remained at Hot Springs and the Senator will rejoin her there the last of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenney Entertain Two Guests.

Miss Esther Prager, formerly of Washington, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic D. McKenney at Harvey Hall, Kensington, Md., having come from New York with Mr. and Mrs. McKenney's daughter, Mrs. Arthur Wallis Dunn, who is also their guest. Miss Prager has been living in New York of late.

Miss Gertrude Richardson Brigham will leave town soon for a month in Newport, after which she will visit friends near Boston, and expects to return to Washington early in October.

Gen. Matsui En Route West From Capital

Distinguished Soldier on Last Lap of Inspection Trip.

Lieut. Gen. Iwane Matsui, of the Japanes army, and his brother, Maj. Gen. Nanao Matsui, who arrived in Washington Saturday, are now on their way to the West and will sail from San Francisco on July 17 for Japan. Last week they were guests of the Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi at their summer home at Buena Vista, Pa., for several days, passing the Fourth of July there and paying a visit to Gettysburg on the following day.

Lieut. Gen. Matsui, who was formerly chief of the intelligence section of the Japanese general staff, and his brother are now on the last lap of a six-month inspection tour of Asia, Europe and the United States. Maj. Gen. Matsui was once advisor to Field Marshal Chang in China.

The group of Cuban educators who arrived in Washington yesterday morning were guests at tea of the Cuban Embassy staff at the embassy yesterday afternoon. Numbering about 250, the party is composed mostly of women. They are on a tour of the large American cities on the Eastern seacoast. The trip was arranged by the Cuban department of public instruction with the cooperation of President Machado. Today the group will visit the Pan-American Union and other buildings and will leave in the afternoon for New York and Niagara Falls.

Miss Daisy Prentice will leave town today for Bass Rocks, Mass., to remain through the summer.

The Minister of Hungary, Count Laszlo Szechenyi, who with his family is passing the summer at Newport, has offered a prize for a golf tournament to be held at the Country Club this coming week-end. The tournament will be a mixed foursome, and Count Szechenyi and Mrs. Carroll D. Winslow were the first to enter.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

Senora de Rodriguez-Capote, wife of the Second Secretary of the Cuban Embassy, and their little daughter are established for the summer at Buena Vista, Pa., where they will be joined for the week-ends by Senor Rodriguez-Capote.

Capt. Enrique Prieto, Military Attache of the Cuban Embassy, will return the latter part of the week from Swamptscott, Mass., where he is passing several days with Senora de Prieto and their family.

Dr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Motor to Nova Scotia.

Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor have left Wild Acres, their country home near Washington, to motor through New England and Canada to Badeck, Nova Scotia, where they always spend the summer. They were accompanied as far as New York by their daughter, Mrs. Paxton Blair, who has been with them at Wild Acres since her return from a motor trip in Spain, and her two children. In Quebec Dr. and Mrs. Grosvenor will be joined by their daughter, Miss Carol Grosvenor, and Miss Adair Larson, who is to be her guest for the summer. Miss Mabel Grosvenor and Miss Gloria Grosvenor sailed from New York last week for Nova Scotia and are already at Badeck.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Beck and their small daughter, Miss Betty Beck, have returned to Washington after spending the Fourth of July holiday and the week-end at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Creighton, who have one of the charming cottages on Monterey Circle. Mr. Beck is secretary to the Secretary of State.

The Military Attache of the Italian Embassy, Brig. Gen. Augusto Villa, expects to close his apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel in August for a short time and take a motor trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Gordon Return to City.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Gordon, who have been guests of Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman at their cottage at Monterey, Pa., for a few days, returned to Washington yesterday. Maj. and Mrs. Waggaman came with them and will be at their town house for a few days, returning to Monterey in time to entertain a house party over the next week-end.

Maj. and Mrs. Davis Wills have as their guest Mrs. William Huntington, of Elyria, Ohio, and had a few friends dining with them last evening who were asked to meet Mrs. Huntington. Among them were Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman. Maj. and Mrs. Wills were guests of Mrs. Huntington last winter in Florida, making the trip south with her aboard her yacht.

During the absence of Mrs. Alvin Dodd, who is in Europe, Maj. Julia Stimson is occupying Mrs. Dodd's house in Georgetown.

Miss Sallie Anne Williams, eldest daughter of Mrs. Marthena Harrison Williams, will go to Omaha, Nebr., later in the summer to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Russell B. Harrison. Miss Williams and Miss Barbara Armstrong, daughter of Mr. R. L. Armstrong, spent a fortnight at the Annapolis Roads Club. Mrs. Williams joining them on Sunday and returning with them to Washington that evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Belmont Arrive in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont are arriving in New York today on the Majestic from a stay abroad and will be at the Ritz-Carlton until they leave for Newport.

Mrs. William Laird Dunlop has returned to town after a trip to the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs, West Va., and Hot Springs, Va. She was the guest of Mrs. Thomas J. Ward, of New York.

Gen. H. M. Lord and Mrs. Lord are in New York at the Hotel Astor.

Mrs. James Blythe has returned to her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel after visiting in Virginia Beach and Petersburg, Va., where Col. Blythe is now stationed.

Miss Martha Ann Woodrum, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Clifton A. Woodrum, of Virginia, is attending Camp Lafayette for girls at Craig Healing Springs, Va.

Maj. Hardenbergh Here for Brief Visit.

Maj. Raymond W. Hardenbergh, U. S. A., has returned to Washington from a short visit in Chicago and will be at the Mayflower two or three days before leaving for his new station at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. Mrs. Hardenbergh and their daughters, the Misses Helen and Sue Hardenbergh, are spending the summer in Santa Barbara, Calif. They made their home in Washington last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Thompson, with their daughters, Miss Katherine Thompson and Mrs. James Boys, have motored from their home in Mobile, Ala., and are passing a few days at the Wardman Park Hotel before continuing to Maine, where they will pass the summer in camp.

Miss Asenath Marchant and Miss Ruth E. Cummock, of Boston, are at the Grace Dodge Hotel for several days. They are teachers at the Simmons Gap Mission in Virginia.

Col. and Mrs. Brady Green Ruttencutter have taken an apartment at 3700 Massachusetts avenue, where they propose to make their home. They have recently returned to Washington from San Francisco, where they spent last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. DuBose are guests at the Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach, Va., as are Mrs. Julia B. Kerr and Mr. James Kerr, of Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Williamson have closed their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel and have gone to North Sutton, N. H., for the remainder of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy G. Harper, of 1206 Kenyon street, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on July 5. They are planning an extended motor tour through the West as a second honeymoon.

To Study in Paris

MISS SHIRLEY THEODORA LAKE,

daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Robert H. Lake, who will sail soon for Paris to pursue her studies in art.

Two Matrons on Way To Connecticut.

Mrs. Ralph P. Williams and Mrs. David P. Molony, of Washington, are at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York for several days on their way to Cheshire, Conn., by motor. They will pass their vacation at Cheshire. Mrs. Williams' daughter, Miss Nancy Milton Williams, is spending the summer at Fort Riley, Kans., as the guest of her uncle, Col. A. M. Milton, director of the cavalry school at that post.

Miss Margaret Lynam, accompanied by Miss Anne Hagan, left this morning for Montreal, whence they will sail for Europe July 13. They will visit in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Italy and Belgium and will be gone about two months.

A delegation from the Washington Round Table, consisting of Dr. Everett M. Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Fleming, Mr. Nathaniel K. Gardner, and Mr. Frederick C. Stelzer, left Washington yesterday by automobile for Indianapolis, Ind., to attend the international convention of the Loyal Knights of the Round Table, to be held there from July 10-13. Another delegate, Mr. William M. Aitchison, left by train last evening to join the party in Indianapolis. Dr. Ellison is first international vice president of Round Table; Mr. Fleming is international councilor for Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, and Mr. Aitchison is President of Washington Round Table.

Mrs. H. M. Hawkins, of Madison, Wis., is the guest for several days of Miss Tracy Copp, of the Grace Dodge Hotel. Mrs. Hawkins is en route to China, where she will join her husband.

Senor de Aranzo To Entertain Today.

Senor Gonzalo de Aranzo, of Cuba, will entertain at dinner this evening. The guests have been asked to meet Senora Julia de Aranzo and Senoritas Juliete and Elisa de Aranzo. After dinner Senor Aranzo will take his guests to the Pan-American Union for the concert.

Miss Jessie Dell will be hostess and will preside at a dinner to be given by the business and professional section of the Women's City Club tomorrow evening at 6:30 o'clock in the garden of the clubhouse, 22 Jackson place, weather permitting. This will be "press night." Among the guests of honor and speakers will be Miss Cora Rigby, Mrs. Sallie V. H. Pickett, Miss Cecelia Martin, Miss Madeline Ensign, Miss Winfred Mallon and Miss Hazel Edgar. Mrs. Grattan Kerans, publicity chairman of the club, will assist in receiving. Among those who have made reservations are Miss Etta Austin, Miss Mary L. Atkins, Miss Margaret Bayly, Miss Olive Beatty, Miss Virginia Benjamin, Miss Lucie Bernhard, Miss Blanche Butler Brown, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Mary L. Brown, Miss Myrtle Bunn, Mrs. William E. Chamberlin, Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, Miss Harriet Cheney, Miss Florence M. Christman, Miss Julia Coonan, Miss Willa Gallagher, Miss Mattie M. Gibson, Miss Sara Grogan, Miss A. Gutierrey, Mrs. Edith Heidel, Mrs. Mary C. D. Johnson, Miss Florence Layton, Miss May Leavitt, Mrs. Elizabeth E. M. H. Lewis, Miss Mary E. McKenny, Miss Elva McNamara, Miss Meda Ann Martin, Miss B. E. Malone, Mrs. Francis Marchant, Mrs. Helen Montague, Mrs. Gladys B. Middlemiss, Miss Grace Osgood, Judge Mary O'Toole, Mrs. Elizabeth L. Penn, Mrs. Ethel Knight Pollard, Mrs. Ada Mills Payne, Mrs. Clara Wright Smith, Mrs. Anna Belle Stewart, Mrs. Frank Gregory Stewart, Miss F. F. Stiles, Miss Kensett Vail, Miss Margaret Vail, Mrs. Lyman B. Sworm-stedt, Miss Hazel Swift, Miss Sallie Wade, Miss Josephine Willis, Miss Lucille Wilkinson and Miss Jessie Wishart.

Coal Men to Frolic At Bay Ridge Picnic

Members of the coal division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association will hold their annual picnic at Bay Ridge, Md., tomorrow. The yards and offices of the coal merchants will be closed all day of the picnic.

The party, which will number 150 or more, will leave by motorcade from Rhode Island avenue and North Capitol street at 9:30 a. m. Games, sports, swimming and fishing will feature the day.

Firemen's Parade Planned.

The Board of Trade of Washington is to sponsor the firemen's parade here Labor Day and expects to have 30 bands in the line, it was announced by officials of the board yesterday. Volunteer fire companies from five States have been invited to parade with the Washington firemen. This event, according to the officials, usually brings approximately 25,000 visitors to the city for the day and longer.

Shopping with Bab on Connecticut Avenue

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

What fun summer is! The days are hardily long enough to do all the amusing things there are in the calendar. Picnics, swimming parties, yachting, flights to distant places, visits from dear friends, plans for vacation . . . it's a great life!

Several times lately I have been struck with the strange psychology which controls the buying public. On the hottest days this summer the stores have been packed with shoppers. It just seems as though the hotter the weather the more things they think of to buy. Natural enough in one way, as the season's demands must be met, once we are in it, and previous to that time, the necessity always seems so remote. Have you seen the new belts of braided multi-colored organdy?

As Good as A Trip Away

—is a visit through the cool broad aisles of Dulin & Martin's handsome new store in Conn. Ave. and L St. There is so much to see, and there are so many additions to the wonderful things you can buy in this new home for an old establishment.

It was a surprise to me to see the department of novelty jewelry, and a great pleasure to find that importations of the newest fads and fancies from Paris are featured. We simply can not have too many places from which to select our costume jewelry, and Dulin & Martin's proves to be one, which you simply can not miss.

The displays of glass and crystal are too entrancing for anything. The vogue for colored glass is a happy one, and it is to be hoped it never changes. Some hostesses have the habit of using several changes of colors during a meal, and the extensive display at Dulin & Martin's is a great help for this plan.

Just now when you have picnics on your mind, it is well to know about all the various size "kits" for picnicking; motor lunches, including thermos bottles of every size and price.

Thirty Frocks Remain At Betty Hanna's

—to be sold out before Friday, when the shop closes for the summer. You may well imagine that they have been marked down regardless of original cost, as this shop intends to close with everything cleared away.

So if you have been waiting for some pet model to come down to rock bottom, now is your time to get it. Several lovely models are as low as $25, which have been much higher in price, of course.

The models in this shop are copies of important Parisian successes, made in the most perfect way from marvelous materials, so you are getting real bargains when you buy a gown here. Betty Hanna, 1613 Conn. Ave.

Why Dine at Home Today

—when there is such a cool delightful place at the Cavalier Cafe. Waxing poetic without intention! This little restaurant at 3500 Fourteenth street has a regular following of patronage, people who come two or three times a week for dinner or luncheon or even breakfast. They are so well pleased and like it so much, that it seems only fair to tell every one about it.

The moderate prices are a definite attraction, although the surroundings are so agreeable and the service and food so satisfactory that one must admit everything about the place contributes to its success.

Make Up a Swimming Party

—today for Plage Deauville at Wardman Park. This is the one spot right in town where you can have a cool refreshing swim and high cold drinks served attractively beside the pool, while the Club Chantecler Orchestra plays gayly.

It sounds like a good time, doesn't it? It is a good time. Furthermore, nothing like it available. When you think it is right in the heart of the city, you might say, and yet in a delightful woodland setting, you know it is different and unusual.

Not only residents of Wardman Hotel enjoy this, but any one who possesses a card is eligible. You apply for a card in the office at Wardman Park Hotel. Dinner and tea dancing every afternoon and evening at Plage Deauville.

Nealon & Co. Children's Clothes

—have entered the ranks of those reducing prices in a drastic manner. This well-known children's shop is in the Barr Building, suite 308, and proves to be a cool, easy place to shop.

Hats, particularly, have been reduced to ridiculously small prices. You can almost take them away for the trouble of going in.

It seemed to me that many of the hats were grown-ups, at least I bought one and am wearing it and no one has mistaken me for a child.

Since this shop has frocks up to size 18 you may find something besides children's clothes which will suit your needs.

Herron's Will Close Soon

—so everything in the shop is reduced in price way down below cost. Some of the most effective little frocks are only $8.50. Sleeveless dresses in pretty colors, in silk crepes and other tub materials are included in this grouping.

There are a few printed chiffons, some with long sleeves, but all made in the most attractive styles. If you have still a need for a few little dresses (and who hasn't), you will be delighted with the chance to buy them here. Herron, 1735 Conn. Ave.

Family Groups On the Roof

—at the Powhatan may be seen dining every evening. There is excellent food always, and the unsurpassed view and marvelous cool breeze make this the most desirable roof imaginable.

The Powhatan Roof is not a place to "make whoopee" as much as a place to be genuinely enjoyed by people who know what enjoyment is. This is evident by the type of people you find here on week nights particularly.

My advice is, go up at twilight, when you can enjoy the sky and the fading sunset colors, watch the stars come out, and the monuments silhouetted against the blue. Johnny Slaughter's Orchestra helps your perfect, satisfied enjoyment. No cover charge until 9 o'clock.

Outdoor Portraits Of Little Children

—are too fascinating for anything. Underwood & Underwood have a window of them this week, done in their inimitable manner. Children are their most natural selves in an outdoor setting, the garden in which they are accustomed to play, the sandpile, the gold fish pond are all possibilities for charming settings.

Home portraits are popular for every reason in the world, no matter who makes them, but with the superb Underwood & Underwood finish, and the skill in making, they prove to be the most wanted type of picture, especially at this season.

Subjects for these pictures are not confined to children, as family groups or studies of women and girls in their prettiest frocks and hats are lovely made outdoors.

Studio portraits are available now at a 25 per cent discount, but as you know, this does not include the home portraits. It will be to your advantage to have pictures made during this discount opportunity.

The Best Thing To Do Today

—if you want to get cool quickly is to do down to Hain's Point and take a swift ride in a speed boat for the small sum of $1. You have no idea how this will refresh you and cool you off. The ride lasts about 15 or 20 minutes, and as the boats go very fast you see a great deal of the Potomac in that time.

Picnic parties frequently engage a boat for an afternoon or an evening and dash up the river to some charming spot for supper and a cool ride home.

The Potomac Flying Service, which has made such a success of Hoover Field both from a recreation standpoint and with a commercial service, manage Hain's Point Speed Boats in the same efficient way.

Gar Wood Boats are used, as I have told you before, and since there is nothing better in fast motor boats, it is easy to imagine that you are having de luxe thrills when you enjoy a ride from Hains' Point.

You will find the boats operating at practically any time within reason, in the evening as well as the day.

A Week On the Cool Atlantic Ocean

—on the wonderful Ile de France, with idle fascinating days in England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Germany. Imagine being in Germany for the music festivals! Imagine, too, doing this trip with a small party of congenial people, and, best of all, at a rate for travel which you could not possibly manage going on your own.

Step in the Willard Hotel, go to the C. C. Drake Travel Bureau in the lobby, and Miss Moorehead, the young lady in charge, will tell you all about it. This trip begins on July 25. On that date you sail on the Ile de France. The entire cost is surprisingly moderate, considering all the things you will do. See about it right away.

Affectionately,

Bab

COMMERCE PARLEY DRAWS 45 NATIONS

1,400 Delegates at Opening of World Congress in Amsterdam.

150 PRESENT FROM U. S.

Amsterdam, Holland, July 8 (A.P.).—Fourteen hundred delegates from the chambers of commerce of 45 countries, including the United States, Canada and South America, were cordially welcomed to Amsterdam today in the home of Queen Wilhelmina to participate in the fifth congress of the International Chambers of Commerce.

The morning sessions today were devoted entirely to committee meetings and discussions by technical groups.

The committee on transportation, of which Col. Alvin B. Barber, Washington, D. C., is the American member, passed a resolution urging the importance of nondiscriminatory treatment of vessels of all nations engaged in international trade. Peru and Portugal came in for severe criticism for their alleged discrimination in favor of their own vessels carrying on world trade.

Private Control Defended.

Alberto Pirelli, of Milan, Italy, president of the international chamber, in his address emphasized the advantages of private ownership over state ownership, saying that private management was the most efficacious instrument for insuring progress in industry.

The special committee appointed to consider the economic and financial rehabilitation of China decided today to present no resolution on the subject to the plenary meeting of the congress on Wednesday.

The consensus of the committee, of which Silas Strawn, of Chicago, is the American member, was that the International Chamber of Commerce could take no action in the matter as long as the Chinese delegates insisted on abolition of extraterritorial rights.

The Chinese delegation, therefore, will return to Shanghai without having accomplished the main object of its mission, which was to persuade the powers through the International Chamber of Commerce to consider China as a commercial equal.

150 Americans Present.

Nearly 1,500 of the world's leading business men, with their wives and families crowded into the largest concert hall in Amsterdam this afternoon to hear the speech of Signor Pirelli. Other speakers pleaded for sincere cooperation and harmony in international commerce which they declared would lead ultimately to the formation of an international business code.

Conspicuous in the distinguished audience, which in variety of nationalities, tongues and costumes resembled an economic league of nations, were some of the best brains in the American industrial and financial world. They included Thomas W. Lamont, New York; Silas Strawn, Chicago; Willis H. Booth, New York; Alfred J. Brosseau, New York; William Butterworth, Moline, Ill; Roy D. Chapin, Detroit; John H. Fahey, Boston, and Edward A. Filene, Boston.

The 150 American delegates were exceeded in number only by the Germans, who had more than 200 representatives.

A unique feature of the congress was individual telephone headpieces, by means of which each delegate was given in his own language a translation of the speeches in foreign tongues.

Luncheon of Loyal Knights.

Loyal Knights of the Round Table at their weekly luncheon at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the University Club will discuss plans of the international convention of the organization to be held in Indianapolis, Ind., beginning tomorrow.

MAIL MEN PRESENT CAR TO CHIEF

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

Thirty-five thousand rural mail carriers in all parts of the United States contributed 10 cents each to purchase a high-powered limousine as a token of their appreciation to H. H. Billany, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, who retired yesterday after being in charge of the rural service for eight years. Ned H. Goodell, left, president of the National Rural Letter Carriers Association, is making the presentation to Mr. Billany, right.

Court Upholds Jilting Of Woman Moonshiner

Lansing, Mich., July 8 (A.P.).—Violation of the liquor laws is justification for breach of promise to marry, the State Supreme Court held today.

Rose Akema, of Kent County, sued Joseph J. Andruska for alleged failure to carry out a promise to marry. Andruska's defense was that the woman was manufacturing moonshine and home brew.

Andruska would have been a "dolt" to marry her, the court decided. As head of the household, he might have rendered himself liable to prosecution had she continued to violate the law.

ITALY AND VATICAN RESUME RELATIONS

First Nuncio to Modern Government Calls on King Emmanuel.

CENSORSHIP OF PAPER HIT

Rome, July 8 (A.P.).—Diplomatic relations between Italy and the Holy See, made possible by the recent Lateran treaties, were fully established today with the visit of Mgr. Borgongini Duca, first Nuncio to modern Italy, to King Victor Emmanuel at the Quirinal Palace, where he presented his credentials.

The day also was marked by the appearance in Osservatore Romano of a front-page editorial protest against the sequestration of the Catholic publication, Youthful Life, on the alleged grounds that it "tended to draw Italian Catholic youth away from the legitimate authority of the Italian state and Italian institutions."

Osservatore, frequently used by the Vatican for official pronouncements, says that the local censor in the Vicenza Diocese must have seen in an address of homage to the Pope which Youthful Life contained, an excitement to rebellion against the state's authority.

"It is really difficult in all the bitter history of censorship in all times to find such an enormity," says the paper.

The censor's logic, carried out, would have seen in the address of loyalty to the pontiff "a negation of the parents' authority, of the very principle of discipline and social order," adds the paper. "Just as if the invocation in the Lord's Prayer, 'Give us this day our daily bread,' might signify organized sabotage against the national economic structure."

Osservatore declares that the censor of Vicenza interpreted the loyal address in a worldly, instead of the spiritual sense in which it was intended. The text of the address already had appeared in other Catholic papers in Italy on the occasion of the Pope's own fete day without being censored. "No prefect and no censor ever saw in it matter for suppression or even criticism," it says.

Seven Men Burned By Molten Steel

Two May Die After White Hot Flood Weighing 15 Tons Traps Them.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 8 (A.P.).—Trapped by fifteen tons of flowing, white-hot steel in an industrial accident here today, seven men were burned badly and two of them were not expected to recover. The others were in a critical condition.

The men were working in the furnace room of the American Steel & Wire Co. when the bolts of a huge ladle broke. It overturned and spilled its deadly stream of molten metal on the floor. It splashed in all directions, hitting the seven before they could escape.

Other workers rescued the men as quickly as possible and rushed them to hospitals.

Texas Chemist Reports Woman Not Poisoned

Texarkana, Tex., July 8 (A.P.).—The State chemist at Austin today notified District Attorney R. G. Waters here that no poison was found in the viscera of Mrs. Chester Peavy, of Spring Hill, near here, who died suddenly on June 20. Mrs. Peavy's husband had been held without charge pending examination of his wife's viscera. Authorities said he will be released.

100,000 Elks Start Annual Convention

Los Angeles Jammed as Sports Inaugurate Big Program of Events.

Los Angeles, Calif., July 8 (A.P.).—Golf, baseball, bowling and trapshooting plus 1,500 automobiles for those who wanted to see Southern California's sights kept 100,000 or more visiting members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks and their families amused today.

Tonight the 1929 national convention was officially opened with Murray Hulbert the grand exalted ruler, and Mayor John C. Porter, of Los Angeles, taking leading parts.

Four automobiles bringing representatives of the Elks Magazine, official publication of the fraternity, arrived this morning after a cross-country tour in the interests of Elkdom.

Athletic tournaments started today will continue through the entire convention week. Among the tournaments was the lodge's 54-hole national golf tournament.

One woman tells another of this new solution to an old hygienic problem

ACROSS the counter, in offices, in drawing rooms—wherever women meet the world, they are learning new ease of mind through the discarding of makeshift sanitary protection. Kotex has changed the hygienic habits of women.

New advantages

Now come new perfections. Each pad deodorizes completely and safely.

85% of hospitals use Kotex filler

Can you imagine any more eloquent tribute to Kotex than this? Surgeons in 85% of the hospitals in this country select Kotex filler (Cellucotton absorbent wadding) for their patients! Not only for sanitary pads, but for all surgical dressings! This is the same, identical, Kotex-made Cellucotton.

A certain bulkiness associated with old-fashioned methods has been overcome, too. Each pad is rounded and tapered in such a way as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection.

Superiorities retained

You may adjust layers of filler as needed. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. Cellucotton absorbent wadding is 5 times more absorbent than cotton itself. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Softer gauze, softer filler

1—Kotex is soft... not a deceptive softness that packs into a hard chafing mass, but a fleecy, delicate, comfortable softness.
2—Corners rounded and tapered for inconspicuous protection.
3—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a patented process.
4—Adjustable filler may be changed to suit your individual needs.
5—It is easily disposed of.

Renew Your

HEALTH

By Purification

If the reading of this article teaches you only this one lesson about your own body it may be worth more than millions of dollars to you; for of what use is money without health, or after you are dead?

The lesson is this:—"Keep your system pure and you will have health and strength to gain and enjoy happiness, success and length of years."

But you may ask:—

How Can I Keep My System Pure?

That is not a hard question to answer, for physiology plainly teaches you that your liver, which is larger than all of the other glands of the body combined, has the special work of purifying your blood and thereby your entire system and of keeping it pure and healthy.

How Does the Liver Purify?

Physicians tell us that the liver has several functions, one of which is to manufacture a greenish-yellow, bitter fluid called bile, which, between meals, is stored up in the gall-bladder, but after each meal is poured out into the intestines. The bile is purgative and antiseptic or prophylactic. In health it is your bile that makes your bowels act regularly and freely every day—it is Nature's purgative. It is your bile that keeps your bowels pure, clean and free from fermentation (gas), putrefaction and decay. Remember that germs do not thrive where there is fresh bile and there can therefore be no fermentation to cause gas, nor putrefaction to produce poisons or toxines. Also, as bile is Nature's purgative, there can be no constipation if the bile is flowing naturally and freely from the gall-bladder into the bowels after each meal.

But when the bile becomes stagnant your bowels stop acting regularly and the contents become a breeding bed for the germs of fermentation (gas), decay and disease. These poisons (called toxines) are gradually absorbed into your blood and circulate all over your body, poisoning, irritating or inflaming your brain and nerves, your muscles and joints, your heart, lungs, skin, kidneys, and every vital organ of your body. Your doctor calls this "intestinal toxaemia," and tells you that your system is "toxic."

Functions of Gall-Bladder

In 24 hours your liver secretes about 25 to 30 ounces (5 to 6 teacupfuls) of bile, which flows through millions of minute canals, or ducts, uniting to make a large tube which empties into the gall-bladder, as creeks and rivulets unite to form a river that flows into a lake. Your gall-bladder is a hollow muscle that serves the double purpose of a reservoir and a pump. Its functions are similar to those of the urinary bladder. About three hours after eating, when the food is passing from the stomach into the intestine, your gall-bladder should begin its peristaltic contractions, thus pumping the bile into the small intestine where it is mixed with your food. (Bile is also a very important digestive fluid, aiding in the digestion and absorption of fats and oils. But that is too long a story to relate here.)

Nature's Danger Signals

When your car gets out of order you can tell it. It is the same way with your bile. Nature gives you warning—not by words, but by signals or symptoms. Your doctor recognizes these danger signals and you should also know them and instantly heed them. It may save you much pain, serious illness and perhaps big repair bills.

When the bile becomes stagnant in your gall-bladder and is dammed back into your liver instead of flowing freely into your bowels you, sooner or later, begin to feel some of the following symptoms—Your breath may become unpleasant, your tongue coated, a bad taste in your mouth, your food (and tobacco) lose their natural flavor, your food does not agree with you; you may have heartburn, gas, or fluttering around the heart, dizziness or blind spells; you may be troubled with belching or frequent passages of gas from the bowels; the gas "balloons" your bowels and presses so hard on the kidneys that it gives you pain, soreness, stiffness in the small of your back over your kidneys, making you think you have kidney trouble; at night the gas in your bowels presses upon your bladder making you get up frequently, thus breaking into your sleep. In the morning you are tired instead of refreshed. Gradually your health is injured. Your complexion becomes sallow, muddy or yellow—your skin may be disfigured with liver spots or pimples; dark rings may appear under your eyes, you may become sleepless, restless and irritable or blue and melancholic. You may have frequent colds or dull headache; your bowels stop their free, full and natural action; you have constipation, gas, putrefaction and self-poisoning or "intestinal toxaemia," as the doctors call it. High blood pressure, with headache and swooning spells, may result from continued neglect.

How to Make the Bile Flow

But when the bile stops flowing freely, how can we start it up again? The answer is: Take Calotabs at bedtime and drink water freely the next day. This formula represents the best thought and experience of the best physicians. No other purgative will do. If you take oils, salts, cascara, or the many other simple-laxative syrups, powders and candy laxatives you are merely wasting valuable time. They only make you feel better for a day or two. They do not remove the cause, for they do not promote the expulsion of the bile which is Nature's purgative and intestinal antiseptic. When you take Calotabs you know that you have taken a real doctor's medicine. It cleans you out thoroughly. Every inch of your twenty-five foot canal, including your stomach, small intestine and large intestine, is thoroughly cleared and washed clean and pure and your bile is flowing freely. Next morning your system feels purified and refreshed and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please and go about your work; there is no danger, for Calotabs are perfectly safe and create no habit, except the habit of healthy bowel actions.

What Are Calotabs—How Do They Act?

Calotabs are sugar coated tablets, containing the minimum effective dose of a thoroughly purified and refined calomel combined with assistants and correctives. The calomel facilitates the expulsion of the bile from the gall-bladder into the intestines and also serves as a mild intestinal antiseptic. Every physician knows that no other medicine can take its place; there is no such thing as a substitute for calomel. The assistants act like salts, washing the calomel out of the system and preventing its accumulation and any possibility of danger. The correctives settle the stomach and bowels, preventing nausea, sickening and gripping effects. Calotabs (and water) therefore, give you the combined effects of calomel and salts in a perfectly safe and delightful form.

The medicine chest of every home should be supplied with Calotabs, one of the most important of all family medicines. It is needed in many cases of sickness, and, if used occasionally as needed, may assist Nature to correct conditions which, if neglected, may lead to serious illness.

Avoid disappointment by refusing imitations. Your druggist can supply you with genuine Calotabs or will order them for you. For your protection, Calotabs are marketed in original packages only, bearing the copyrighted trademark. Family package, containing full direction, only 35 cents.

New Series By Mendoza On WMAL

Orchestra Head to Start Concerts Tonight—Use of Air Transportation by Business Concerns to Be Topic on WRC.

Static last night was the worst in several weeks. It was even present on the local stations.

The Fada Symphonic Hour, with David Mendoza as musical director, will begin a new series of broadcasts over WMAL and associated stations of the Columbia Broadcasting System at 9 o'clock tonight.

Mendoza will direct the orchestra each week. His broadcasts heretofore have taken place from the Capitol Theater, of the orchestra of which he was director for nine years. Lois Bennett, of Gilbert and Sullivan operetta fame, will help to make this first broadcast an outstanding one, and will include among her selections the Bird Song from "Pagliacci."

Mendoza will offer a program of semi-classic and light music. His selections will range from "Cavalleria Rusticana" to "Musical Comedies of Yesterday."

The Old Gold-Paul Whiteman Hour will be heard from Universal City, Calif., at 8 o'clock, via WMAL, playing "American Tune," "Pickin' Cotton," "You, Just You," "Song of Siberia," "Drigo Serenade," "Laughing Marionettes," "Number Three," "Ma Belle," "Oh Ya Ya," "Pagan Love Song," "Can It Be True," "I'll Never Ask For More," "Canoodle-Oodle Along," "The Sun Is at My Window," "Meander in the Meadow," "Carolina in the Morning," "Runnin' Wild," "Oh, Baby Where Can You Be?" and "Doin' the New Low Down."

A home-coming concert by the United States Army Band will be broadcast by Station NAA between 8 and 10 o'clock tonight from the esplanade of the Pan-American Union Building. Diana Martinez Milicua, Mexican coloratura soprano, and Senorita Lolita Cabrera Gainsborg, Bolivian pianist, will be the guest artists. Senorita Gainsborg is frequently heard over WEAF and the National Broadcasting Co. network.

The Army Band will play numbers from various countries which they used in the program played before the King of Spain.

"New Sky Speeds for Business" will be the subject of the second broadcast in the series "Roads of the Sky," to be heard at 6 o'clock. W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General, will be the speaker. He is the man in charge of air mail development and will give the inside story on what new speed, available through use of the air mail and air transport lines, means to business and industry in America. He will tell what savings are being made by business concerns through use of air transportation and how every one who mails a letter is at some time affected by the new means of dispatch.

His talks will be presented with appropriate musical incidentals by a concert orchestra, conducted by Hugo Mariani, with the Balladeers, a male octet. Glover will talk from the studios of WRC.

Handpicked selections of current Broadway hits will be broadcast by the Prophylactic Orchestra, under direction of Gene Rodemich at 7:30 o'clock, via WRC. A vocal trio will present its own version of "Ida."

Dance music by the Eskimos will be broadcast at 9 o'clock. Under direction of Harry Reser, an orchestra will present the following program: "That Is Love," "Happy Highways," "What a Day," "La Tambo Dance," "Valparaiso," "Now I'm in Love" and "Night Owl."

A radio visit to Naples will be paid in the "Neopolitan Nights" broadcast at 10 o'clock, with Giuseppe di Beredetto, Italian tenor and director of the ensemble; Nino Fucile, barytone; Joe Biviano, accordionist, and a mandolin quartet.

Bill Scotti's Hotel Manger Orchestra will play about fifteen selections between 11 o'clock and midnight.

Dean William C. Ruediger, of George Washington University, will be a speaker from WOL at 7 o'clock tonight. His subject will be "Course in Parent-Teacher Work." There will be a short program of dinner music and the regular Amos 'n' Andy period.

WJSV will be on the air from 6:30 to 11 o'clock with a varied program.

Still Feature Ensembles

ENSEMBLES, from the moment of their appearance in the smart sartorial world, have had just popularity, and it may be safely predicted that they will enjoy stellar importance for some time to come.

Black and white in combination also have had a stable history. With these classic components, Molyneux has created a costume of fresh chic, shown at the left in the illustration. The ensemble is of lightweight woolen in black, combined with white georgette crepe. The dress is tucked and pleated with all the craft of French workmanship and is finished with a collar and jabot of white and a narrowed tailored belt. The long coat has its extreme simplicity rendered interesting by applied sections along the border and at the cuffs.

The second ensemble is a model of Worth. Its gray woolen coat has smartly tailored lines, defined by well-placed seams. The dress of crepe de chine in pearl gray also is tailored, in its yoke and box-pleated skirt. An amusing touch is its heavily knotted scarf collar.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

JULY 9.

ANN WARD RADCLIFFE, the most popular English novelist of her day and the founder of a new school of novelists, was born this day, 1754. Her masterpiece is "The Mysteries of Udolphio" in four volumes. It was extremely popular for years.

None of her imitators ever equaled her in her ability in devising supernatural events followed by natural explanations. She was a perfect mistress of the mysterious in romance. She was the first writer of note to introduce description of scenery into fiction.

Bertha, Baroness Von Suttner, the Austrian author and worker for universal peace, was born this day, 1843. She was awarded the Nobel prize in 1905. For a time she was secretary to Alfred Nobel and became widely known as a writer on social science and on a world union to insure peace.

Florence Marryat, the English writer, author of more than 80 novels, was born this day, 1838. Her most popular novels are "Nelly Brooke," "Fighting the Air," and "Facing the Footlights." Many of her novels were devoted to spiritualism.

Screen-Grid Radio Tubes Are Praised

O. H. Caldwell, Formerly U. S. Commissioner, Is Latest Authority Giving Opinion on Receptivity and Tone Improvement.

The merits of the screen-grid tube are the principal subject of discussion in the radio industry. The latest authority on the subject to be heard from is O. H. Caldwell, of New York, former radio commissioner.

Among the arguments, Caldwell says, advanced in favor of the screen-grid are the following:

Tremendously increased amplification, makes greater sensitivity and selectivity, will produce great volume with fidelity of tone, is independent of line-voltage fluctuations, simplifies design and construction of receiver, insures more rapid start after turning on, tube production adequate and dependable by fall, reduces factory cost of set while improving characteristics and popular demand shows satisfaction and permanency.

Against the screen-grids, Caldwell says the following arguments are heard:

Popularity a passing fad; great sensitiveness not needed; static level is reached by other states; sets unsatisfactory unless tubes carefully selected and balanced; present sets promise trouble when retubed with stock tubes; shortage of tube supply foreseen this fall; many so-called screen-grid sets now offered do not utilize new tubes efficiently; screen-grid name is mere talking point; screen-grid sets no better than any good commercial old-line set; screen-grid models will take place as merely another line to sell.

"The screen-grid alternating-current tube," Caldwell said, "marks a tremendous technical advance in tube design, in the matter of amplification and sensitiveness of operation. On that, all engineering advice seems to agree.

"The outstanding characteristics of the screen-grid tube, of course, are that it greatly increases amplification in both radio and audio frequency stages. This, together with its use as power detector, gives increased distance reception and added quality of reproduction.

"From the electrical standpoint it is important to note that the screne-grid tube remains unaffected by small line-voltage changes. Due to the high amplification possibilities of this tube, an extremely sensitive set can be designed. Also, because of the screen-grid, the tube has characteristics which eliminate the necessity for certain balancing or neutralizing practices which heretofore have been commonplace.

"The alternating current screen-grid tube is to be regarded not only as a technical achievement, making for better radio reception, but its advocates look to it as the first triumh of economic improvement—a device making better radio receivers less expensive to build."

Mr. Caldwell said the manufacture of the screen-grid tube in sufficient quantities is a problem being rapidly solved as more and more production facilities are each day thrown into screen-grid supply. There should be no shortage this fall, analyzing the turn production has taken since the first alarms went out, he said.

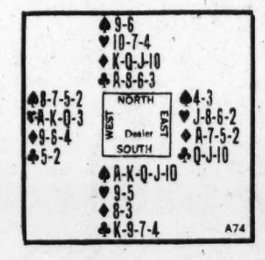
WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



The above deal would be played with Spades the trump at either Contract or Auction Bridge; at the former the contract probably would be four Spades, at the latter probably three Spades.

The deal was actually played in a game of Auction as follows:

West led the King, Queen and Ace of Hearts to the first three tricks. South ruffed the third Heart and led three rounds of trumps, hoping to find the six adverse trumps evenly divided. When he failed to do so, he reasoned that he might as well draw the last trump, which he did. He then led a Diamond from closed hand, which East won and led the Jack of Hearts which won because Declarer had no more trumps. Three Heart tricks and the Ace of Diamonds saved game for the adversaries.

Could the Declarer have made one more trick and game?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer's error was in leading trumps before establishing dummy's Diamonds. He should have realized that the six adverse trumps probably were divided 4-2 and, if so, it would take all South's trumps to exhaust them. In leading Diamonds to draw out the adverse Ace before leading trumps, Declarer need not fear another lead of Hearts because, if such lead should be made then, dummy could ruff it.

When East won with the Diamond Ace he probably would lead a Club which would be won by South and the trumps would be exhausted; then even if East had held off until the second round of Diamonds, South could put North in with the Ace of Clubs to make two good Diamonds, on which South could discard two losing Clubs.

What Today Means to You

JULY 9

By MARY BLAKE.

"CANCER."

IF July 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 5:30 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m.

A great deal of happiness may be expected under the good astrological influences which are predicted for this date. Peace, harmony and contentment will make life worth living. A short recess from worries and troubles will be taken.

The child born July 9 will have a very shy and retiring nature, and will not easily make friends. It will be a good student, a conscientious worker, and very dependable. It will be both mentally and physically brave.

You have a marked and magnetic personality, and, like others who possess this quality of personality, you seem to exercise unusual powers of attraction and repulsion. Others immediately react to your presence, liking or disliking you at once. You would be psychologically typed as an extrovert. You strongly, but without effort, impress your individuality on the public.

You are both a thinker, and a man or woman of action. Your nature is a very vital one, and you crave for contact with humanity at large. Any form of solitude enervates and bores you. Your nervous energy will not allow you to loaf, you must be doing something, you long for positive results. You probably do not take the pains, that you should, to make people like you. You care too little for the opinions of others. You have the power to win those whom you naturally antagonize. If you were more willing to play up to the weaknesses in others, you would have fewer enemies, and many less difficulties. It is true that your admirers are legion, that your friends are innumerable and loyal, but it is also true that you have many enemies to offset your friendship assets. You can not afford them. There is no doubt that you will, to a large measure, win for yourself that success in life that you most covet.

Successful people born July 9:
Elias Howe, inventor.
Philip P. Bliss, composer.
John D. Rockefeller, merchant.
James M. Beck, lawyer.

PROFIT TAKING AGAIN CUTS STOCKS' GAINS

Farm Implement, Mail Order and Rail Shares Move Further Upward.

CALL FUNDS 9 PER CENT

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Bullish operations were resumed with enthusiasm at the beginning of the new week on the stock market today, but the profit taking which cropped out late last week persisted, as call money again turned upward, reaching 9 per cent, and little public following was attracted, total sales for the session falling off to 3,522,166.

The Associated Press price indices of 50 leading industrials and 20 leading rails were again sent further into record high territory, as a wide assortment of issues, including such favorites as U. S. steel, allied chemical and New York Central were bid up to new peak prices.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent and rose to 9 as banks called about $40,000,000, presumably to pay off some of last week's heavy borrowings at the Federal Reserve Bank, and to meet straggling midyear payment checks returning for collection. Bankers indicated that the situation was entirely temporary, and predicted that definite improvement may be expected within a few days. This forecast appeared to be born out by a good demand for bankers acceptances, despite last week's reduction in rates, and by the fact that time money held at 7½ per cent.

Continued strength of grain prices prompted further bullish demonstrations in farm implement and mail order shares, Case Threshing soaring 24½ points to another record price, and Silver Farm Implement, Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward making fair gains.

Rails enjoyed especial favor, Wheeling and Lake Erie common, which occupies a strategic position in the Eastern merger plans, rising 29 points, to 99 in a few sales, the highest price since 1927 when it was sent up to 130 by a contest for control. The issue has been comparatively inactive of late. Pere Marquette jumped 15 points to a new peak at 200, and Alleghany Corporation preferred, Nickel Plate, New York Central, Norfolk & Western and Union Pacific were sent to new tops.

Steel Rises to 201¾.

U. S. Steel, stimulated by talk of the possibility of an extra cash or stock dividend when the directors meet this month, rose more than 5 points to a record price at 201¾, and several independent steels, including Youngstowns, Michigan and Otis, were heavily bought.

Office equipments were again strong, International Business Machines rising nearly 14 points to a record price. Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, American Locomotive, American Bank Note, Penick & Ford and Snyder Packing preferrred were among other issues reaching new high ground. American Sugar rose 5 points in response to an increase of ¼ of a cent in refined sugar prices.

General Electric, which has had a rise of more than 100 points in recent weeks, ran into rather heavy realizing, advancing a few points in the early transactions, but then falling back 10 points from the top and closing off about 3 points net. Auburn Auto, which has also had a spectacular rise, slid back about 14 points, rallying a little at the close. Eastman Kodak, Radio, International Telephone, Calumet & Arizona, Columbia Carbon and National Tea were among issues losing about 2 to 4 points.

Wheat Turns Upward.

After an early decline, wheat rebounded to a close more than a cent a bushel higher on bullish weather and crop reports. Corn was firm on smaller than expected Argentine crop estimates. Cotton rallied about $1 a bale in short covering on the Government acreage report, which shows a smaller area under cultivation than had been expected.

Foreign exchanges were firm, influenced by a rise of ¼ of a cent in sterling cables, carrying the rate to $4.85⅛, and probably precluding further movement of gold from London to New York, for the time being at least. The abrupt rise was interpreted as indicating that the rate was being pegged to prevent further losses of the yellow metal by the Bank of England.

GENERAL BOND LIST HOLDS UP STEADILY

Convertibles, With Few Exceptions, Remain Quiet—Industrials Are Mixed.

FOREIGN SUGARS FIRMER

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The convertible 4½ per cent debentures of the American and International Telephone Cos got into new high ground in the Bond Market today. Selling of the international issue in the afternoon, however, brought a sharp decline of 5 points from the peak of 166 and the closing price was 2½ below the previous close. The American bond, strong all day, touched a top of 153 and finished at 152, half a point above its previous record price, for a net advance of 4 points. This obligation, selling above its conversion level, reacted a week ago when the stockholders' rights expired, but more recently has been strongly supported.

Bonds in the general list maintained a steady trend until the last hour when a tendency to easiness developed, especially in the rails. Liquidation was of moderate proportions, however, and most of the turnovers ruled small. Convertibles, with the exception of the telephone issues and the Allegheny Corporation 5s, which moved narrowly, were inactive.

Fractional losses were recorded by a number of the carriers, including Rock Island refunding 4s, New York Central general 3½s, St. Louis and San Francisco 4½, Central of Georgia 5s and Canadian Pacific 4½, the latter making a new low of 95½. Erie refunding 5s, Great Northern 7s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Pennsylvania general 4½s, and Wabash 5½s received better support and advanced.

Industrials were mixed. International Cement 5½s closed at the new 1929 low of 99¼ on a 1-point recession; Hoe & Co. 6½s yielded nearly 2 points; and North American Cement 6½s dropped ½. The strongest issues in this group were the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s and 5s, which mounted 4 and 2 points, respectively, the former moving forward under the impetus of substantial buying. Pressed Steel Car 5s pushed up nearly 4½ points on a late rally.

In the generally soft utility section, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s closed in new low ground at 97¾ for a net loss of ½. The softness of this division was further emphasized by small fractional losses in such issues as Laclede Gas Light 5½s, Montana Power 5s, Rochester Gas & Electric 5½s, New York Telephone 6s, and Tennessee Electric Power 6s. Utah Power & Light 5s moved against the general trend and climbed 1 point.

Foreign sugars scored advances of 2 to 3½ points on the posting of higher prices for the staple. Foreign government obligations were steady to slightly stronger, while the Liberties and United States Treasury issues worked narrowly upward on nominal buying.

WASHINGTON: TUESDAY, JULY 9, 1929. 13

TIGERS ROUT NATS, 16-6, AFTER LOSING OPENER, 5-4

Picked Stars Survive D. C. Net Play

7 of 8 Seeded Players in Quarter Finals of Tourney.

McCue Beats O'Neil; Charest Triumphs Over Helms.

VINDICATING the judgment of the handicapping committee, seven of the eight seeded players yesterday arrived at the quarter-finals point in the singles of the District of Columbia tennis championship tournament at Edgemoor Club. Maurice O'Neil, former public courts champion, seeded No. 6, was the lone member of the favored group to drop out. He was beaten by Ensign J. K. McCue, of the Navy Leech Cup squad, 7—5, 6—0.

The favorites surviving are Maj Robert C. Van Vliet, of the Panama Canal Zone, seeded No. 1; Tom Mangan, former District champion, No. 2; Bob Considine, municipal champion, No. 3; Clarence Charest, former titleholder, No. 4; Dooley Mitchell, No. 5; Ensign William Howard, of the Nvy Leech Cup Team, No. 7, and Louis Kurland, Baltimore champion, No. 8.

Three of the four seeded doubles team remain in their end of the event; namely, Mangan and Considine, No. 1; O'Neil and Hal Fowler, defending champions, No. 2, and Ensigns Farrin and Howard, No. 4. Majs. Van Vliet and Pinley, the No. 3 team, were eliminated in the second round on Sunday in one of the few upsets that have occurred since the tournament opened last Thursday.

Heat Figures in Defeat of O'Neil by McCue.

A broiling sun handicapped the entire field yesterday and in the case of the veteran O'Neil figured largely in his defeat, although McCue's victory was well earned as he wisely chose to keep O'Neil running from sideline to sideline when it was evident that the veteran was slowing up under the terrific heat.

Mangan, Mitchell and Howard won only after hard battles, but the other four survivors triumphed rather easily Deane Judd, the southpaw Ohioan who uses a steel racquet, gave Mangan plenty to worry about before the ultimate victor broke through in the ninth game of the second set. The scores were 6—4, 6—4.

Mangan found a vexing problem in solving the peculiar service of Judd as the two made many funny twists due to the unusual amount of "english" given by Judd's racquet. Mangan flubbed many returns but not nearly as many as did Judd, whose errors contributed heavily to the winner's points.

Mitchell Averts Match Point To Eliminate Farrin.

Mitchell appeared due for a beating at the hands of Ensign Farrin, the young Naval Academy graduate holding a lead in games of 3 to 1 in the third set. Here, however, Mitchell inserted some accurate driving which was too much for his foe and netted him the next five games in a row. The scores were 6—3, 6—8, 6—3. Farrin was near match point when the public parks ace suddenly turned the tide in the decisive set.

Ensign Howard, former Central High School tennis captain and present coach of the Naval Academy racqueters, fought an exhausting battle with Maj. J. Huntington Hills, a member of the Army Leech Cup Team, winning in straight sets by 10—8 and 6—4. Hills hung on doggedly throughout both stanzas but finally fell a victim to Howard's superior speed.

Kurland, the Baltimore expert, who, like Judd, employs a steel racquet and who also enjoys the advantage of being left-handed, made short work of advancing at the expense of Gwynn King, one of the prominent local public park players. The scores were 6—2, 6—2. King never holding a threatening position. Kurland displayed a nice stroke that was a combined chop and drive and the ball cut up many queer antics much to King's discomfiture.

Considine Easy Victor Over City Junior Champion.

Cadet John Helms, the young West Pointer who furnished a big surprise on Sunday by defeating his coach, Maj. Finley, in the third round, was unequal to the task of eliminating another veteran, Charest, and the latter breezed in with a straight set victory by scores of 6—2, 6—3. Bob Considine had little

Pirates May Cop, Says Bush, If Ball Does Not Maim Them

Lively Sphere Is Like Bullet, Says Pilot of Contenders.

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, July 8 (A.P.).—Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, thinks his fast-traveling Buccaneers may win the National League pennant if the lively ball does not kill or maim some of his best players.

The Pirate pilot was asked if the ball is as closely related to a rabbit as has been alleged by some indignant players.

"It's not a ball, it's a bullet," said Donie. "Somebody's going to get killed if they don't watch out. A pitcher who has to put the ball over hasn't a chance. All he can do is to pitch and duck."

However, if the Pirates do not forget to duck, the manager thinks he has a great chance to win another pennant.

Will Be a Fight Until the Finish, Bush Declares.

"We will have to keep our heads up all the way, for this is going to be a fight right down to the finish," said Bush. "The Cubs and the Giants will take a lot of beating. The Cards have not been getting the pitching and went into a slump. They all do. When pitching fails you are through until you make other arrangements. That's what happened to us last year.

"Our pitching is good now and we have four players who figured to make or break us playing good ball every day. These four are Grantham at second base, Sheely at first, Bartell at short and Comorosky in left. We knew what the rest of the players could do, of course. There was no doubt about the Waners, Traynor or Hargreaves.

"Our pitching is due to get better. Jess Petty, after a slow start, is right and will win a lot of games for us."

It was suggested that rumor had linked Petty's name with possible requests for waivers. "Nothing to it," was the emphatic reply. "Petty is a great pitcher. He just couldn't get started. He'll go for us."

Robins and Reds Likely to Cause Lots of Trouble.

Manager Bush agreed promptly with a suggestion that a former Pittsburgh pitcher, "Jughandle Johnny" Morrison has established his right to come back with Brooklyn. "John was a good pitcher when he left Pittsburgh. He should never have left the league. Yes, he's got a sweet curve ball.

"Brooklyn will cause a lot of trouble before it is over. And Cincinnati, too. The Reds have no business in the cellar. They are hard enough for us to beat."

Players' Row Carried to Heydler

Hendricks Requests an Inquiry Into Wilson-Donohue Fight.

League Head Willing to "Hold Court" if Owners Desire.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, July 8 (A.P.).—The feud that has apparently sprung up between the Cincinnnati Reds and Chicago Cubs, as a result of incidents on and off the playing field, may wind up in President Heydler of the National League "holding court" on the whole situation. The league's chief executive, at least, is prepared to take whatever action is needed to avoid further outbreaks of the sort that led up to the fine and suspension of Hack Wilson, Chicago outfielder.

The latest developments today involved a conference between President Heydler and Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds, who called voluntarily on the league chief, in company with Pete Donohue, the Cincinnati pitcher attacked by Wilson in a railroad station at Chicago last week after episodes of violence earlier in the day upon the ball field. In his report to Heydler, Hendricks laid special stress upon what he characterized as Wilson's "unprovoked" attack upon Donohue, an incident which the league president had been obliged to ignore previously because it happened off the field.

Wilson's Attack Justified, Chicago Club Holds.

In pressing his charges, Hendricks requested that Mr. Heydler call a hearing, but under the league constitution, written demand for this must first come from the club owner. The president indicated he was willing to hold such a hearing, if the proper request is made, and at that time pass judgment after listening to both sides of the controversy. It is the contention of the Chicago Club, although it has yet made no official report, that Wilson had provocation for his charge upon the Red dugout during the game at Wrigley Field as well as his attack upon Donohue later.

Hendricks indicated that the Reds were aroused more by the run-in between Riggs Stephenson, Cub outfielder, and Hughey Critz, star Cincinnati second baseman, than by Wilson's actions. Stephenson, in an attempt to block a double play, cut Critz down and the Reds are temporarily without the services of their crack infielder.

Kolp Warned to Halt Dugout "Riding."

So far, the suspension of Wilson for three days, a term that expires tomorrow, is the only discipline administered by President Heydler in connection with the flare-up between the two clubs. It is understood, however, that the league chief also warned Ray Kolp, Cincinnati pitcher, against "riding" opposing players from the dugout. Kolp's tactics as a "jockey" are familiar throughout the National League circuit and it was because of his alleged taunts that Wilson left first base to invade the hostile ranks of the Reds at Chicago.

Cubs Hit Ball Hard; Trounce Braves, 11-3

Boston, July 8 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs hammered Leverett for fourteen hits today and defeated the Braves, 11 to 3. The victory made it two out of three in a four-game series. The Cubs got fifteen hits in all. Harold Carlson pitched his first full game of the year for Chicago and held the Braves to five hits.

The play of the Cubs' infield was errorless and at times brilliant.

Pirates Sign Flagstead For Pinch Hitting Duty

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Manager Donie Bush, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, announced today that he had signed Ira Flagstead, former star American League outfielder, to serve the Pirates in the capacity of a pinch hitter.

Flagstead formerly played with the Boston Red Sox, but went to Washington by the waiver route this season. He recently received his unconditional release from the Nats. When the other American League clubs waived on his services he became a free agent under the ten-year rule. Flagstead and Bush were teammates at Detroit a number of years ago.

D. C. BOYS WIN IN STATE NET TOURNEY

Trio From Capital Are Victors in Maryland Titular Play.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 8.—Washington's three aspirants survived the first day of play in the Maryland State boy and junior tennis championships today on the Mount Washington courts here. The fourth Capital City entrant, Frank Shore, was unable to play today, but will meet his first round opponent tomorrow.

Randy Robinson, one of the outstanding junior players of Washington, gave the most sensational exhibition of the District trio, defeating Emanuel Farber, one of the seeded entrants, in the first round, 6—3, 6—4. Robinson was never in serious trouble, holding an advantage through both sets.

Everett Simon, Central High School netman, advanced to the third round, by defeating J. W. O'Keefe in love sets before getting a gratis victory over Howard Seth, who defaulted.

Neale, Also of Central, Wins In Straight Sets.

Neale, another Central High player, moved into the second round by virtue of a well-earned triumph over C. C. King. Neale was extended to show his best in the first set, finally winning, 7—5. His opponent showed signs of weakening in the second set and Neale went on to an easy 6—2 victory.

Robinson's victim was not the only seeded junior star to fall by the wayside in the first round. Nathan Kramer removed Robert Reid in two close and bitterly contested sets, 7—5, 6—4.

LEWIS SEEKS MAT TITLE TONIGHT

Sonnenberg Risks His Wrestling Crown at Boston Ball Park.

BOSTON, July 8 (A.P.).—Gus Sonnenberg and Ed "Strangler" Lewis will go through their heavyweight championship wrestling match here tomorrow night at Fenway Park before the critical eyes of athletic officials from three outside States as well as a crowd that promises to be the largest one in the history of the sport.

Both wrestlers completed their long training sessions this afternoon. Lewis, at nearby Revere Beach and the champion at his shady camp in Danvers. Lewis lost his title to the former Dartmouth football player here last winter.

Joe Coffey and "Doc" Krone, rival Chicago wrestling promoters, who accompanied commissioner Samuel P. Luzzo of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, here for the match, announced that they had signed both Sonnenberg and Lewis and planned to match the winner of tomorrow night's match with an opponent selected by the Illinois authorities. They said they would stage this match jointly in Chicago on or about Labor Day.

Phils Beat Cards, 6 to 5, Bottomley Hits 20th

Philadelphia, July 8 (A.P.).—The Phillies made it three out of four from the St. Louis Cardinals today, by winning, 6 to 5. The Cardinals gave the Phillies a scare in the ninth by scoring once and having runners on first and second with two out, but Klein saved the day by grabbing Wilson's liner.

Bottomley hit his twentieth home run of the season in the first inning and Hurst rammed out his fourteenth in the fifth.

Stengel, Bohne Draw Lay-Offs for Fighting

Chicago, July 8 (A.P.).—Manager Casey Stengel, of Toledo, and Sammy Bohne, of Minneapolis, were suspended indefinitely today by President Thomas Hickey of the American Association.

Stengel was suspended for striking Lute Bohne, third baseman of the Columbia Senators, in Saturday's game, while Bohne was charged with starting a general fight between St. Paul and Minneapolis in their Fourth of July game at St. Paul. Near riots resulted from both encounters.

Tribe Rallies in 6th To Beat Red Sox, 5 to 2

Cleveland, July 8 (A.P.).—The Indians rallied for four runs off Danny MacFayden in the sixth and made it two out of three wins over the Red Sox today, with a score of 5 to 2.

Until the sixth, MacFayden had allowed only two hits Joe Shaute, Cleveland southpaw, was touched for eleven hits, but kept them scattered.

Pipgras Holds Browns To 4 Hits; Yankees Win

St. Louis, July 8 (A.P.).—The Yankees made second place in the American League safe for New York today by defeating their rivals for the post, the Browns, 10-3. The Yanks hammered three Brownie pitchers for sixteen hits, including home runs by Gehrig, Meusel and Dickey. Gehrig's was his twenty-second of the year.

George Pipgras did some fine pitching, especially in the early innings. He gave but four hits and retired the first thirteen men to face him in order. Meusel led the Yankee sluggers with four hits in five times at bat, while Ruth got three in five.

Benton Pitches Well; Giants Blank Reds

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—A fine pitching job by Larry Benton gave the Giants their third successive victory over the Cincinnati Reds today. The score was 3 to 0. Benton gave but three hits and two walks. The three blows came in separate innings. It was his second successive shutout.

LONG SHOTS TRIUMPH AT ARLINGTON AND EMPIRE

Form Players Jolted at 2 Big Tracks

Lady Broadcast Only Choice to Score at Arlington.

Half of Favorites at New York Win; Fator in Brilliant Ride.

By ORLO L. ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, July 8 (A.P.).—Form players went tumbling today as the long shots of the turf counted consistently at Arlington Park and Empire City—the only two major tracks operating in the country.

At Empire City, where the favorites counted for 50 per cent of the six races, it was not so bad for the boys, who lay store in their form sheets, but at fashionable Arlington Park, only one public choice pushed its nose under the wire a winner. To make it even more impressive the outsiders of the outsiders accounted for five of the seven events.

But for the victory of R. Caldwell's 3-year-old filly Lady Broadcast, in the fifth race, the favorites would have been put to utter rout at the Chicago track. Lady Broadcast rewarded her backers with only $3.38 for each $2 mutuel win ticket.

Pascuma Rides Reigh Olga To Arlington Victory.

Even in the feature race, the Delwan for 4-year-olds and up at one and one-sixteenth miles, Tony Pascuma rode Otto Lehman's Reigh Olga, an outsider, to victory—a triumph that paid the son of Sunreigh's backers $15.46 for a $2 investment at the mutuel windows.

A. L. Alexandre's 2-year-old filly, Red Rag, gave the favorite players the best run for their money, when she led the field home in the 5½-furlong sprint at Empire City and paid 13 to 20. The third race at the New York track—another sprint for juveniles—saw J. L. Holland's Royal Casta romp home the winner to pay odds quoted at 6 to 1. Laverne Fator's brilliant ride on the Mendham Stable's Please in the fifth race accounted for the third favorite's victory at Empire. Please was quoted at 5 to 2.

Suitor Returns $57.94 After Winning Sixth.

Here is the list of winners at Arlington Park and the prices they paid to win: Columbus, $17.06; Scotland, $6.26, Ben Marshall, $18.28; Reigh Olga, $15.46; Lady Broadcast, $3.38; Suitor, $57.94; Beaumont, $11.94.

While not so impressive from the long-shot side, the results at Empire City made a decided leaning away from the form players. Here are the results and quoted odds: Red Rag, 13 to 20; Ceylon Prince, 7 to 2; Royal Casta, 2 to 1; Chatford, 6 to 1; Please, 5 to 2; Niato, 7 to 1.

ROYAL CASTA broke well, rushed to the front, saved ground and won nicely in hand. JEU DE BAR suffered early interference and finished fast. MORTANA was in close quarters early, but closed some ground when clear. REX MOORE ran a good race from a bad start. AZYI WANDER beat the gate three lengths, but curled up after running two furlongs.

FOURTH RACE—About six furlongs. Purse, $1,200 added. The Hotel Embassy Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, easily. Went to post at 3:55. Off at 4:01½. Winner, J. L. Johnston's br. c. (3), by Chatterton—Balm. Trained by J. Hastings. Value to winner, $996; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:22 1-5, 0:46 2-5, 0:59 3-5, 1:10 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—COLUMBUS, $17.08, $8.54, $4.62; HERAN CORTES, $4.36, $2.98; HARAMZADA, $4.66.

COLUMBUS, away well, moved into command at once and, continuing well, gamely held race safe under hard urging. HERAN CORTES, close up from the break, finished stoutly through stretch and was wearing winner down fast. HARAMZADA, hard ridden throughout, finished well. JEAN LAFITTE raced forwardly throughout and had no mishaps. GO BETWEEN tired after showing speed to the stretch.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:50. Winner, H. K. Fenton's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SCOTLAND, $6.26, $3.58, $2.76; NORA D., $4.70, $4.32; CLEORA, $5.36.

SCOTLAND, going in his best form, was reserved close up to the stretch, where he closed stoutly when called upon and, under hard riding, just lasted. NORA D. responded gamely to hard riding and was overhauling the winner when she showed speed in pace-making, but tired upon reaching the stretch. CANDY PIG, away well, raced forwardly on the outside to the stretch where, after losing ground, he finished well under punishment.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400. The Bay Shore. For 3-year-olds. Start good for all but Linda. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:18. On at 3:20½. Winner, Mrs. D. L. Keiffer's br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BEN MARSHALL, $18.28, $6.30, $3.76; CRUCERO, $3.24, $2.76; MORTGAGE, $12.02.

BEN MARSHALL, rated in close attendance of early pace, moved into command in the stretch on the inside when MORTGAGE tired and, under hard riding, just lasted to outfinish CRUCERO. The latter, overconfidently handled, raced under restraint to the stretch, where he came with good courage and would have won in a few more strides. MORTGAGE displayed good speed in pacemaking, but tired in the final furlong.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. (Inner course.) Purse, $2,000. The Delvan. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:48. Off at 3:50. Winner, O. Two-dollar mutuels paid—REIGH OLGA, $15.46, $8.02, $7.48; LONGRIDGE, $16.26, $7.24; LUCKY HIT, $8.34.

REIGH OLGA, reserved off the early pace while racing on the inside, came to the outside entering the stretch and, closing with a rush, overhauled the leaders and drew out handily. LONGRIDGE raced forwardly throughout under light restraint and finished well. LUCKY HIT, much used in forcing the early pace, tired in the final drive. CANAAN, ridden in indifferent style, was hustled to the front at once and, hard urged throughout, showed the most speed to the stretch, where he tired.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (inner course). Purse, $1,600. The Ravina. For fillies and mares, 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Fannie J. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:19½. Off at 4:22. Winner, R. Caldwell's ch. f. (3), by Messenger—Courageous. Trained by R. J. Gilmore. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUITOR, $57.94, $13.22, $6.82; EARL OF WARWICK, $4.30, $2.86; GENGHIS KHAN, $3.80.

SUITOR, rated off early pace, moved up stoutly entering the stretch and, overhauling GENGHIS KHAN lasted well to outfinish EARL OF WARWICK. The latter, knocked back sharply in run through back stretch, moved up fast when clear and finished fastest of all. GENGHIS KHAN, enjoying the best of the start, moved into a long early advantage, but tired badly upon reaching the stretch. MAYOR WALKER closed some ground in the stretch. MISS MILDRED tired.

BARRETT LEADS FIELD IN PUBLIC LINKS QUALIFYING

150 Card Wins 36-Hole Event

Barrett, Fuch, Robertson Qualify for D. C. Muny Team.

Burroughs-Phelan Today Play Off for 4th Place on Team.

BY HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

ONCE a year the public links players of the National Capital struggle for the honor of representing this city in the annual public links championships. The contest was staged yesterday on the East Potomac and Rock Creek Park courses, competition being 36 holes, medal play, with the two low scores on each course to comprise the quartet eligible to play in the national championship. The largest field which ever participated in this event was entered yesterday, but the intense heat which prevailed during the day not only caused many of the entrants to decline to start, but compelled many others to withdraw before the two rounds had been completed.

At East Potomac Park Louis Fuchs and James B. Robertson were the winners, tying at the end of thirty-six holes with equal scores of 156. Ralph Bennie and Harry Kidder, both of whom had been regarded as serious contenders, were three strokes behind the leaders with 159.

Burrows and Phelan Tied For Second at Rock Creek.

At Rock Creek Park the field was led by Walter Barrett, a brick mason, who lives at Silver Spring, Md., who had two consistent rounds of 75 for a total of 150. There was a tie for second position between Bradley H. Burrows, a poultry merchant in West Washington, and Joseph F. Phelan, a clerk in the income tax division of the Internal Revenue Bureau, each with 153. This tie will be played off on the Rock Creek course at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Barrett led the Rock Creek Park field at the end of the morning round by two strokes with a card of 37—38—75 and at the end of the first nine in the afternoon had expended only 32 strokes, three under par, with birdies on the fifth, sixth and eighth holes due to 1-putt greens. He also had a birdie 3 on the par 4 second hole, 276 yards, when he drove the green and went down in two putts. On one hole, the seventh, he was one stroke over par. With a total of only 107 strokes for 27 holes he was apparently spread-eagling the field, but his homeward journey came near being a tragedy with a total of 43 strokes. He experienced all manner of trouble, culminating in a 7 on the sixteenth hole, when it cost him four strokes to reach the green, followed by three putts, missing a putt for a 6 when the ball was not over 4 inches from the cup.

150 Total Worries Barrett But Finally Stands Up.

On the eighteenth green he again missed a short putt, and with a total of 150 was on the anxious bench until all other possible contenders had turned in their cards. His score:

AFTERNOON ROUND.

In.... 4 4 5 3 5 5 7 5 5—43—75—150

At the commencement of the afternoon round Burrows, who had scored 77 in the forenoon, had a lead of two strokes over Phelan, but was only one stroke in the lead at the conclusion of the first nine of the afternoon play. Three holes, the twelfth, fifteenth and seventeenth, par 4, 5 and 3, respectively, were his undoing, for he took six strokes on each hole, with no other explanation of his misfortune than to smilingly suggest that perhaps his caddy had his fingers crossed. Phelan, playing moe steadily, had a chance to win second place with a total of 152, but missed a 6-foot putt on the home green.

No cards—George Molloy, Robert H. Brown, Harry Berenson, Clinton Dorsett, F. W. Lyon, Arthur Heine, Quincy Owens, Richard E. Bird, Samuel J. Parks, George A. Fuch, Claude T. Lawrence, William Warner, Samuel E. Chase, Ross A. Miller, W. Ernest Coleman.

Did not start—William C. Garges, J. E. Heath, Jack Feisten, Edwin C. Decker, Eugene Allison, William C. Duvall, Martin Fisher, jr., Ward E. Griffis, Irving Ahearn, John Chester, Hugh Mahoney, Henry Warner, O. H. Ruppert and Morris Abrams.

Both Fuchs and Robertson played good golf and their steadiness saved them from defeat at the hands of Bennie and Kidder, both of whom had good morning rounds, the former with 76 and the latter with 79, while Fuchs had 76 and Robertson 77. In the afternoon Bennie faltered on several holes and could not do better than 83, with Kidder finishing with 80. The fact that in the seventy-two holes which Fuchs and Robertson played there was only one 7 and three 6s demonstrates that they were continually scoring in low figures.

The cards:

RED CROSS NINE WINS.

The Red Cross Nine of St. Elizabeths Hospital defeated the employes of the hospital, 10 to 2 yesterday in a one-sided game. Goodwin, of the winners, not only hurled well, but collected three out of four at bat, including a home run, two triples and a single.

Herrera Wins Decision.

Pittsburgh, July 88 (A.P.).—Tony Herrera, Chicago, won a decision here tonight in ten rounds over Phil Goldstein, Pittsburgh. The Chicago boy weighed 133½; Martin, 128¼.

Al Singer, Bronx lightweight, outpointed Carl Duane, Brooklyn veteran, in a ten-round bout at Starlight Park tonight.

Spengler Post Victor, Not Victim, Sunday

The game between the Spengler and Victory Post Teams of the American Legion series Sunday was won by Spengler, 17 to 15, instead of by Victory, as previously reported. The victory kept Spengler above the 500 mark and a contender for the title. It was Victory's fourth loss in as many starts

Johnny Dundee Wins Over 'Cannonball' Martin

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion, won the decision over Cannonball Eddie Martin, former bantamweight king, in a ten-round bout at Dexter Park, Brooklyn, tonight.

Dundee outpointed Martin by a wide margin all the way. The former bantamweight champion's rushing tactics got him nowhere in the face of Dundee's clever boxing.

Dundee weighed 129½; Martin, 128½.

Indianapolis Ball Club Declared Not for Sale

Indianapolis, July 8 (A.P.).—Officials of the Indianapolis American Association Club today denied that Ty Cobb or any other individual or organization had been trying to purchase the team.

William E. Clauer, acting president since James A. Perry was killed in an airplane accident, and Morman E. Perry, vice president, said no overtures had been made. The report, emanating in the East, also had it that one or two major clubs were after the Indianapolis franchise to use the team as a farm.

"I do not see how they can buy the club if it is not for sale," Mr. Perry said.

DOUGHERTY IN TOWN.

Jimmy Dougherty, who has been with the Fort Worth Club of the Texas League all season, has returned home now since being released and has cast his lot with the Capitol Heights Junior Order Nine. Dougherty, a first-sacker, failed to stick in the big time because of his hitting, but many believe he will regain his batting eye with the Capitols for another trial next year.

PLAYGROUND MEET TO HAYES

Ludlow School Puts Up Good Fight But Loses, 95½-79½.

THE first of the series of dual and triangular track meets that are to be run preparatory for the annual conference track series of the playgrounds was held yesterday evening when Hayes Playground won an uphill fight to win from Ludlow Playground, 95½ to 79½.

Through the afternoon, the boys from Ludlow ran and jumped to an always threatening position, much to the surprise of the Hayes athletes. For the past three years, Hayes has defeated Ludlow in their presectional engagements and overconfidence was rampant among the youthful athletes from Hayes before the contest began.

The big surprise of the meet, however, was reserved for the last event, the half-mile run. In this event, eighteen athletes representing the two playgrounds faced the starter, so popular has this event become on the playground track program. This event ended in a sweep by Ludlow.

Ahern and J. Smith High Point Scorers.

Ahern, in the 70-pound class, and J. Smith in the 100-pound class, were the individual point scorers, each tallying a pair of first places. Ludlow showed supremacy in the relays, taking three first places to two for Hayes.

In the dual, triangular and conference meets, the boys are allowed to enter in more than one event, while in the city meet they are permitted in but one. Today Peabody Playground entertains Emory Playground and Maury Playground in a triangular engagement. These prechampionship meetings are under the direction of Harry Helme, inspector of playgrounds.

MACON GETS ELLIOTT.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—"Jumbo Jim" Elliott, huge left-hander, has been released under option to the Macon Club of the South Atlantic League by the Brooklyn Dodgers today. Elliott has been ill most of the current season and has made but infrequent appearances on the Brooklyn mound.

Rain Again Halts Play For Clay Court Titles

Indianapolis, Ind., July 8 (A.P.).—Another effort will be made tomorrow to complete the national clay court singles and doubles tennis championship tournament here, rain this afternoon causing further postponement.

Bryant M. Grant, Atlanta, Ga., and Emmett Pare, of Chicago, got to play but five games of their hard-fought fourth set of the semifinals in the singles today when rain sent them to the clubhouse. At the time Grant held 2-to-1 set lead and the games in the much-deuced fourth set stood at 11-all. When the macth was resumed today Grant had a 9-8 advantage in the fourth set.

The winner of the Grant-Pare match will play J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., Hall entered the final round by defeating Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex., last Saturday.

Marine Nine in Benefit Game at Baltimore

The Marine Corps Baseball Team at Quantico will play the Firemen's Team of Baltimore, Md., Thursday afternoon in a benefit game for the Second Division Memorial Association.

Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler will accompany the Marine Corps Team and about 500 Marines from Quantico to Baltimore Thursday morning. Mayor Broening of Baltimore, has donated a cup to be given the winning team and Babe Ruth has autographed two balls to be given to the Marine and the fireman holding the highest batting average for the game.

The Second Division Memorial Association is trying to raise $75,000 to build a memorial in honor of the members who lost their lives in the World War.

Routis, Champion, Loses To Zeramby, Lynn Boxer

Boston, July 8 (A.P.).—Young Jake Zeramby, of Lynn, trounced Andre Routis, featherweight champion, tonight in the Boston Garden's feature ten-round bout. A non-title affair because the victor came in overweight. The youngster, fighting his first important bout, stopped most of the champion's body attack by beating him to the punch with staggering pokes to the head. Routis won only two of the rounds.

SKYROADS By LIEUT. LESTER J. MAITLAND

"CUT THE GUN" MEANS "CLOSE THE THROTTLE"
CUT THE GUN! YOU'LL CRACK UP THE SHIP!
WHERE'S THE GUN, AND WHAT DO I CUT IT WITH?
STOP HER! SHE'LL BE KILLED!
SHE CAN'T GET PAST THAT ROW OF TREES.
GOOD NIGHT! SHE'S FROZEN THE CONTROLS IN A CLIMB! THIS IS TERRIBLE! WHY DID I EVER LET HER IN THE COCKPIT?
THERE MUST BE A CAR AT THE HOUSE. I'LL CHASE HER. SHE CAN'T GO FAR!

THE DOUBLE — By EDGAR WALLACE

The story thus far:
Richard Staines, department inspector, while visiting Tommy Weald, meets Mary Dane, a nurse, whose beauty instantly appeals to him. In London, as he seeks an exit from the deserted home of Tommy's neighbor, jovial Walter Derrick, where he has found refuge in a storm, Dick happens on a lighted room, in which a beautiful girl in evening dress is searching the pockets of a bound and helpless man. Before the light suddenly goes out and he is left alone, Dick recognizes the girl as Mary Dane. After freeing himself he hurries to Brighton, where he finds Mary has been attending a masked ball most of the evening. Weald and Derrick hear his account of the evening's adventures, and the latter says he must hasten home.

"I can drive you back tonight," said Tommy eagerly.

"We'll go in your car," interrupted Dick, "but I shall want a chauffeur to do the driving. Somehow I don't think this is my lucky night."

They routed out Tommy's chauffeur who, happily for him, had gone to bed very early that night, and by half-past two in the morning Lord Weald and his neighbor had discarded their fancy costumes and, in the garments of civilization, taken their places in the car.

The journey back to town seemed interminable. Dawn was in the sky when, splashed with mud, the big Rolls pulled up before Derrick's house. As Dick expected, there was a policeman on duty outside the door. He was a little uncommunicative until Inspector Staines made himself known. The case, he said, had been taken by a detective sergeant and a detective, but they had long since left the house.

Derrick let himself in with a key and the two men followed. They found that the caretaker was up and dressed. Though he was not a nervous man, he confessed that he had found it impossible to get to sleep that night.

Together the three men made a tour of the house. On the way up Dick had explained the circumstances which had brought him, a trespasser, into Mr. Derrick's household; and apparently the broken French window on the third floor had been seized upon by the detectives as proof that an entrance had been effected by this means.

"Which shows that Roberts don't know everything," said Tommy.

When they came downstairs the caretaker remembered a piece of news which he had omitted to give them.

"The police found a fingerprint on the beer glass. They took the glass away to Scotland Yard to have it photographed," he said.

This was intensely interesting news to at least one of the three.

It was broad daylight when Lord Weald opened the door of his house and a weary Dick followed him into the hall.

"You've got time for a nice bath, a bit of breakfast, and you'll be able to sleep on the train," said Tommy. "To tell you the truth, old boy, I'm rather sorry you're going."

"I'm not going," said Dick quietly. "This is a matter which I feel requires a little personal attention. I'm reporting to the Yard this morning, and if I'm in luck I shall get this case allotted to me."

He had a leisurely breakfast, and at the earliest convenient hour he called upon the assistant commissioner whose guest he was to have been and explained why he would prefer to spend his holiday in London. His host was too keen a policeman to object to this change of plans.

At 10 o'clock Dick went on to Scotland Yard, interviewed the chief constable and the superintendent, and had the case given into his hands.

"And it's a pretty big case, Staines," said Superintendent Bourke, "bigger than you imagine."

Dick looked at him in surprise. That it was an unusual case he was well aware, but its importance was not so obvious.

"Nine years ago," said Bourke very slowly, "the cashier of the Textile Co. was shot down by a motorcyclist who robbed him of about six hundred pounds. Do you remember that?"

Dick nodded.

"I read the case. I'd only just come into the police force."

"We never caught the man," said Bourke, looking at him thoughtfully. "The only clew we got was a very distinct thumb print on the pistol barrel—remember that?"

Dick nodded.

"I remember it very well: I've seen the thumb print a score of times; it was also used as an illustration in the late commissioner's memoirs."

"Late commissioners shouldn't have memoirs!" growled Bourke. "But get that fact into your head, Staines. Ten years ago a man is shot in cold blood, robbed of six hundred pounds, and the murderer gets away without a trace, leaves only an unknown thum print on the barrel of the pistol."

"Yes, I've got that in my mind," said Dick, wondering what was coming next.

Bourke opened a drawer, took out a photograph, and threw it on to the table.

"Take a look at that," he said; "it's interesting—it's the finger print of the Slough murderer, and it was found on the beer glass in Derrick's house tonight!"

CHAPTER IV.

Dick looked at the thumbprint, hardly believing the evidence of his senses. The Slough murder was one of the classic cases where an unknown man commits a murder in broad daylight, escapes leaving a fingerprint, is not arrested, and disappears as though the earth has opened for him. How many hundreds, how many thousands of new criminals who had fallen into the hands of the police had had their thumbprints taken and compared with the mark on the pistol? He himself had examined the impressions, every whorl, every island—he could have almost drawn it from memory.

"The whole case is rather mysterious, isn't it? Why should they have gone into Derrick's house at all? Even the pictures on the walls are hardly worth more than their frames. Yet this is the second attempt that has been made."

"Third," corrected Bourke. "There's one that Derrick doesn't know about. Do you know what I think? Sit down." Superintendent Bourke liked his audience to be seated. "Old man Derrick Walter Derrick's father, had a ho'-by——"

"I've heard about it," said Dick. "Curiously enough, his son was telling me last night."

"About the fingerprints?"

Dick nodded.

"He must have collected thousands," said Bourke. "We used to call him 'the amateur record officer.' He was out to find two fingerprints exactly alike and upset the whole of our organization. Although he was the most miserly man I ever heard about—they say he ran the big house of his on five pounds a week—he went to any amount of expense to collect the prints. He was as fanatical as a stamp fiend. He even paid collectors in big factories to send him specimen prints. The only joy he had in life was to sit over them night and day, comparing, measuring and classifying. I must say that he knew the subject even better than our man at Scotland Yard—at any rate, as well. If his eyesight hadn't failed he might have made a discovery of some sort."

He looked at Dick long and earnestly, and Inspector Staines knew his chief well enough to refrain from stimulating him.

"I'll tell you what my theory is," said Bourke at last. "I believe, in the course of his collecting, by some accident he got the thumbprint of the Slough murderer."

"But the collection has been destroyed," said Dick.

"Has it?" Bourke was obviously skeptical. "I know that as soon as Walter Derrick got home and got to work he began to clear out the collection. They were bound up in books; there was a whole wall full of 'em. As a matter of fact, I know because I saw them. After the old man died Walter sent to the Yard and asked if we'd like to accept them, but we've no use for law-abiding folk, so we turned the offer down. They were afterward destroyed—but were they all destroyed? This bird who is in Walter Derrick's house at odd moments knows as much about the burning of the collection as anybody else. Why, then, does he take the trouble and risk and spend the money? He or she is looking for a fingerprint. Twice they've been after it; once they had the house to themselves—it was when he was in Monte Carlo—that's why he had the caretaker put in—and not once have they stolen anything valuable."

Bourke threw out his arms with a dramatic gesture.

"My son, go get this lady and gentleman and you'll find the man who killed the Slough cashier!"

Dick approached this case as he had approached a dozen others, by forgetting all that he knew about it. But some things were very difficult to forget. Happily the gray-eyed nurse was no longer under suspicion. He was thinking a lot about the gray-eyed nurse; he said very scornful and derisive things about himself, made grimaces of contempt when he was shaving in the morning, and in more charitable moments was slightly amused by his own stupidity, his childishness.

Here was something very beautiful that had swum into his ken and had vanished again—a comet figure of loveliness and grace, visible just so long as it takes to stir a man's imagination, long enough to throw tiny roots in his heart so that the wrenching out was very painful. He would never see her again.

Tommy, it seemed, was more fortunate. He had seen her at Littlehampton—whiter Mr. Cornfort had moved—reading in one of the shelters on the foreshore, Mr. Cornfort sleeping, the shabby and unshaven chairman smoking in a surreptitious pipe behind the shelter, having propped the wheels of his Bath chair with large cobbles. All of this Tommy related in a letter.

Naturally, old boy (he wrote), I hopped off my machine and gave her a how-d'you-do. She was most affable and asked after you. Then the old gent woke up and cracked a couple of good gags about the weather that I seemed to have heard before (I told her this after he'd gone to sleep again, and she was frightfully amused).

Tommy was going on to Petworth, or somewhere near Petworth, where he had most "ferociously boring relations, who live in a sort of moated castle. Fearfully damp and terribly depressing in wet weather, but dear Aunt Martha may pop off any day, and what with the socialists, dear old boy, you can't afford to chuck away a chance of beating up an honest penny."

Dick read the letter at Scotland Yard and envied this flighty bachelor who had such wonderful opportunities of meeting the gray-eyed nurse, even in Littlehampton. Why hadn't Tommy stayed in Littlehampton? he thought irritably. Dick could have gone down to see him, to consult him—well, he would probably have seen her. He had half a mind to tell her of the ludicrous double business, of how at first sight he had confounded her with a soulless adventuress. It almost seemed an excuse worthy of the journey to tell her that alone. He told himself that he was getting childish, which was probably true.

The fingerprint found on the beer glass of the caretaker was without question identical with that found nine years before on the jacket of an automatic pistol. From the Scotland Yard records patient men dragged out every particular about the Slough murder and began to prepare a dossier. To bring that record up to date required no very great ingenuity. When they had finished their labors they knew no more about the murder than they had known nine years before.

DEPOSITS AND LOANS OF BANKS SHOW GAIN

Increase Partially Offset by Cut in Investments, Says Weekly Report.

STOCKS' PRICES HOLD UP

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A gain of $247,000,000 in loans, partly offset by a reduction of $169,000,000 in investments, increases of $275,000,000 in net demand deposits and of $111,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks, and decreases of $84,000,000 in time deposits and $67,000,000 in Government deposits were shown yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities July 3.

Loans on securities increased $221,000,000 at all reporting banks; $227,000,000 in the New York district, $9,000,000 in the Philadelphia, $8,000,000 in the Cleveland and declined $10,000,000 in the Chicago and $8,000,000 in the San Francisco district.

"All other" loans increased $21,000,000 and $9,000,000, respectively, in the New York and Boston districts, and receded $7,000,000 in the Chicago district, all reporting banks showing a net increase of $26,000,000.

Holdings of United States Government securities declined $114,000,000 in the New York district and $136,000,000 at all reporting banks, while holdings of other securities declined $34,000,000.

New Bank Appointees Named.

Growth of business at the Riggs National Bank branch at Fourteenth street and Park road, known as the Park Road Branch, and of the Dupont Circle Branch at Dupont Circle, has occasioned appointment of Joseph A. Keene, as assistant manager of the former branch, and Louis E. Jeffries, jr., as assistant manager of the latter.

Mr. Keene entered the employ of Riggs National Bank in June, 1919; has served in various capacities and at present is acting as note teller at the Park Road branch. Mr. Jeffries came to Riggs National Bank in July, 1918, left for a while and reentered its employ in 1924. He has served in all positions from that of a runner up to his present one as note teller at Dupont Circle Branch.

Stocks' Prices Firm.

Prices held firm on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday, but there was the usual opening of the week's light volume of business. Bond transactions totaled $6,700, a decrease of $3,400 from Friday's and the stock turnover aggregating 370 shares, was a 1,775-share recession from Friday's record for three months.

Capital Traction opened at 94¾ and sold back to 95 during the session, 44 shares changing hands. Potomac Electric 5½ per cent preferred sold up to 109, point rise, and the 6 per cent at 112, fractional decline. Washington Railway & Electric sold to the extent of 40 shares at a fractional advance from 96⅛. Real estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred again led in volume, 147 shares transferring at 7¼, last sale price. Seventy-one shares of Mergenthaler Linotype sold at 105⅝, fractional gain.

New Honor for A. O. Dooley.

Additional honor and responsibility were conferred yesterday on Aubrey O. Dooley, assistant trust officer, Federal-American National Bank, when President Wilmer J. Waller, District of Columbia Bankers Association, announced that beginning with the August issue, Mr. Dooley will take over the edition of the association's publication, The Monthly Bulletin.

Mr. Dooley, who has been editor in chief of Banks and Sense, publication of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, which was voted the best institute publication in America at the institute's national convention at Tulsa, Okla., in June, is also editor in chief of the yearbook of the chapter and its second vice president.

George O. Vass, vice president, Riggs National Bank, and former chairman of the association's publicity committee, presented a recommendation that The Monthly Bulletin be enlarged, at the association's annual convention at Montauk Beach, N. Y., last month, and this action is now under consideration.

President Waller also announced appointment of L. E. Schreiner, vice president, Dupont Circle Branch, Merchants Bank & Trust Co., as chairman of the publicity committee for the new administrative year.

Eliot H. Thomson, Washington Loan & Trust Co. official, will be retained as chairman of the advertising committee, he having prepared plans for a six-month campaign for the association involving newspaper, radio, literature and essay contest features, which will be acted upon immediately.

Edson B. Olds, vice president and treasurer of the Union Trust Co., will succeed Edward L. Hillyer, vice president and second assistant trust officer of the same institution, as chairman of the association's auditing committee. Mr. Hillyer has been in ill health for some time.

J. D. Leonard Observes Birthday.

John D. Leonard, vice president and treasurer of the Washington Savings Bank, has just celebrated his fifty-fourth birthday. A lawyer and banker as well, Mr. Leonard was graduated from Georgetown Law School and was admitted to the District bar in 1894.

He organized the Washington Savings Bank in 1917 and became its first president, later turning over the office to Thomas E. Jarrell. Always interested in the District of Columbia Bankers Association, Mr. Leonard has never missed an annual convention of that body.

Directors Are Chosen.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the National Union Fire Insurance Co. of Washington, chartered by special act of United States Congress in 1865, held yesterday, the following directors were chosen for the ensuing year:

Charles R. Brown, Floyd E. Davis, Albert F. Fox, Charles E. Galliher, Holcombe G. Johnson, J. Leo Kolb, John B. Larner, Walter S. Pratt, jr., B. F. Saul and John C. Weedon.

The board subsequently organized with the selection of the following officers: A. F. Fox, president; B. F. Saul and John B. Larner, vice presidents; William H. Somervell, secretary, and William H. Marbury, assistant secretary.

Mr. Fox, the president, has served continuously in that capacity since 1902 after having served as vice president since 1891. Mr. Larner was elected vice president to fill the vacancy created by the recent death of W. T. Galliher.

New Securities Issue Offered.

A new issue of $20,000,000 Cities Service Power & Light Co. 5½ per cent gold debentures is being offered by Harris, Forbes & Co., the National City Co., Guaranty Co. of New York and Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., priced at 93 and interest to yield about 6⅛ per cent. The issue is dated June 1, 1929 and due 1949.

Over $15,000,000 of the proceeds of this financing will be used to provide funds or to reimburse the company for the acquisition or retirement of funded debt or preferred stocks of subsidiaries outstanding on December 31, 1928, and to retire short term indebtedness of the company.

The company will agree to make available semiannually beginning December 1, 1930, funds sufficient to retire 1 per cent of these debentures at the time outstanding if obtainable during specified periods by purchase at or below 100 and accrued interest.

Close of the best six months' period for earnings in the 22 years of the institutions' history was announced yesterday at the Bank of Commerce & Savings.

The Park Savings Bank pays its 5 per cent semiannual dividend July 10, to shareholders of record on July 1.

Joseph Sanders, vice president of the Bank of Commerce & Savings, is spending a two months' vacation at Glacier Park.

Gerald H. Trimble, secretary of the F. H. Smith Co., has returned to the office after extended motor trip through New England.

Daniel R. Crissinger, chairman of the executive committee of the F. H. Smith Co., and former governor of the Federal Reserve Board, is on a business trip in the middle West.

Samuel J. Henry, president of the F. H. Smith Co., spent the week-end at the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va.

The first meeting of the board of governors of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, for the 1929-30 administrative year, will be held tomorrow evening at the Manor Club, beginning at 5:30 o'clock.

NEWS OF THE LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

LETTER THREATENS POISON CASE SHERIFF

Will Die if Mrs. Stone Pays With Life for Crime, Writer Asserts.

AUTHOR THOUGHT KNOWN

Special to The Washington Post.

Belair, Md., July 8.—A death threat has been received by Sheriff Dewey Bowman, custodian of the Harford County jail, dependent upon whether Mrs. Hattie Stone, who is held on a charge of murder, "dies" for the poisoning she is alleged to have committed, it was learned today.

The threat came in the form of an unsigned letter. The writer declared that he and not Mrs. Stone is the poisoner. He defied the sheriff to catch him.

This is the second note of the sort received by Sheriff Bowman and both have been postmarked at Baltimore. The sheriff said that he believes he knows who is the author of the notes and that the matter is being investigated.

Mrs. Stone is accused of poisoning her son, George, 15 years old, who died on June 4. The deaths of three other members of her family, all of which occurred in the last four years, under strangely similar circumstances, are also being investigated.

Accused of Poisoning Son.

Sheriff Bowman is not worried over the threats against his life. He regards them as a joke or the outburst of some crank. Both letters were penned in an easily legible hand on a fair quality of writing paper and the sheriff believes both came from the same person. The last one read:

"If Mrs. Stone dies, you will die also. I am the one you are looking for and Mrs. Stone is innocent."

Here the writing was interrupted by an awkward ink sketch of a black hand, and in a postscript below it the writer challenged the sheriff to—

"Try and get me."

Many Cranks Write.

Numerous letters, most of which came from cranks, have been received by the authorities since Mrs. Stone was arrested on June 12, and Mrs. Stone herself receives a heavy mail in her cell almost daily.

Most of her communications come from sympathizers, but a few have come from persons who were violently antagonistic. One writer recently wrote to tell her that she "ought to be at the bottom of the ocean."

Mrs. Stone is also unworried by her correspondence. The prisoners are painting the jail and Mrs. Stone has helped by lending a hand with the whitewashing in her own cell tier. She has worked leisurely with a brush for the exercise it affords.

Autopsy Reports Are Secret.

Dr. Charles P. Foley, whose reports to the authorities started the Stone investigation, declined today to make public the reports of two autopsies that were sent to him over the week-end by Dr. Howard Maldeis, Baltimore postmortem physician.

The autopsies were performed by Dr. Maldeis, with Dr. Foley's assistance, on the bodies of Mrs. Stone's husband, Edward, and their eldest son, Edgar, whose stomachs are being analyzed for poison. Dr. Foley said he prefers to withhold the autopsy reports until he gets the chemists' reports on the analyses.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS CONVENE IN VIRGINIA

Hundreds Attend Baltimore Conference Sessions at Massanetta Springs.

CAPITAL IS REPRESENTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 8.—The fifteenth annual assembly of the Baltimore Conference Epworth League convened at Massanetta Springs tonight as more than 300 Methodist young men and women took possesion of the summer Bible encampment, near Harrisonburg. The Epworth Leaguers will be in session until Sunday evening.

The Methodist assembly follows the Intermediate Boys and Girls Camp, which was held at Massanetta last week under the auspices of the Virginia Synod of the Presbyterian Church. With a registration of 427, the camp was said to have been the largest religious gathering of its kind ever conducted in the South.

At the Epworth League assembly are delegations from all sections of Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, which are embraced in the Baltimore Methodist Conference. Col. Joseph H. Gudlipp, of Baltimore, who conducted the camp last week, remains as recreational director of the young people.

E. Lewis Knowles, of Staunton, is president of the Baltimore Conference Epworth League conducting the assembly, with Miss Maude I. O'Flaherty, Washington, vice president; Joseph M. Balthis, jr., Washington, secretary, and Charles C. Lankford, Roanoke, treasurer.

The morning sessions of the assembly will be devoted to classes on missions and methods, with the afternoons given over to recreation. Inspirational services in the open air auditorium feature the evening programs. The annual conference banquet is on the program for tomorrow evening.

Presbyterian young men and women from all parts of Virginia and adjacent States will convene at Massanetta next week.

Cumberland Fishermen Catch Record-Sized Bass

Cumberland, Md., July 8.—Some fine bass are being caught by anglers in this neighborhood. Emil Haselberger, North Mechanic street, caught one in Lake Gordon, the source of Cumberland's water supply, that weighed 5 pounds and measured 22 inches. In addition Haselberger landed five other bass of a total weight of 14¾ pounds.

John H. McCullough caught a bass in the South Branch of the Potomac near Messick's that weighed 4½ pounds. He had an hour's battle before the fish was landed. Berkeley Springs fishermen have been unusually lucky. W. O. Hughes landed one that weighed 3½ pounds. Cletes Brakeall got two, one weighing 4¾ pounds and the other 2¾ pounds. Louis Buzzard got a 2-pounder.

Physician Kills Himself In Nervous Breakdown

Toms River, N. J., July 8 (A.P.).—Dr. Ambler Baxter Patton, 45, until recently head of sanatoriums at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Battle Creek, Mich., committed suicide today by taking poison in his cell in the county jail.

Dr. Patton, who had suffered a nervous breakdown, was sent to jail yesterday after brandishing a razor while chasing his wife from their summer home at Seaside Park. During recent fits of melancholy, neighbors said, Dr. Patton often broke into violence.

Dr. Patton once practiced at Hendersonville, N. C.

Nabscott Mine Safety Team Contest Winner

Special to The Washington Post.

Mount Hope, W. Va., July 8.—The Safety team of Mabscott mine of New River Coal Co., by a perfect score, won first honors in the first annual New River and Winding Gulf coal fields' mine safety day. Forty-seven teams took part, directed by Robert Lilly, of Mount Hope, State mine inspector. The team representing Tamroy mine of the McKell Coal & Coke Co. took second place, while other teams represented among the five winners were Spragg mine, New River Coal & Coke Co.; Siltix mine, McKell Coal & Coke Co., and Standard mines, of the Koppers Co.

Teams entered by the C. C. & B. Smokeless Coal Co. mines at Stotesbury and Glen White took first and second places in the boys' division. One woman's team, representing the MacDonald Coal Co., at MacDonald, was entered in the contest. First among negro teams was taken by the Winding Gulf Colleries team, while second place went to the Rock-Lick mine team.

3 Gas Franchises Let in Maryland

Other Towns Also Expected to Take Favorable Action Soon.

Special to The Washington Post.

Grantsville, Md., July 8.—Favorable action on the granting of franchises to the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co., of Pittsburgh, calling for the introduction of natural gas, has been taken by the town authorities of Grantsville, Meyerdale and Berlin. It is expected the councils of Salisbury and Rockwood will also take favorable action and the laying of gas mains will start in the near future.

The company desires to extend the service to Somerset also, but the Somerset authorities granted a franchise to another corporation some time ago that bars similar enterprises for the next three years. The council, however, is trying to have the existing franchise, which has remained unused, abrogated, and, if successful, will welcome the advent of the Manufacturers Heat & Light Co.

The company recently purchased the old Standard Oil Co.'s pipe line, which follows the Mason and Dixon line across the southern part of Pennsylvania, and is now engaged in cleaning it and placing it in condition for the conveying of natural gas from its fields in western Pennsylvania.

MARYLAND'S RURAL CARRIERS CONVENE

Numerous Speeches Are Made as Association and Auxiliary Meet in Frederick.

ELECTION SET FOR TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 8.—The twenty-sixth annual convention of the Maryland Rural Letter Carriers Association and the Ladies Auxiliary was begun at the Francis Scott Key Hotel today and will continue tomorrow. Both bodies met at the opening session, after which separate business sessions convened. A joint banquet was held this evening at 8 o'clock. Frederick N. Zihlman, of the Sixth district, made an address.

The first session was called to order by H. C. Swemley, Ijamsville, president of the county association. After invocation by the Rev. Charles D. Shaffer, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Mayor Lloyd C. Culler made an address of welcome, with response by William C. Stevens, president of the State association. Addresses were made by Irving S. Biser, postmaster of Frederick, and Mrs. J. K. Marshall, president of the national organization and State president of the Ladies Auxiliary. Both bodies held business sessions, consisting of appointment of committees, report of committees and report of officers.

The first session of the auxiliary was presided over by Mrs. Samuel D. Crone, president of the Frederick County Auxiliary, who also made the address of welcome. Mrs. J. F. Markline, State secretary-treasurer, responded. Gavels were presented to both State presidents at today's sessions.

Tomorrow's session will be occupied with reports of standing committees, special committees, election of officers and delegates and the selection of a place for next year's convention. The new officers will be installed immediately after their election. The officers of the State Association are: President, W. C. Stevens, Queen Anne County; vice president, Samuel D. Crone, Frederick; secretary, T. G. Kiler, Westminster, and treasurer, G. E. Smith, New Windsor.

Officers of the auxiliary: Mrs. J. K. Marshall, president; Mrs. Fetter Newbell, vice president, and Mrs. J. F. Markline, secretary-treasurer.

Dry Raiders Removed In Fear of Violence

Oklahoma City, July 8 (A.P.).—Fearing possible mob violence in Tecumseh, officials brought W. W. Thomason, Federal prohibition enforcement officer, and three "under cover" workers, Jeff D. Harris, Tom Little and John D. Williams, charged with the killing of James Harris in a liquor raid July 4, to the Oklahoma County Jail here.

Jeff Harris also is charged with the killing of Oscar Lowery, brother-in-law of James Harris, who was wounded fatally in the same raid. The four will be kept here until tomorrow, when they will be arraigned at Tecumseh.

BALTIMOREAN SAVED FROM DEATH IN RIVER

Former Capital Man Dives Into Severn to Rescue Real Estate Operator.

EMPTY BOAT IS OBSERVED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 8.—A thrilling rescue from drowning in Upper Severn River Sunday was revealed today with the return of a party of week-end sojourners. Earl S. Hopkins, 35, formerly of Washington, manager of the Hopkins Furniture Store in Main street, this city, essayed the role of hero when he dived overboard from a moving motorboat and saved J. Irving Bealmar, 50, Baltimore real estate man. Mr. Hopkins in turn nearly succumbed from exhaustion.

Mr. Hopkins and a party of friends were in a motorboat when he observed an empty boat. It was found to contain a straw hat, a watch, ring and other personal belongings. A few minutes later and about half a mile distant an object was seen bobbing up and down on the water's surface.

Without waiting until the motorboat approached, Mr. Hopkins went overboard and swam toward the object, which developed to be a man's body, face downward.

Hopkins took hold of the seemingly lifeless form and swam with it to the motorboat. First aid was immediately applied by Hopkins and his friends until they reached the north shore of the river, when physicians were called. Resuscitation methods were continued with success.

It was not until then that the identity of the man was learned. Still in a dazed condition, Mr. Bealmar was removed to the home of J. T. Pond at Sherwood Forest.

How Bealmar got overboard is not known. Friends say he left Sherwood Forest to row to Round Bay, about 2½ miles distant. He was fully clothed. The theory is that he was overcome by the heat and reeled over the side of the boat. His head was badly cut and bruised. Meanwhile Bealmar is improving, but is unable to tell what happened.

Mining Engineer Dies In West Virginia Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 8.—When their automobile rounded a curve and plunged over a bridge into Lynch Run, 3 miles out of Sand Fork, Clete Hosey, 42, engineer for the J. T. Coal Co. at Glimer Station, was killed and his companion, Cecil Detamore, 32, an electrician for the same company, was injured seriously late yesterday. Hosey leaves three small children.

WILL LAST TWO WEEKS

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 8.—The Blue Mountain Conference of the Episcopal Church, embracing Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and parts of Delaware, met in annual session at Hood College this evening and will continue sessions two weeks. About 160 persons registered in the afternoon and 100 more are expected tomorrow and the next day.

The first meeting was presided over by the president, the Right Rev. Walter H. Overs, Jamestown, N. Y., a former Bishop of Liberia. He referred to the courses of study and outlined the work of the conference. At tomorrow evening's meeting he will introduce the missionaries.

Beginning tomorrow, Holy Communion will be administered each morning followed by study class periods, recreation, church organizations, assemblies on the campus in the afternoon. A sunset service and evening meeting will be held each evening.

The study courses cover all fields of church activity and the faculty represents all types of thought. The general subjects include: Fundamentals of Christian doctrine, Bible and prayer book study, women's work in the church, American church history, the church and the community, Bible teaching, child study, the use of the Bible in teaching, missions and other training for field, church and Sunday School work. The instructors include the Rev. John W. Suter, jr., executive secretary of the department of religious education; W. H. Jeffries, superintendent of the Philadelphia Protestant Episcopal City Mission; the Rev. Granville H. William, rector of St. Paul's Church, Brooklyn; Lewis B. Franklin, vice president and treasurer of the National Council; Miss Edna B. Beardsley, assistant secretary Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council; the Rev. C. Leslie Glenn, secretary of college work, department of religious education, National Council; the Rev. Alexander C. Zabriskie, assistant professor in American church history, Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va.; the Rev. C. Sturges Ball, professor of ecclesiastical history, Rexley Hall, Gambier, Ohio; the Right Rev. Robert E. Lee Strider, bishop coadjustor of West Virginia; Mrs. R. B. Ramage, educational secretary of the Diocese of Mississippi; the Rev. William B. Spofford, executive secretary of the Church League for Industrial Democracy; Deaconess Frances Rose Edwards, secretary for curriculum, department of religious education, National Council; the Rev. Frederick E. Seymour, director of religious education of the Diocese of Pennsylvania; the Rev. Charles T. Webb, St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H. A school of religious drama will be taught by Miss Joy Higgins, of New York and Boston. A new feature will be a children's conference in charge of Deaconess Edwards.

Organizations and groups that will hold meetings on the campus include the Women's Auxiliary, Church School Girls Friendly Society, Daughters of the King, Young People's Fellowship, Church Periodical Club, Altar Guild, St. Barnabas Guild and Church Mission of Help. The governing board is composed of Dr. Overs, president; the Rev. Nathaniel B. Groton, Whitmarsh, Pa., executive officer; Marcellin C. Adams, Pittsburgh, treasurer; Miss Lily Cheston, Philadelphia, secretary. The Right Rev. Hugh L. Burleson, the Right Rev. James H. Darlington, the Rev. Dr. William L. Devres, the Most Rev. John Gardner Murray, and the Right Rev. Robert E. L. Strider, Bishop Coadjutor of West Virginia, are honorary vice presidents.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 8.—Viola Gentry, aviatrix, who was injured recently when her endurance plane crashed, killing Jack Ashcroft, probably will recover, her father, B. G. Gentry, here has been informed. She has developed no internal injuries and it is doubted if her skull is fractured. The father has been in touch with the Nashua Hospital authorities, at Mineola, N. Y., where his daughter is being treated. She has not been told Ashcroft was killed and is being led to believe that he is also a patient in the hospital.

Charles Harr Suffers Stroke in Street; Dies

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 8.—Charles Harr, 53, building contractor, died suddenly on the street here this afternoon from heart lesion. Mr. Harr had been ill and had spent home time in Florida. It is believed the heat superinduced the attack. Mr. Harr was a native of Canaan Valley, near Davis, W. Va., where his father, four brothers and several sisters live. He is survived by his wife, Nina M. Harr.

Mr. Harr was once in the lumber business and in youth was noted for his feats of strength. With the late John W. Jenkins he operated the Blackwater Hotel at Davis. Later he and Jenkins built the Hotel Gassaway at Elkins, W. Va. Of late years he had lived in Cumberland.

Boy, 14, Badly Hurt When Hit With Board Containing Nail

Takoma Park Man Sought by Police After Altercation at Swimming Hole; Three Stitches Taken in Victim's Face and Tetanus Is Feared.

Philip Cissel, 14 years old, 409 Pine street, Silver Spring, Md., was seriously injured yesterday when he was struck in the face with a board which had a nail implanted in it. The assault occurred while the Cissel boy and a group of other youngsters were disporting themselves in a swimming hole at Poplar Rock, about 100 yards from the Sligo avenue, in the Sligo Branch, near Silver Spring.

According to the story told to Policeman Joseph Nolte, of the Silver Spring substation, Montgomery County police, Lester Beach, 1112 Flower avenue, Takoma Park, Md., had engaged in an altercation with the boy's brother and Philip interfered, telling the older man to leave his brother alone. Beach is alleged to have picked up the board and to have hit young Cissel in the face with it. The nail entered the boy's jaw and protruedd into his mouth. An inch higher would have struck his eye and possibly penetrated his brain, police say.

Young Cissel was taken to the office of Dr. H. H. Howlett at Silver Spring. Dr. Howlett took three stitches in the boy's face and injected antitetanus fluid. As the nail was rusty, there is serious danger of tetanus, the doctor said.

Policeman Nolte went to Beach's home and was told by his wife that her husband was not at home. Police had been unable to find him at a late hour last night. Beach originally came from Virginia.

EDUCATORS READY FOR JULY MEETING

North Carolina Conference to Convene Thursday in Chapel Hill.

CHILD PROBLEM IS TOPIC

Chapel Hill, N. C., July 8 (A.P.).—The North Carolina Conference on Elementary education will meet for its fifth annual session here at the University of North Carolina July 11 and 12.

M. C. S. Noble, jr., of the State department of public instruction, has been organizing the meeting. He was in Chapel Hill recently to complete arrangements. A. T. Allen, State superintendent of public instruction, and N. W. Walker, dean of the University school of education, are Mr. Noble's associates on the executive committee of the conference.

The first session will be held the night of July 11 with the subject being "Solving Problems of Retardation in the Elementary Schools in Such Way as to Further Child Development." There will be morning, afternoon and night sessions July 12.

Officers who will preside at the sessions are: E. J. Coltrane, superintendent of the Roanoke Rapids public school; Dr. John Carr, of Duke University; Guy B. Phillips, superintendent of the Greensboro public schools and J. T. Jerome, superintendent of the Wayne County Public Schools, of Goldsboro.

Child development will be the central theme of the conference.

Included among those listed to address the conference are: Dr. W. H. Frazer, president of Queens College, Charlotte; Dr. Robert H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers college; Dean Walker and Dr. Allen.

Cunningham Wins Riding Tournament

Victorious Knights Crown Ladies Queens at Cumberland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 8.—At an old-fashioned riding tournament at Headsville, attended by several thousand persons, V. W. Cunningham, as Knight of the Old Dominion, won first honors and crowned Mrs. Cunningham queen. Adam Fisher crowned Miss Lucy Shobe, of Petersburg, first maid; S. L. Ludwig crowned Mrs. Ludwig second maid; J. E. Sheets, of Keyser, crowned Eva Lee Sheets third maid, and Victor Barr crowned Miss Nellie Pratt fourth maid. Seventeen knights participated and the winning knight was awarded a pair of silver candlesticks to be presented to the queen. Adam Fisher was judged the best horseman and given a badge. Victor Barr was second and R. S. Stimbmel third.

An interesting feature was the riding of the older men, some having been in jousts nearly 50 years ago. Seymour Fisher, who achieved first honors, crowned Mrs. Seymour queen. H. T. Stallings, Medley, crowned Mrs. Stallings first maid; J. K. Staggers, Reeses Mill, crowned Mrs. Staggers second maid; J. W. Carskadon, Headsville, crowned Mrs. Carskadon third maid, and Heber Parsons, Romney, crowned Mrs. Parsons fourth maid. The charge to the knights was delivered by Judge G. K. Kump, of Romney.

Large Reunion Held By Maryland Families

Special to The Washington Post.

Grantsville, Md., July 8.—The annual reunion of the Poorbaugh family, held on the Nelson Poorbaugh farm at Mount Pleasant, drew a large assemblage. Several hundred persons attended.

The Musser family reunion was held at Berlin with a large attendance. Among those who made addresses were James Q. Musser, Clarksburg, W. Va.; the Rev. Croner Musser and Prof. J. C. Werner. The next reunion will be held at Tipp's Inn, near Berlin. All the old officers were reelected.

The reunion of the Brant clan will be held at Landis Park, near Berlin, July 20. An elaborate program is being arranged. H. Lincoln Brant is president and Charles H. Brant, secretary. The first annual reunion of the Miller clan will be held at Glades Grove, the old Miller homestead on the Roxbury-Reel highway, July 28.

Victim of Auto Crash In Maryland Is Dead

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 8.—After remaining unconscious nearly 48 hours, James Harold Watson, 26, of Ridgely, died in Allegany Hospital today from concussion of the brain and other injuries received when the car in which he and Jack Corrigan, this city, crashed into a culvert on the Frankfort road, 4 miles south of this city. Corrigan, who sustained cuts and bruises about the head and face, was able to leave the hospital.

According to T. M. Carder, who lives near the scene of the mishap, several residents of the neighborhood heard the noise of the crash, but did not investigate. Carder found Watson lying unconscious beside the machine. He found Corrigan asleep in the barn. Both Mineral County authorities and West Virginia State police are making an investigation.

ROCKVILLE'S ZONING ORDINANCE PLANNED

Chief Engineer Root Begins Work on Map of County Seat's Areas.

AIRPORT RULING ASKED

Chief Engineer Irving C. Root, of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, has started preparing a model zoning ordinance for Rockville. The last session of the State legislature passed an enabling act which authorized the mayor and town council to ordain such a law.

Engineer Root is making a preliminary survey of the town and its industrial and residential centers which will be plotted as the basis for the actual zoning map. The residential, commercial and industrial areas will be shown so that the whole situation can be easily summarized in the report to the town council.

Mr. Root expects to have prepared a workable ordinance within a month. Public notice will then be given and a public hearing held.

Mr. Root also is preparing an amended zoning ordinance for the Metropolitan area of Montgomery and Prince Georges counties which will be similar to the Rockville ordinance.

Congressional Airport, Inc., has asked that its property at Halpine, Md., be recognized commercial, in order that an administration building, a beacon and a gasoline filling station can be erected. The request has been made to the Maryland National Park and Planning Commission by Paul Horton, president of the company.

Mr. Horton declared that the buildings and equipment at the field are being erected in accordance with specifications approved by the Department of Commerce and that the airport will prove an important auxiliary to land and naval air forces, which often find landing conditions difficult at their own stations at Bolling Field because of fog. He said Bolling Field was not navigable 81 days last year because of fog.

Capt. George Zinn, 50, Dies in Philadelphia

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., July 9.—News was received here today of the death of Capt. George Zinn, 50 years old, Sunday night in a Philadelphia hospital. Services will be held tomorrow afternoon at his late home at Rydal, Pa.

Capt. Zinn had been in failing health for some months but was seriously ill only a few weeks. He was a son of the late George Zinn, of Harrisburg, Pa., who was a general in the Northern army, and of the late Mrs. William du Pont, of Delaware and Virginia. He was born in Wilmington but spent much of his boyhood at Gaston Hall, his maternal home near Somerset, Va., and at Montpelier, summer home of his stepfather.

He was educated at the University of Virginia and served as captain in the United States Army throughout the World War. He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Flora Cameron, daughter of the late Alexander Cameron, of Richmond and Gordonsville, and a son, George Zinn, jr. He also leaves a half sister, and a half brother.

Cumberland Kiwanis Vote $300 to Hospital

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 8.—The Cumberland Kiwanis Club has voted $300 toward furnishing a room in the new Memorial Hospital, which will open about August 1. The club also voted to subscribe an amount from the Kiwanis fund sufficient to send six children to the Clairburne Preventorium—this for undernourished children.

The Rev. Edward H. Roach, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church here for five years, transferred to St. Matthew's Church, Washington, D. C., was unanmously voted an honorary life membership in the Cumberland Kiwanis Club.

West Virginian Is Dead After Auto Accident

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville Va., July 8.—Carl Thomas McCambridge, of Waynesboro, W. Va., who sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries in an automobile accident last Thursday on the Waynesboro Stuart's Draft road, died last night at University Hospital. He never regained consciousness.

Two other victims of the accident, Carl and Lite Norman, are in a critical condition at a Staunton Hospital. The machine in which the trio was riding crashed into a tree. All were employes of the Du Pont Rayon Plant at Basic.

Aged Maryland Resident Dies Near Selbysport

Special to The Washington Post.

Selbysport, Md., July 8.—Harrison Heinbaugh died at his home at Guard, this county, near Selbysport, aged 88. He engaged in the milling business at Guard for many years and after giving up that business on account of his health, carried the mail from Guard to Geices Station. The mill, which he operated, was destroyed by fire not quite a year ago. He is survived by two sons and two daughters. His funeral was held today.

VIRGINIA FARM MEN FIGHT RAIL INCREASE

Seek Reopening by I. C. C. of Ground Limestone Tariff Case.

WILL MEET ON THURSDAY

Richmond, Va., July 8 (A.P.).—The State Corporation Commission is asked on behalf of Virginia farmers to again petition the Interstate Commerce Commission in the hope of obtaining a reopening of the ground limestone rate case.

The request is contained in a resolution adopted by a committee of farmers which is to reconvene here Thursday. At this planned session an attempt will be made to further combat a recent authorization of increased rates from certain Virginia points, the increase ranging from 20 to 71 per cent.

Railroads operating in this State, following the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, petitioned the State Corporation Commission to increase the rates on limestone from all other points in the State, and the State commission fixed July 22 as the day on which it would hold a hearing on the petition.

In adopting their resolution, the farmers declared that the decision had been made without their being advised or invited to participate in the deliberations of the Virginia commission.

Members of the farmers' committee to meet here July 11 are: Former Gov. Westmoreland Davis, of Leesburg; Harvey S. Clapp, of Accotink; Daniel Porter, of Orange; Carl Nolting, of Trevilians, and James H. Quisenberry, of Frederick Hall, together with W. G. Wysor, of Richmond, as treasurer.

Those signing the petition are Westmoreland Davis, Leesburg, Virginia Agricultural Board, Harvey S. Clapp, president, Accotink; Virginia Crop Improvement Association, Harvey S. Clapp, president; W. L. Kirby, Producers Cooperative Exchange, Richmond; Daniel L. Porter, Orange, member of the House of Delegates Orange and Madison Counties; Peter O. Jacobson, president, Peninsula Dairymen's Association, Norge; E. Marshall Newton, Markham, Upper Fauquier Shippers Association; A. F. Howard, Charlottesville, president, Virginia Dairy Producers Association; W. G. Wysor, general manager, Virginia Seed Service, Inc., Richmond; C. M. Garnett, Albemarle Dairy Association, Charlottesville; T. K. Wolfe, editor Southern Planter, Richmond; W. W. Sproul, chairman, State Board of Agriculture, Middlebrook; B. Morgan Shepherd, chairman, board of directors, Farmers Cooperative and Educational Union of America, Virginia division; William R. Wright, president, Virginia State Poultry Federation, Route 8, Richmond; J. H. Quisenberry, Virginia Agricultural Extension Division, Frederick Hall; Frank Michaux, county agent, Powhatan; Charles W. Richards, county agent, Amelia; Carl H. Nolting, Trevillians, Louisa County; D. French Slaughter, Mitchells, Culpeper County; M. A. Mahoney, Mitchells; H. H. Wallace, Winston, Culpeper County; Mrs. Gertrude Morgan, Warfield, Brunswick County; John R. Gwathmey, Aylett, King William County; Earl Morgan, Warfield, Brunswick; L. M. Walker, jr., agricultural agent, Chamber of Commerce, Richmond; J. A. Frazier, Mitchells; D. D. Sizer, county agent, Palmyra; Millwood Farms, Herndon Sizer, manager, Aylett, King William County; R. B. Hudgins, county agent, Appomatox, representing the grange of Appomatox County, and agricultural advisory board; T. O. Scott, county agent, Charlottesville; George T. Carr, Charlottesville, Albemarle Dairy Association.

2 States to Mark U. S. Road Opening

North Carolina and Virginia Governors to Attend Martinsville Fete.

Martinsville, Va., July 8 (A.P.).—The governors of two States—Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and O. Max Gardner of North Carolina—will participate in exercises planned to celebrate here on July 20 the opening of U. S. Route 311 from the North Carolina line to Roanoke, officials said today.

Plans are rapidly being completed for the celebration, which is expected to attract delegations of officials and citizens from numerous communities in both North Carolina and Virginia. The entire delegation of the Virginia Press Association, to meet in annual convention in Danville, is expected to come to Martinsville for the road opening.

The completion and opening of Route 311 gives another main line route South from Roanoke into North Catrolina. The highway is by way of Rocky Mount and Martinsville and connects with Winston-Salem, in North Carolina.

Purcellville Minister Gets Historic Church

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., July 8.—The Rev. Henry Heaton, who was graduated from the Theological Seminary in Alexandria in June, has gone to Widewater, Stafford County, Va., where he will take up ministerial duties at Aquia and Clifton Episcopal Churches. Aquia is said to be the most historic building in Stafford, having been built in 1757.

Aquia has been called the best specimen of colonial church architecture in Virginia. Its original three-tier pulpit, one of the two left in America, still remains.

Lynchburg Policemen Report Busy Month

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., July 8.—Eighty-five drunks and 138 traffic ordinance violation defendants were tried in the municipal court here during June, the monthly report of the police department shows.

There were 21 persons on the docket charged with violating the prohibition law.
